PRESIDENT PREPARING TO CONTROL COAL

EXECUTIVE HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH DIRECTOR HOOVER

Then Consults Trade Commission as to His Authority Under the
New Food Control Law.

WILL MAKE COAL REPORT IN FEW DAYS

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Wilson went to the food administration today for a personal conference with Herbert C. Hoover and later went to the federal trade commission. It was believed the president discussed the coal situation and the extent to which he would assume the powers to control distribution vested in him by the food bill.

Under the law the president may fix price of coal, operate the mines or commandeer stocks and sell to the public. Some decision of which course he will pursue is expected as the result of today's conference which were based on the federal trade commission's now completed report on the coal situation.

At the federal trade commission the president went over the figures gathered on cost of producing coal. The trend of the commission's report on the subject was to urge the president to take

Summary of the Day's War News

Another effort was made early today by the Germans to recapture the ground taken by the British in their successful attack in the vicinity of Lens, giving them control of dominating positions. The British war office reports that sharp fighting occurred northwest of Lens and that once more the attack of the Germans was repulsed completely. The Germans continue to pound the British positions heavily with their artillery. In the vicinity of Ypres also the big German guns kept up a lively fire but no infantry attacks are reported.

A naval battle in German waters between British and German light sea forces is reported by the British admiralty. While the British were scouting a German bay on Thursday they sighted a German destroyer, which was badly damaged. Two German mine sweepers also were damaged.

Indiana Statesman, Whose

NO ARRANGEMENTS

Death Came to Him at Asheville, Where He Had Gone to Seek Health.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 18.—The body of John W. Kern, former United States senator from Indiana, who died here last night, was sent early today to Hollins, Va., the late senator's summer home, where burial will take place. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today when those in charge of the body left here.

Mr. Kern died at an Asheville hospital from uraemic poisoning after an illness lasting since Thursday. Mrs. Kern and her daughter, Mrs. George H. Lawson, of Roanoke, Va., were with him at his death.

Senator Kern was 68 years old. Mr. Kern, who came here a week ago to recuperate, died of uraemic poisoning. With him at the time of his death were Mrs. Kern and Mrs. George H. Lawson, a daughter, of Roanoke, Va.

New York, Aug. 18.—The arrest of Heinrich S. Ficke, the auditor in this city of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, as an alien enemy was expected to be followed today by the detention of numerous other men, all of whom probably will be interned until the end of the war. Ficke was arrested last night by United States Marshal Power, who said: "Through his arrest and others to be made soon, the leak to Germany will be stopped."

The marshal added that he was satisfied with the facts in his possession and that he had ample authority to act under President Wilson's proclamation, relating to dangerous aliens.

The Ficke home on Staten Island is only a short distance from Fort Wadsworth, one of the main fortifications guarding the harbor approach to New York city. From the house, it was said all ships leaving New York during the day can be seen and a short journey to St. George or Stapleton

THRILLING DIVE AND MINACULOUS ESCAPE IS THIS

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—Andrew Lassinsky, a Russian worker, the roof of Philadelphia's big city hall, escaped death yesterday by an almost miraculous circumstance. A scaffold from which he was working, 160 feet from the ground, gave way and he fell head-first and with feet dangling outward. Sixty feet down a single, one-inch rope from another scaffold hung like a hangman's noose. By a spectacular trick of fate, one of Lassinsky's flying legs went into it and drew the noose tight. His fall was stopped with a jerk and he hung head downward, swinging in space.

The man managed to swing himself back and forward till he found a resting place on the ledge of a window, not big enough to permit him to get inside the building. Workmen tore away the window sides and pulled him to safety.

Loving Free Countries of

CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, famous writer for the Daily Sentinel has spent three months in Russia as a member of the American commission to the new Russian government, which was headed by E. D. Root. His opportunities for observation and investigation of Russian conditions were unparalleled, as all the resources of the provisional government were placed at his disposal. The commission has just returned to this country, and Russell, after closing his immediate official business, has started to write the truth about Russia. This is the second article; watch for others.

If you want to get Russia straight in your mind you must begin with the first foundation fact, which is this: The revolution there was different from any other revolution. All the rest have been political. This

Copenhagen, Aug. 18.—The German foreign office is not yet ready to announce the government's standpoint on the pope's peace proposals and an answer probably will be delayed considerably while the four central powers are endeavoring to reconcile somewhat divergent views and interests regarding peace.

A cordial article in the Cologne Gazette perhaps presages the German point of view by declaring it is the duty of all governments to support any effort at honorable mediation and pointing out that the pope's action is in line with previous efforts of Germany.

It is evident that Austria-Hungary will throw its full weight in favor of an affirmative answer to the pope's proposal, just as Bulgaria, which recently

The Only Alternative Will Be

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The coal situation in Illinois remained unsettled today, the public hearing on price-fixing by Justice O. N. Carter, director of coal, having been adjourned until next Monday. Justice Carter, acting under instructions from Governor Frank O. Lowden, has announced he will proceed with the hearing until all sides have presented their cases, after which he will set a price for fuel at the mine mouth, unless such power has in the meantime been assumed by the federal government. The coal operators have publicly repudiated an agreement reached with Governor Lowden last week which resulted in the appointment of Justice Carter as state coal director with authority to fix prices.

Their action caused Governor Lowden to consider seizure of mine properties in the state, to which end he has called upon State Attorney General Brundage for information as to the procedure to follow. Governor Low-

GRAND DUKE MAY BE WAITING FOR A TURN OF TIDE

Petrograd, Aug. 17.—Grand Duke Michael, according to the Bourse Gazette, has rejected the suggestion that he go to England to live, declaring he could not leave Russia until the constituent assembly has determined the future form of government.

It will be remembered that Grand Duke Michael made at the beginning of the revolution a provisional renunciation of his claim to imperial succession, declaring he will only accept the throne if called by the people.

The Bourse Gazette says there were persistent rumors a few days before the transfer of ex-emperor Nicholas from Tsarskoe Selo that Grand Duke Michael had departed for England. Investigation proved he had been given the option of going there but refused to do so until the question of regime was settled.

Rigaud, via Montreal, Aug. 18.—The great plant here of Curtis & Harvey, Ltd., explosive manufacturers, was wrecked by a series of terrific explosions early today. Buried beneath the ruins of a dozen or so structures that comprised the factory are an unknown number of dead.

Several thousand male and female workers employed at the plant were in the danger zone for hours.

An early estimate based on first reports placed the number of killed at about 250, but indications were this afternoon that there were comparatively few casualties.

A relief train arrived from Montreal at noon bringing doctors and nurses, but owing to the fierce heat from the burning ruins of the plant

PUTTING AN END TO THE TROUBLE AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Aug. 18.—Continued disorders this week in front of the white house as a result of "picketing" by militant suffragists today caused the Washington police to put into effect an order prohibiting further demonstrations.

Banners bearing the inscription "Kaiser Wilson" have caused disturbances requiring the interference of the reserves on several occasions during the past few days. Yesterday six women who violated the anti-picketing edict were arrested on charges of obstructing traffic.

Assailing the militant pickets in unsparring terms, Senator Myers, of Montana, today introduced a bill to prohibit white house picketing.

"The proceedings have been outrageous, scandalous and almost treasonable," he said. "I think people are disgusted with the proceedings. The president, out of the generosity of his heart, pardoned women recently sent to the workhouse for sixty days. I think they should have been compelled to serve out their sentences. It is time congress acted to stop these insults to the president."

FRENCH AIRMAN AVENGES SLURS UPON HIS HONOR

British Front in France and Belgium, Aug. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—From a section of the French front comes word that the renowned aviator, Capt. George Guynemer, brought down two more German machines, making fifty-two he has accounted for. Guynemer visited headquarters to receive a decoration from a distinguished Rumanian general. The Associated Press saw the medal pinned on the breast of the intrepid airman, besides numerous orders he won, including a decoration from the king of the Belgians the day before.

Guynemer swore vengeance for this of the honor, but he was much disturbed over an article which had just appeared in a German paper slurring his name.

Special Announcement

"Crestholme Circle" Will Be Offered Within a Week.

As promised MONROE W. FITCH & SONS will offer the beautiful wooded tract on Taylor and Ardmore avenue, also on street car line, in Country club district. On account of the scarcity of help, including teams, "Crestholme Circle," the main street in this tract, is not entirely completed, but the brick pillars on Taylor street, to be used as lighting posts, have been erected. No tract will be offered with less than 100 feet frontage, and the public should remember, while inspecting the property, that this is the only location that really "overlooks" Fort Wayne.

Without doubt "Crestholme Circle" and adjoining wooded frontage will be put on the market one week from today, and the prices of these "ideal home sites" will be very low and will interest any one who desires to buy property that will grow in value every minute because of the high class development around same.

Fitch & Sons are selling farms, as well as city property and insurance, and in this connection we might state that a farm investment would be the right thing when we consider the present prices of wheat and other farm products.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD PICNIC.

Fort Wayne encampment, No. 152, and Summit encampment, No. 16, branches of the Odd Fellows, will give a joint picnic at Fitzgerald's grove, on the Robison park line, Sunday.

Registration office open from 7 to 9:30 p. m. tonight, for registration of voters for coming city election.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH BUSINESS MEN

F. A. Austin N. Y. C. Agent, Out to Meet Patrons of the Road.

F. A. Austin, recently appointed passenger agent of the N. Y. C. and the L. E. & W. at Fort Wayne, met many of the business men and manufacturers and all of the local ticket and freight agents of the city today. He was escorted around the city and introduced by A. R. Phillips, whom he succeeds and who knows everybody in the city and then some. Mr. Phillips, it will be remembered, has been advanced to traveling passenger agent of the N. Y. C., working out of Toledo. Mr. Austin was recently agent at Jerome, Mich. He has secured a lease upon a house on Oakland street and will bring his family here to occupy it early next week. There will be no other changes in the personnel of the force at the local N. Y. C. station.

G. A. R. TRAVEL LIGHT.

This Part of the Country Sending Few Vets to Encampment.

Allen county will not be very well represented, in a numerical sense, at the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Boston next week. In fact, it does not appear that there will be over two dozen veterans from the county at the encampment. There are two things to interfere with a big attendance—the distance and the fare, for the railroads are not making special rates, as on former occasions. Of the veterans leaving for Boston today the Wabash had three in one party whose combined age is 228 years. One was 80, one 77 and another 71, and there never was a more happy and congenial party assembled for similar purpose. Their names could not be learned.

TO NEBRASKA FOR A VISIT.

Mrs. J. B. Fowler and children will be spending the coming two weeks with relatives and friends at Palisade, Neb. Mr. Fowler will take them to Chicago tonight and place them upon the train which will convey them to their destination. Mr. Fowler is the Pennsylvania division storekeeper.

(J. F. Hambrick, special apprentice in the motive power department of the Pennsylvania, left last night for Pittsburgh on business for the company. He will go to Cleveland tonight to spend Sunday with relatives.

COULDN'T PASS EXAMINATION.

A most disappointed man is Andy Ryan, Jr., who made an effort to get into Battery B, but failed. He came home at 3 o'clock this morning from Fort Benjamin Harrison, bringing the news that he failed to pass the rigid physical examination. "I did want to go to France so bad," he said, in speaking of the matter, "but I guess I will have to give it up." The young man is a son of Blacksmith Andy Ryan, of the Pennsylvania shops.

MOVING IN NEW BUILDING.

The induction motor section of the General Electric works, which is in charge of W. H. Kellermeyer, is today moving into new quarters in building 19, south side of Wall street, on the third floor. This department is new, its products being the latest added to the output of the big plant. It has great promise for the future, however, and Mr. Kellermeyer predicts it will be a most important part of the factory soon.

MISS STEELE RETURNING.

Miss Frances Steele, the trained nurse who has charge of the hospital and dispensary at the General Electric works, who has been at Clear Lake for two weeks, will return home tomorrow and Monday morning will resume charge of the department. Miss Mary McDonald, who had charge of the dispensary during the absence of Miss Steele, will resume her duties in the regular field of trained nurses.

IN HIS NEW OFFICE.

F. J. Goers, head of the stationery department of the General Electric office, and his assistants, completed the work of moving into the room at the west end of the fifth floor of the office building this morning and is now very conveniently and comfortably located. The room was recently vacated by X. J. Divens, head of the advertising department, who has taken rooms in another part of the building.

WILL REPORT MONDAY.

Claude Miller, a gang foreman at the Pennsylvania paint shop, will resume that duty Monday, after a lay off lacking three days of being three months. He had one of his feet crushed by a heavy steel rod falling upon it while at work in the shops, and for nearly two months was unable to walk.

C. R. AIKEN PROMOTED.

C. R. Aiken will become a gang foreman, working for awhile at nights, in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, commencing tonight. Mr. Aiken is a machinist, but for some time has been engaged in other work, lately as a clerk in the cost department of the shops. The change is a nice promotion for Mr. Aiken.

GONE TO FARM FOR TWO WEEKS.

O. A. Langston, clerk for Foreman P. J. Scheid, of the Pennsylvania car machine shop, will assist his folks in the farm work for two weeks. Tonight he goes to the country near Roanoke to remain until September 1.

L. H. Stahn, of the Pennsylvania cost department office, will be at Clear Lake next week for an outing.

C. Bender, a helper in the Pennsylvania boiler shop for some time, resigned today. He has taken employment at the General Electric works.

The sickness of his wife is the reason H. E. Teiboldt did not report for work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning.

Archie Cassell, of the Pennsylvania tool room, accompanied by his father and mother, left for Rome City this afternoon to spend Sunday.

Charles Wick, who had been at the lakes ten days, resumed the duties of transformer tester at the General Electric works yesterday.

The Misses Minnie and Cora Blue, of the small motor department of the General Electric works, went to Clear Lake today to stay a week.

E. W. Mitchell has gone to the lakes up north and J. J. Byrle has gone to Churubusco to spend Sunday. They are Pennsylvania painters.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hardendorf and T. Rodney have gone to Chicago to visit friends. The gentlemen named are employed in the Pennsylvania boiler shop.

Fred J. Fleichmann, machinist at the Pennsylvania machine shop, wheel department, resumed work this morning. He had been at Long Lake for two weeks.

N. Ellis, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is temporarily disabled by an injured eye. Some metal substance lodged in the optic yesterday, putting it out of commission.

Earl Ege, employed under Foreman Ben O'Brien in the meter test department of the General Electric works, and his wife, are preparing for a trip to Detroit to visit friends.

Nine engines, all belonging to the G. R. & L.—received general repairs at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today.

Herbert E. Mead, of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe shop, will visit his brother, Lloyd Mead, at Indianapolis Sunday. Lloyd is a member of the battery, which expects to leave for "the front."

Machinist C. F. Brown, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, laid off today to participate in the Brown family reunion at Foster park, which is in progress today. The family is a large one and the attendance at the celebration is very large.

Machinist C. M. Rohyans, a machinist in the wheel department of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning to meet his wife, who is enroute home after a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Rohyans will spend Sunday with friends in Chicago.

G. M. Smith, of Columbus, Ohio, has been transferred to Fort Wayne to make charge of the Pennsylvania lines restaurant, in the passenger station on Baker street. He succeeds J. W. Carpenter, who resigned several days ago to assume charge of a hotel at Connersville. Mr. Smith was engaged as a dining car steward in and out of Columbus before the call to Fort Wayne.

Carl Miller, for two or three years night foreman at the Wabash shops, has been transferred to Delray in the capacity of assistant foreman of the B. & O. shops at Cincinnati. He was assistant foreman of the same shop three years. Hugh Hogan is a Fort Wayne boy, learning his trade in the Wabash and the Pennsylvania shops and working several years as a machinist and later gang foreman in the latter shops.

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP ORMISTON.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Attorney Arthur W. Parry, of West Washington boulevard, had a narrow escape from possible death a few days ago. He was a passenger on the Chicago & Milwaukee traction car which was wrecked at the Great Lakes training station. The car on which Mr. Parry was a passenger had stopped at the station, and when the car approached from the opposite direction he jumped, just before the two cars came together. Cornell Morgenthau was also a passenger on the car and he, too, escaped uninjured.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown. Also Revs. Miller and the various associations with which he was connected, and also for the beautiful floral offerings during the illness and in the death of our beloved father, Henry P. Sherer.

TWO PRISONERS ARE MEN OF THEIR WORD

One Turned State's Evidence and Other Came Back as He Promised.

Two prisoners in police court Saturday morning, proved to be men of their word.

James Hodges, who was arrested Thursday night on a charge of drunkenness and whose case was continued until Saturday morning, was told to go to the army recruiting station and see whether he had been accepted or not and ordered to report back to the judge in fifteen minutes. The man unaccompanied proceeded to the recruiting station and was told to return and get out of his trouble the best he could. He reappeared in police court ten minutes later when he was fined $1 and costs.

Charles Davis, a colored lad, also drew the same amount in a fine. He turned state's evidence in the case against Anna Kinney, charged with fornication. Anna drew a fine of $15 and costs while Charles got the one dollar fine. Steve Folsom, who was held as a witness in the case, was let go.

Other Police Court Cases. The case against Herman Ikemeyer, charged with disorderly conduct, was continued until August 22. The case against Fred Hunter, a ball player, charged with assault and battery upon John Essig, was continued until September 5.

John Hall, charged with train climbing, was ordered turned over to the federal authorities for investigation in regards to registration, in custody of the sheriff.

The disorderly conduct case against Frank Robinson was continued until August 21. Pat O'Brien drew five and costs for being drunk and Charles Gray a loiterer, was let go.

ROLLER SKATING A PERMANENT AMUSEMENT

Manochio and Bell Place Order for Equipment of New Rink in Overland Building.

Improvements now under way at the new Overland building comprehend the making of one of the finest roller skating rinks to be found in the country. It will have a floor space of 70x150 feet, without a post or column to interfere, and its equipment will be of the very best to be obtained. Messrs. D. E. Manochio and J. L. Bell, who have secured from Gaskins and Eckart a lease of the entire third floor of the Overland building, placed their order this week for 1,000 roller skates of the finest manufacture, also for 500 seats of theater pattern to be arranged along the outer walls. Music for the skaters will be furnished by a large orchestra and on special nights by a full orchestra.

Such a high-class roller skating rink right in the heart of the city is bound to become popular again with such facilities, especially in view of the fact that this rink will have ample dimensions to accommodate 800 skaters on the floor at one time. The young, the youth and the grown ups will all find great pleasure and relaxation in this healthful exercise that was such a craze during the best days of Princess rink.

The promoters of the new enterprise have hit upon the name of "Washington Roller Skating Rink" for their resort, a name that will be kept spotless for the manner in which the rink will be conducted, as it will be on a high plane and absolutely free from suspicious taint from a moral point of view. Children will be taught and their proper care guaranteed and instructors will be on hand at all times to initiate the novices into the art of roller skating.

Altogether considered, the new Washington Roller Skating rink is going to be one of the very delightful amusement places of Fort Wayne and its proprietors, who have long been business men of Fort Wayne, are to be congratulated for bringing the city in line with other large cities that have always had skating rinks as permanent amusement attractions.

AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE VERY CLOSE

Official Standing of Clubs Must Be Figured in Fractions.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The race for the pennant in the American league has become so close that it has become necessary to figure the leader by fractions.

Technically the Chicago club is in the lead by half a game, but the Boston team has played fewer games, and consequently has the advantage by two-thirds of a point. The exact percentage of the two leaders is: Boston, .614679 plus; Chicago, .614035 plus.

The official standing as announced by President Ben Johnson of the league today follows:

Team	W.	Lost	Pct.
Boston	67	42	.615
Chicago	70	44	.614
Cleveland	61	55	.526
Detroit	58	55	.513

DEATH OF EDITOR IN PARIS WAS SUICIDAL

Writer Under Arrest on a Charge of Sedition Took His Life.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The death in prison Wednesday of Minquel Almeraya, editor of the Bonnet Rouge, who was under arrest on a charge of sedition, continues to occupy the press and his friends who do not admit the hypothesis of suicide. They point out that on the day before his death he instructed his attorney to ask that he be released on bail on account of his health. He also requested the attorney visit him. When he arrived Almeraya was dead.

The Petit Avenir says the suicide has been established beyond a doubt. A trace of gray paint was found on his shoe laces with which he strangled himself, which is the same color as the bar of the bed to which they had been fastened. The paper adds that neither the shoe laces nor a silk shirt which he had been wearing were found in the cell where he died, the suggestion being that the warden found the body before the man was dead and removed signs of suicide by removing the laces and shirt.

DR. DICKEY WILL

Board of Directors Refuses to Accept the Resignation Tendered by Him.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 18.—When the resignation of Dr. Sol C. Dickey, general secretary of the Winona assembly, was presented to the board of directors of the assembly, August 3rd, the many friends of Dr. Dickey and also those interested in Winona were very much surprised.

At that time it was a blow to the directors and they were reluctant to even think of considering Dr. Dickey's resignation. After some careful thought had been given the tendered resignation a meeting of the directors was called and was held Friday at the Rakes hall at Winona. The board of directors of the assembly and Bible conference at this meeting brought Dr. Dickey's resignation before the meeting for consideration and it was unanimously refused. The nomination of Dr. Dickey as general secretary was made by W. D. Frazer, of Warsaw. President of the assembly, William Jennings Bryan, was present and addressed the meeting, stating that it was necessary that Dr. Dickey remain as general secretary if the success of the assembly was hoped for.

Dr. Dickey was granted a leave of absence for eight months, during which time he will endeavor to carry out the plans he has formulated in the interest of the creditors of the assembly.

William Jennings Bryan was re-elected president of the board of directors, W. P. Carmichael was elected vice president, E. O. Excell chairman and Marion Lawrence recording secretary.

Van Wert Farmers Are Charged With Treason by Government.

Van Wert, O., Aug. 18.—Walter Brown and Joseph Balyeat, two farmers living in Union township, were arrested yesterday and taken to the federal court at Toledo, charged with treason. They are alleged to have attempted to persuade J. Paxton, a young farmer of the same township, not to answer the draft and also are alleged to have said that a fleet of German airplanes would bomb Washington with special efforts to harm President Wilson and that a revolution would soon be started.

The farmers were placed under $5,000 bonds signed by neighbors and returned to this city last evening. The bonds require them to appear for trial on September 20. The men reside in the neighborhood where some weeks ago threats were made to tear down the American flag from a church.

New Haven Brief Items.

The directors of the New Haven State bank held their regular meeting at the banking rooms Tuesday evening at which time it was shown that the bank is in a flourishing condition. From present indications it is thought that it will be necessary to use three large halls in which to hold the Fifth Annual Farm Products and Poultry Exhibition to be given at this place November 23-30, inclusive, as the entries this year not being confined to the three townships, but to the entire county, and the interest already shown by the business men, give the impression that the coming show will be one of the largest affairs ever held in the town.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, who reside west of town, from their son, Willis, who recently joined the United States army and now stationed at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., as baker, is greatly pleased with his duties and invites a number of his New Haven friends to join him.

The final touches are being made on the new home of the People's State bank and it is thought at this time it will be ready for occupancy by the latter part of September.
Mrs. M. A. Mason and sister, Mrs. Sarah Stratton, and daughter, Margaret, of Gary, Ind., left for a few weeks' outing at Lake James, where it is hoped the rest will greatly improve Mrs. Mason's health.

The members of the New Haven band and city friends are invited to attend in giving an ice cream social and band concert at Wabash park this evening at which time the following program will be given:
March National Emblem Selection Would You Care? Medley Waltz Millicent Serenade Cupid's Charm Indian Characteristic Rhapsody Waltz La Zarzuela Selection Gems from Stephen Foster Star-Spangled Banner
Ira B. Slett, cashier of the New Haven State bank, who recently had the misfortune of having his foot crushed in attempting to board an auto truck, is again able to resume his duties without the aid of crutches.
Howard Ellison and wife have returned from a few days' outing at Lake George.

Thomas Finan and O. J. Pond motored to Fort Benjamin Harrison to visit friends.
Oral Kitchen and wife have returned after a week's vacation at Lake George.

The state bank examiner spent Thursday in this city inspecting the books of the local institutions, finding same in good condition.

Elmer Collins has returned after several days' fishing trip at Lake George.

The new band wagon recently purchased through the generosity of the citizens was placed in service Saturday night, at which time the band gave their fourth free open air concert. The town, being for a number of years without the services of a band, greatly appreciates the members' efforts at their free concerts and are attending in large numbers.

Kodaks, 10% off; Parrot's. NEBRASKA HOUSEWIVES FIND NEW WAY TO SAVE

Community Drying Plants in State Conserve Large Stores of Food.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The housewives of Nebraska have found a way to save the full value of the food product for their own consumption during the winter instead of selling it at a sacrifice, or, as has happened in many instances, letting it perish, and then buying at record prices in the winter.

According to a report to the United States department of agriculture from Director C. W. Fugusley, of the Nebraska extension service, several community drying plants have been established in that state. The housewives take their surplus fruits and vegetables to them, and for a minimum charge, covering cost of operation, their produce is dried. This food is put away in containers on the pantry shelf and kept for winter use. The process simply dries the water out of the fruits and vegetables by suction. When the food is to be used, water is added. It is then said to be practically the same as the fresh product.

The drying plants are located in churches, schools, rooms of the county council of defense, or basements of libraries. The plants are operated either by some community club already organized, or by a club organized especially for the work.

At North Lincoln, Neb., the drying plant was donated by the Rotary club; at Fremont, a community drier is operated by the Commercial club; at University Place, by the City Improvement club; at Omaha, by the Public Welfare club; at College View, by the Community club. At each place they hire a caretaker and pay her by the hour to look after the work.

There is scarcely a fruit or vegetable that has not been brought by the women to the community plant for drying. At one of the plants, besides drying fruits and vegetables, the women have been preparing noodles while eggs are cheap. One woman is drying a large quantity of wild greens composed of nettles and thistles.
The United States department of agriculture endorses the drying of fruits and vegetables as a helpful means of conserving large amounts of products which would otherwise go to waste, and is working, through its extension service, to promote this type of food conservation.

JOHN WORTH KERN.

The death of former United States Senator John Worth Kern will be a shock to the people of Indiana. While it was known that his state of health had been poor, it was not generally known that his condition had lately grown critical.

Senator Kern was on the verge of a breakdown throughout the prolonged and trying session of congress a year ago when, as the democratic floor leader and conference chairman, the task fell upon him of keeping the way clear for the vast program of democratic enactments, the climax coming with the sudden projection of the great railway strike issues into congress late in August. It was his profound sense of duty and his determined will to perform his duty that kept him going through the arduous and dreary weeks of the worst summer the country had known for many years. Not even the adjournment of congress early in September brought him the quiet and rest of which he stood so gravely in need, for the necessities of the campaign then proceeding imposed further hard obligations upon him. For years in frail health, the final year of his splendid service in the senate was too much for him and his bodily strength was too greatly impaired when at length retirement brought him complete rest to regain what had been so freely and expensively given. Diligent and energetic labor for the public concern.

Senator Kern was a native Indian. His entire life was spent in this state and his public career had been almost continuous from the time when as a young man he was made city attorney of Kokomo. He was elected reporter of the Indiana supreme court, later was for a term or two a state senator from Marion county and in 1900 the democratic nominee for governor of Indiana, a distinction that was repeated four years later—the nomination in each instance having come to him unwanted and unsought. In 1908 the democratic national convention in Denver named him, much against his will and his wishes, to run for the vice presidency upon the ticket with Mr. Bryan, who as the Indiana statesman's long and cherished friend, greatly desired Mr. Kern's association with him in the campaign for democracy. Two years after that, when Governor Marshall's signal victory for adopting the principle of popular selection for the nomination of a candidate for the United States senate came about after a bitter fight with the machine, Mr. Kern was the overwhelming choice of the delegates for that honor and was named, despite his protests. His election was assured by sweeping democratic victories in the legislative districts throughout the state. His career in the senate was remarkable. He took high standing at once and was one of the influential figures both in the party councils and in the work of the senate. His rise to the leadership of his party in that body came early and was the more greatly a distinction because of his recent coming as a member. Following the election of President Wilson, Senator Kern's services to the administration, to his party and to the whole people were conspicuous and brilliant. To him the president looked for the leadership that was to put the prodigious program of constructive legislation promised by the party upon the law books of the nation. To detail the extent of Senator Kern's services in this regard would be almost tedious. What the last congress accomplished in far-reaching progressive and useful legislation is not matched by any session in the country's history. In the accomplishment of that Senator Kern bore immense responsibilities and he acquitted himself with the fullest measure of credit and honor. There is no accounting for the vicissitudes of political life and Senator Kern's defeat for re-election last fall were accepted by him not only as the fortunes of war, but as a release from duties that were wracking him painfully, but it nevertheless was a singular acknowledgment of the splendid service he had rendered the people and the added luster he had shed upon Indiana's record in the United States senate where it is the tradition of a century that this commonwealth almost without exception always has been represented by her best.

In a later time than this the people of Indiana and the country will better understand and more suitably appreciate the services of John Worth Kern, of Indiana, in the senate of the United States. No scoffing at him as a politician will obscure or even blemish the luster of his fame as a statesman, for that he was and proved himself to be.

ANTE-WAR PROFITEERING.

Inquiries conducted by agents of the federal trade commission disclose that $5 a ton and even better was for a time the meager profit retail coal dealers in Indianapolis were taking from the ultimate consumer. Not all dealers were in like degree wanting in modesty. Some appear to have been wanting in opportunities, while others seem to have been afflicted with diffidence and timidity and it is not inconceivable that some may have been restrained by just plain business decency. At all events, the trade commission's investigation has shown that ante-war profiteering was a reasonably well established and tolerably extensive practice in the Indiana capital, which bears out what a good many mine operators here and there have been asserting—that excessive prices of coal, found in communities over the country, are not due to prices at the mine but to the rapacity of dealers.

Just how this has been may be observed in the single instance of New York city. At a time when hard coal was selling in Fort Wayne at a price around $9 a ton, during the scarcity last winter, dealers were obtaining as high as $15 a ton for it in New York. The difference in price does not altogether represent the difference in profit, for it must be remembered that the haul from the anthracite fields to New York is several hundred miles shorter than it is from the same fields to Fort Wayne. The New York dealers found they could extort the prices and they extorted. That appears to have been the case in Indianapolis, and in some other cities that are of record.

When the government lays its rough hand on the coal business and says "thus far," the practices of both operators and dealers will become perforce more decent. Coal will not be cheap in any sense that it can be taken back to the levels of two or three years ago, but it will be cheaper perhaps than it was last winter and perhaps cheaper than it is now. There is no purpose of the government to eliminate profits from the coal business anywhere along the line, from mine to consumer. It is designed that production shall be increased and steadied, that distribution shall be fair and consistent with needs and that prices shall be stabilized upon an equitable margin. The public doubtless would be willing to stand even a mild degree of profiteering if that might establish complete assurance of fuel amply and regularly.

If Governor Goodrich does have an extra session of the legislature there will probably be as good a working organization on the democratic side of the senate as there was last winter, when much of the governor's program was undone and much else never done at all. We do not suspect that the special session will be invoked to slam through anything partisan and raw, but if excitement gets high and there is a runaway, the fellows are on hand to stop it.

Anyway, LaFollette and Vardaman escape aspersion and reprobation as alien enemies. They're native born and in service of their people and their government—such service as it. Otherwise, you can go as far as you like and say what you please, which seems to be the privilege of the Wisconsin objector and the Mississippi brawler when they address themselves to a discussion of their government and its task of bringing the nation safely through a war that has been forced upon it.

There is a rather promising indication that chilblains and the number of dependent relatives are diminishing in the land. Enlistments for the regular army have been rather lively and the number of exemption claims is said to be coming down in an interesting way. They'll all begin to feel life it as the trouble gets hotter, which it soon will be.

The recent czar, in transit to Siberia, gets a flood of fresh light on that journey to which so many thousands of his fellow citizens now living and former subjects now dead were condemned by his own imperial dictum. It may not ease the pain of the penalty, but it will give him to understand why the Russian autocracy no longer is.

The coal operators of Illinois appear to have some anxious curiosity to know if there is such an animal as state seizure of the coal mines. As pioneers in the quest for answer to the problem of eminent domain, public emergencies and similar issues the coal operators may at length gain credit for useful service if not great wisdom.

FOR SERVICE.

(Meditation for Sabbath Morning.)
I should wish to be of service
Like the flower,
Giving all my best and dearest
Hour by hour,
Giving all my life like sunshine,
Kiss by kiss,
Climbing round by round unconscious
Of my bliss,
Knowing only that my brothers
On the way
Drew some help and guidance from me
Day by day.

I should wish to be the purest
That I know,
With a heart that knew the red
But felt the snow,
With a faith so great that those
Who sadly fall
Might find place beneath my grace
To cover all,
With my love to paint the crimson
White again,
Turn red with love to Christ,
Nor live in vain.

Production Engineering—No. 3

BY GEORGE F. CARD.

Dr. Taylor early in his search for a workable system of factory management that would eliminate the objectionable feature of military control and give to workers a fair return for voluntary effort, came to the conclusion that industry cannot advance by war and waste, it must advance by co-operation and efficiency. Employer and employee must work together. Instead of commanding the workman as in the past the new management must use its scientific information as a basis for teaching and serving the workman, with the end that not only the product but the rewards of both hand worker and brain worker may be largely increased.

In furtherance of this idea Dr. Taylor enunciated the following principles or laws which the management must accept as new duties, and which they must faithfully perform before expecting any degree of co-operation or voluntary assistance from their employees.

First—They must develop a science for each element of a man's work, which replaces the old rule of thumb method.

Second—They must scientifically select and train the workman, where in the past he chose his own work and trained himself as best he could.

Third—They must co-operate with the men, so as to insure all of the work being done in accordance with the principles of the science which is being developed.

Fourth—There is almost equal division of the work and the responsibility between the management and the workmen. The management take over all the work for which they are better fitted than the workman, while in the past almost all the work and the greater part of the responsibility were thrown upon the men.

It is this combination of the initiative of the men coupled with the new type of duties forced upon the management that makes scientific management so successful.

Three of these elements exist in a small and rudimentary way in other forms of management, but are of minor importance, whereas under scientific management they become the very essence of the whole system.

Mr. F. M. Eiler, a production expert of wide experience, divides these laws into five sections and states them as follows:

First—To separate from the "Line organization" or to add to the "Line organization" a staff organization.

Duties of the Management.

1st.—To investigate

All Methods Processes Equipment
Material Labor
and Physical Conditions.

2nd.—To standardize

By Time studies
and written rules
the best and most economical
things investigated.

3d.—To instruct

By Trained Teachers
Study Clubs
Committee Meetings and other ways,
in standard time.

Another way, more elaborate but better suited for clubs and class instruction is as follows: Draw a circle, (say 3 inches in diam.) in the center of the sheet, this will represent the management. Radiate from this circle three short lines (equally spaced) and draw a smaller circle at the end of each line. These circles will represent the principal elements.

Then from each of these circles draw a line for each of the minor elements with a still smaller circle at the end within which write the name of the element represented.

This is a symmetrical design and has a psychological effect of great value. This value can be further enhanced by emphasizing the lines, circles and the things which they must do (as shown in the chart above) have been performed to the utmost ability of the staff organization. That factories can be organized and operated successfully under these laws is a matter of record.

I will tell in the next article about many of them, why some have failed and the reasons therefor, and will give a list of the different industries that have found "common sense" management a profitable innovation. A chart of efficiency principles like the one suggested, neatly drawn and colored, will be a good beginning for a series of similar illustrations covering production methods, to hang in office or club room.

AS A NATIONAL CLINIC.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

The physical examination of men for the selective draft army is in effect a national clinic in which the nation is learning a lesson having as much civil as military value. There has been an encouraging percentage of those called before the draft boards of the country as a whole who have passed the physical examination. The army requirements are severe. A freight handler or truckman, otherwise in excellent condition, may have bad feet, but a soldier who carries a heavy pack and may be called on to make long marches must have good underpinning. Defective vision has been the cause of rejection in a surprisingly large number of cases. In many instances it was found that those men never before had their eyes tested. Another of the reasons for disqualification that has been most frequently met with has been bad teeth, some of the finest physical specimens appearing for examination never having visited a dentist. Many were found without enough teeth to properly masticate their food.

Most of the rejections may be attributed to previous negligence on the part of the men or to their ignorance of the ordinary rules of health. Minor defects have been allowed to become permanent disqualifications under a test based on normal physical conditions. A short visit to the hospital or a simple surgical operation in many cases would prevent serious trouble. Lack of reasonable care on the part of individuals accounts for physical defects in a degree not anticipated even by experienced doctors who have recently examined hundreds of young men.

In the revelation of the physical status of a large part of the country's young manhood and the resultant pointing to a correction of its defects, the selective draft examination performs the function of a national clinic. From the census that is now nearing completion there should follow a better understanding than ever before of the health conditions among men in the prime of life in this country. When the results of the doctors' examinations are tabulated, as they should be, by the medical authorities, the facts as they exist and the tendencies as they are revealed in every class of occupation and industry should be helpful guides in effecting a revolution in the matter of the national health and its

DISPELLING THE MURK.

(Indiana Daily Times.)

The Fort Wayne Sentinel calls attention to stories supposed to emanate from Washington, D. C., in which bounteous crops are described and plentiful supplies of foodstuffs are represented as being in the very act of overflowing the cornucopia of gladness into the lifted and eager hands of the merry populace.

The esteemed Sentinel does not see how these tales accord with the extortionate prices being collected from the consumer in its own section, as elsewhere.

The fact is, these yarns of superabundance are sent out by the booze interests and their friends in and out of office to impress the public with the idea that it is not necessary, as a war measure, to cut off the manufacture of booze and the incidental waste in booze of grains that ought to go as food for the people and for our allies.

The booze interests would be fool to the people into any degree of extravagant error if only the booze business might profit from that blunder. The booze interests are so closely identified with the salaried interests that they would feel not the slightest compunction if they were to help bring about the actual defeat and overthrow of the American government. Booze is not more selfish than it is treasonable.

The solemn truth is that the greed and treachery of booze in this war crisis brand it as an alien enemy. Intern John D. Rockefeller, a foe for bread the grains that now are being used to make booze. As between bread and booze we must have bread. It is an elementary war truism that we need for food every ounce of all the food crops we can raise.

MARRIED SLACKERS.

(Indianapolis News.)
It is evident that some young men, since the announcement of the war department that married men would not be taken for the first drafted armies, are going to be slackers. They should not overlook the fact that the law requires sworn proof, under heavy penalties, that their wives are absolutely dependent on their husbands' labor—with no money, parents or investments to fall back on—before marriage will be accepted as a cause for exemption.

Some time ago when it became known that married men would probably be exempted there was a disgraceful rush to the marriage license bureaus in many sections of the country, breaking all records for certain cities. Then the war department issued a notice that men married would receive no special consideration and the number of applications for licenses diminished to normal.

Several days ago Gen. Crowder ruled that men with wives dependent upon them would not be taken no matter what the material for a soldier. There has been another record-breaking rush to marriage bureaus. In New York and Brooklyn men crowding the clerk's offices openly indicated they were there to evade military service. The United States marshal at New York yesterday, with fifteen deputies, cleared the marriage license bureau of scores of young men who could not produce registration cards.

It is not fair to accuse all the young men who marry at this time of being slackers, but it is obvious that many of them are attempting to evade a duty which they should be proud to fulfill. A man who will deliberately hide behind a woman's skirts to avoid war is not the material for a soldier, but in fairness to the millions of others who will serve when they are called, he should be made to do his duty.

The recently expressed view of one young man is worthy of consideration and is probably typical. Before the entrance of the United States into the war he became engaged, but postponed the marriage because he did not wish to leave his wife with the responsibilities of a home on her hands if he should be drafted.

Now with the new ruling regarding married men in effect, he sees hundreds of slackers who married since the war exempted, and hundreds more at present marrying to evade service, and leaving the burden to him and the thousands of others who tried, and are trying, honestly to do their duty, no matter what personal sacrifice is entailed. For the sake of such young men, if not for the nation's sake, the marrying slacker should be brought up short.

A. C. W. NOTES

This column of news is presented by the Associated Christian Workers of Fort Wayne through the courtesy of The Sentinel.

—For Sunday.— What is the topic for Sunday evening? Do you know?

The following are the topics to be discussed in the different prayer meetings on Sunday evening:

Epworth Leaguers, "The Father's Care of Us." Christian Endeavors, "A Definite Purpose and the Success It Wins." Young People's Alliance, "A Definite Purpose and the Success It Wins."

Luther Leaguers, "The Sunday Show, a Menace to Our Youth." Don't fail to attend one of these and take a part aside from singing.

—For the Future.— On the evening of September 13 there will be held an entertainment which your society must make two parts of the program the best. This entertainment will be of a temperance nature and in working up your part think of something along the temperance line which will tend to promote this cause. In planning this to Mr. Davis and his committee decided that each society was to have not less than three minutes and not more than five in each part of it. Also that if you have decided to have a song for one part then for the other part have a recitation or perhaps a short five minute playlet or something which will be along the temperance line. Remember that the society which receives the most points on their parts will receive a prize. (I know that it is a good one and one that anyone would enjoy.) There will also be special music and a talk on temperance by some prominent business man of this city or out of town. Remember this date, Sept. 13, as the time to go to Wayne street M. E. church for a rousing temperance good time.

I wonder what Fitch and Ford have "up their sleeve." There will be held a meeting of some kind, sometime, somewhere and the winners of the dollars offered by the generals will be given their rewards. Constitution will be printed next week. Tell your friends about it so they can read it and know how this band of Christian workers carry on the Lord's work. —Short Jabs.— Ask Davis why he walks when he has a wheel to ride on. How is your country, "Joe?"

Who has been sleeping on the job? No announcements have been received for some time. Remember that this column is for you to put before the young people of Fort Wayne the news and facts that are happening in this association.

Anyone wishing to join the A. C. W. Mandolin club see Louis Fordat, West Creighton Church of Christ, or Joe Fitch.

Don't forget your announcements for this column.

The citizens of Elk City are asked to call at the Elk's temple before Tuesday night, August 21, 6 p. m., when there will be issued to them a ticket good for a ride to the Elk's Country club and back, their picnic dinner, candy, crack-erjack, ice cream cones and lemonade. The boys will assemble at the Elk's temple Thursday morning at 9:30 and march to the car line. When the boys reach the park a short address of welcome will be given by Dr. Maurice I. Rosenthal, chairman of the committee in charge of the boys' picnic, who will then introduce Mayor W. J. Hosey, who will give the boys a short talk on the things that make for good citizenship. WILL HELP MEET DEMAND

Lutheran Hospital Association to Train More Nurses Than Ever Before

BELIEVE IT TO BE PATRIOTIC DUTY Addition Will Probably Be Built to the Hospital Nurses' Home.

Believing it to be a patriotic duty, the Lutheran Hospital association, of this city, has under consideration plans whereby it will be possible to train more nurses than ever before in order to help meet the demand caused by the United States' entrance into the world war.

A meeting of the board of directors has been called for Sunday afternoon, at which time ways and means of providing suitable housing for a greater number of nurses will be discussed. A $10,000 addition will probably be built to the present hospital nurses' home.

The situation as regards the need for nurses in the present crisis is set out in the following communication from the officials of the Lutheran Hospital association:

The country is depending upon its professionally trained nurses to care for the sick and wounded men of our army in France. Already several hundred have been called in to service, and in the coming months several thousand more may be needed, who will be recruited not only from the ranks of private duty nurses, but also from among public health nurses, teachers and executive officers in training schools. A steady depletion in the ranks of our skilled nurses is therefore inevitable.

This is a grave situation. We must provide the best nursing care for our army; we must carry on with undiminished energy the nursing work in our hospitals at home; we must also be ready, as war proceeds, to care for great numbers of disabled men; we must increasingly safeguard health work in which nurses are engaged, especially where the health of the nation's children is at stake. Highly skilled nurses will be needed as never before, and in greatly increased numbers. In one way only can the loss of trained nurses be made good, and that is by training others to take their places. By training greatly increased numbers, and in no other way, can we meet adequately the situation that confronts us.

The Council of National Defense, at Washington, has sent out letters to president and deans of women's and co-educational colleges throughout the country asking to have the matter placed before the graduating class of students, and the committee is now sending a personal letter to each of the approximately 10,000 young women graduating from our colleges this year. A campaign of publicity, through pamphlets, articles, addresses and other suitable measures, has been started also among graduates of high and private schools. The government has done everything in its power to direct the aroused interest of our educated women to the peculiarly important service that pupil nurses in hospitals can render at this time.

The Lutheran hospital of this city has received a communication from the Council of National Defense asking whether the Lutheran hospital could assist in meeting the present crisis by admitting a greater number of applicants to their training school. The Council of National Defense expect substantial results from their campaign among college women and would be glad to be in a position to advise all applicants as to hospitals which are prepared to admit larger classes during this emergency.

The Lutheran Hospital association realizes that the most generous utilizing of their resources to replenish and increase the supply of nurses is a truly patriotic task. In a special meeting of the Lutheran hospital board of directors to be held Sunday afternoon the question of providing ways and means of providing suitable housing for a greater number of nurses will be discussed. The building of an addition to the hospital nurses' home, to cost approximately $10,000, is one plan under consideration.

The need of enlarging the hospital building proper has been felt for some time and has been discussed at various times. However, now that the country is at war the addition to the nurses' home will doubtless take precedence over any contemplated addition to the hospital.

BIG CELEBRATION IS NOW PLANNED

As a result of the success of the celebration of the potato patch patriots at Foster park, Wednesday, a movement is on foot for a much larger celebration to be held early in the fall. Local automobile and real estate dealers are said to be interested in the movement, the plan being to make it sort of a fall festival to be held in or near Foster park. Much interest is being manifested and it is not at all improbable that definite announcement as to time and place will be made within a few days. Headquarters have been established in the directors' room of the People's Trust & Savings company's building. One feature of the program will be the election of a house by one of the local building companies.

PUBLIC MEETINGS FORBIDDEN.

Amsterdam, Aug. 18.—The military commander at Stettin, Germany, has forbidden "in the interest of public safety" meetings in Stettin and in the district of Rantow. The socialist organ Vorwaerts says the executive committee of the socialist party sent to Chancellor Michaelis a protest against such prohibitions which are reported in all parts of Germany and a request for abolition thereof.

DRAFT TAKES RENO'S MAYOR.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 18.—Reno is the first city in the west to lose its mayor in the army draft. Roy Frisob, alderman, who is also acting mayor, qualified yesterday before the exemption board, and when asked if he wished to claim exemption as a civil officer, said: "There will be plenty of men left for aldermen and mayor, but Uncle Sam seems to need soldiers, therefore I will not claim exemption."

CLUB FOR ALLY OFFICERS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The presence of so many allied officers in Paris has resulted in the formation of a military club for their use. Baron Henri de Rothschild has offered his mansion in the Rue Saint Honoré, with gardens reaching to the Champs Elysees, as a club house. Marshal Joffre has accepted the honorary presidency.

SOCIETY

It is said with authority by those who know that the woman who is not preserving foodstuffs either by canning, drying or salting in these days of plenty is making a mistake. The mistake does not immediately concern the housekeeper for she may be able to look ahead and declare she can buy all she wants, having the necessary wherewithal to pay the price. Or she may have already been able by reason of habit of buying in large quantities or by having some private means of access to wholesale stock, to fill her cellar shelves with all she wants. The point of the matter of canning and drying is to save now such foods from going to waste and be in position to not need to buy after awhile. Women forget that this is as much a service to the country and an aid to the allies as knitting and Red Cross work. The canning of vegetables is not particularly easy work, neither is making apple butter from windfall apples. "It takes gas," some one exclaims. To be sure, but two dollars extra on a month's gas bill will not buy a few cans of vegetables next winter, and two dollars extra is an extraordinary consumption, because so much fruit or vegetable matter can be put up at once.

AT THE PALACE

EVERYTHING'S NEW.

All Acts on Palace Bill Strangers to Fort Wayne.

Everything's new except the theater and you can't tell that from new that the Palace for the opening of the vaudeville season. None of the acts on the bill for the first four days of the week ever played Fort Wayne before but everyone of them has won a reputation over the vaudeville circuits of the east and west. The feature attraction of course, is the interpretive dancing done by the famous

THE SWING OF GARDEN FASHION.

A garden is a pretty thing, and it deserves a pretty costume. The young lady in the swing has evidently preferred to be beautiful in and decorative in white linen and rose cretonne, and not purely utilitarian in blue jean overalls. Leave them for the farmer's wife and the cornfields; a flower garden deserves something a little more decorative. The bonnet keeps off the sun and the gloves evidently protect the hands. There is no reason why the frock, minus the cap and gloves, could not be worn for sport.

Marmain Sisters, American girls who have studied their art both in America and abroad are bringing to the New Palace one of the most sumptuous staged attractions of its character known to vaudeville.

A fast and furious high stepping syncopated bit of jazz will be presented by Ralph Dunbar's Tennessee Ten, a double quintet of darlings in plantation melodies, instrumental numbers and dances. Demarest and Collette will present their musical variety and a snappy little girl with a new kind of curl, Dorothy Kenton, will be heard in her original conceptions of how a banjo should be played. W. S. Harvey, assisted by Madge Anderson will introduce their heavy juggling novelty, The House Upside Down. Burnham and Yant introducing the girl with the double violin in a bit of banter and a bit of song is another feature of this bill.

Much Nutrition in British Army Stew

BY BIDDY BYE.

Army cooks have a scientific value which should not be neglected by the woman who cooks for a family. There's an important lesson in nutrition.

Style and Utility

When a cake recipe calls for two eggs, and eggs are high, use one egg and sift a tablespoonful of cornstarch with the flour.

Dip your spoon in milk when making drop cakes or muffins and the batter will not stick to the spoon; also you can get cakes even sized.

When creaming butter and sugar for cakes and cookies in cold weather add two tablespoonfuls of boiling water, then deduct this amount from other liquids used. Beat hard with a spoon and the mixture will become a light and creamy mass in one-third the time it would otherwise take.

To keep cake from sticking, grease tins with lard and sprinkle with flour. Also put tissue paper in bottom of pans to keep from sticking.

Slippery layers—In order to keep layer cakes from slipping apart after being iced, put a toothpick at each corner. Remove them after it is cold.

When making loaf or fruit cake which is apt to rise in the middle too much to look nice, make it higher around the edge of the pan than in the center when putting it in the pan. To distribute fruit in cake put nearly half the batter in the pans before adding the fruit. Then put fruit in the remaining batter and put on top of other. The result is a rich cake with the fruit distributed evenly. This is much more satisfactory than dipping the fruit in flour.

To prevent raisins from settling at the bottom of a cake or steamed pudding, first plunge into boiling water and set on stove for two or three minutes, not longer than that. Then take them out of the water and stir thoroughly into the mixture and they will not settle.

Things to Remember

Linen pillow slips are a great comfort to an invalid.

Warm little night slippers for baby can be made out of bathrobe material.

Put pockets in the little girl's dress, if possible. She will not lose so many handkerchiefs.

Save all the ends of the paraffin candles. They are very good to hurry or light a fire with.

If you get too much silt in vegetables when cooking them try adding one or two teaspoonfuls of sugar and the same amount of vinegar.

A large letter wall calendar and an attached pencil makes a most convenient kitchen memo pad. Grocery lists can be jotted in the date spaces, memoranda of things to be done on certain days, a record kept of any matter of interest, and it is always in sight and will not be neglected.

Book covers to replace the printed paper ones can be made of the leatherette backs of wall paper catalogues. Decorated with an appropriate stencil design, they are of great value.

of an inexpensive book and are attractive to an otherwise commonplace gift.

There is both style and comfort in this bodice and skirt. The bodice is of dark navy blue, embroidered in the same shade. The skirt is of tan satin, and its pliancy is relieved by the effective manner in which it is draped.

Why "The Daily Grind" is Worth Your While

By BIDDY BYE.

The highly systemized home run by a nagger and the unorganized home run by a complainer produce about an equal amount of misery. However, men seldom run away from a dustless house where they frequently desert the home which is never clean.

Between the female tyrant and the shirk is many a comfortable path. Therefore it seems queer that brides so often expect husbands to provide homes which they themselves are not at all prepared to take care of.

But the queerness isn't half so important as the unfairness. To too many girls a roof, the bigger and higher the better, and loads of fine furniture and much leisure to advertise her state to her friends are the measure of her "home." Housework she looks upon mainly as something to evade.

But the young husband seldom considers his home in terms of princess mirrors and parties. For him is the vision of an orderly table and a fine shower bath—comfort and freedom—considerable contrast to the scant accommodations of the bachelor's boarding house.

But none of the comforts of home are ever to be had except at the cost of some woman's labor—and willing labor it must always be. The wife, new or old, who refuses to make her home run smoothly and economically, cheats her husband.

Her beauty and coquetry may defend her from his criticism for a while, but one day the married woman who refuses to do her bit of drudgery is bound to come in for some deserved domestic discord.

Of the things man will keep with him after the war are a keen appreciation of order and system which he has learned as a soldier. And girls who would fulfill the soldier's ideal cannot afford to conduct their homes in the careless and expensive ways peculiarly the product of twentieth century fashion.

Only she who accepts the daily grind as a man accepts his army discipline is a good sport, and a satisfactory mate for the carefully trained army man.

SATIN WILL BE FAVORITE FOR FROCKS THIS FALL

Everything points toward satin as the favorite material for the one-piece frock for autumn wear. Glace satin, satin Francaise, satin Elizabeth, beautiful brocades and crepe effects are in high feather. Charmeuse and satin meteors are good buys. The metallic satins and "voil d'or" come in new designs and are particularly luscious selections for evening flutter-duds. The chiffon velvets in all the wine and purple shades are positively regal and royal, if not heavenly and divine. Even if wars do wage there appears to be plenty of expensive fabrics in the world; designs were never more stunning or materials more tempting.

WARNING

PRESIDENT H. R. KURRIE of the Monon Railway, before the Indiana State Council of Defense, sounded a WARNING TO CONSUMERS TO LAY IN COAL JUST AS SOON AS POSSIBLE, REGARDLESS OF PRICE, for the reason that in the fall the railroads will be absolutely unable to haul enough coal to supply everybody at once.

The same advice is being given both in Indiana and in other States by all who realize the serious situation that must develop this fall and winter unless the consumer gets his coal now.

In the face of the promise of lower prices, the Indiana Retail Coal Merchants Association has hesitated to give any direct advice. HOWEVER, THERE IS A MORE IMPORTANT CONSIDERATION EVEN THAN PRICE, and the time has come when we cannot keep silent. In the full realization that our motives may be misunderstood and we may be misjudged, we urge the people of Indiana to

Buy Coal Now

In sounding this warning again and giving this direct advice, we are not thinking of sales and profits for ourselves. We are thinking rather of our duty as public servants—to supply the coal necessary to keep the people of Indiana warm during the winter months.

Hundreds and thousands of Indiana homes will be cold this winter, unless the public acts at once upon the important question of getting the coal itself. Lower prices cannot make warm homes if there is no coal.

Every retail coal merchant sincerely wishes that he might sell his coal at lower prices now, but he is powerless to relieve the situation himself. The prices which he is now asking are reasonable prices on the basis of mine cost, freight charges and other handling expense. Lower prices may come, but when not how, no retail coal merchant knows. If they come too late, they cannot help the situation so far as the supply of coal is concerned.

We repeat most emphatically and in all sincerity—if you want to be sure of warm homes this winter, do not wait—but buy your coal now.

THIS WARNING is published today instead of the advertisement which would otherwise appear as the sixth in our series of talks to the public about the retail coal business. We hope that our motives will not be misunderstood, but that THIS ADVICE will be received and considered in the spirit in which it is given.

School Gardeners Help Solve High Cost of Living

Paul Keller lives with his uncle and helps him with his garden at 2805 Oliver street. It is one of the most beautiful sights that the supervisor has seen. Both the flowers and vegetables are of the finest and the entire yard is kept in perfect condition.

There are few slackers among the school gardeners this year. Many of the older boys and girls are doing splendid work and have fine gardens. Even some of the smaller children have stuck to their gardens bravely and the results are something to be proud of.

Here are a few of the good workers. There are so many of them that a whole paper would be necessary to give one even a slight idea of the number. These children live in the southeast part of the city, and each has plenty of room to raise garden truck. Others who had very little room have done wonders with very little space.

Many parents felt that they could not spare any space to the children this year, a fact that caused many disappointments among the children. One little girl was so eager for a garden that she planted in the heavy shade of some bushes. Her plants were sickly, of course, but she tended them carefully and not a weed was permitted to grow in that bed.

Another little boy rented the back yard from his parents and is selling his vegetables to his mother at store prices. He has kept an accurate record of every penny spent and earned. His potatoes didn't amount to much. Of course he was disappointed but not discouraged—not he—he pulled out the spuds and planted beans, so he'll get something from that space yet.

There are too many spaces going to waste just now, or rather going to weeds. There is still time to plant beans (bush), turnips, radishes and lettuce if you get an early maturing variety.

Nine-year-old Virgil Wright helped to care for this tall corn which is some of the finest in the city. It is growing at 3101 South Lafayette street.

Blanche and Lucile Marschhand, 3404 South Lafayette street, have private patches of their own and help their mother with a large garden of both flowers and vegetables. Lucile is seen in the above picture.

Harry and Vern Ault live at 2-40 Lillie street. Vern has a good sized garden in the back yard at her home that is her special charge, and Harry has done a great deal of the work in the large garden just south of the Ault home.

Gretchen Lininger has a fine garden at her home, 422 East Pontiac street, where she has hoed and weeded many days this summer. Her parents have three lots planted in another section of the city and they have vegetables galore.

SOLDIER BOY FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGE

in Police Court.

Judge H. Waveland Kerr, of the city court, ruled that Carl Johnson was guilty of unlawful possession of a motor vehicle in police court Saturday morning, but after deliberation continued the case against him for ninety days and ordered him turned over to the officers of Company B, signal corps, for punishment.

The case attracted much attention in the city. The boy took the automobile last Saturday evening and drove to Churubusco to see his brother. He was arrested upon his return to the city and Sunday morning Judge Kerr ordered him turned over to the military authorities.

Then came the question as to who had the jurisdiction in the case, civil or the military authorities. It was ruled by the war department that the case should be handled by the civil authorities. The young man was surrendered by the officers of the company to the police force after a warrant for his arrest had been issued.

A large number of witnesses testified in court Saturday morning as to the previous good character of the young man. Johnson will get his punishment from military authorities.

Attorney Ira M. Snouffer has received notice of the approval of his application for admission to the second officers' training camp to assemble on the 27th of August at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Mr. Snouffer is one of Fort Wayne's successful young attorneys and is the senior member of the firm of Snouffer & Sherrod, with offices in the Pixley-Long building. His many friends join in wishing him an equal degree of success in his new selection.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

THE SANCTUARY OF THE LORD AS MOSES WAS COMMANDED BY DIVINE WORD TO FASHION IT

(Concluded from last week.)

Note.—The Hebrews define the word "Azael" to be a prophet, and was understood by them to apply to Satan. What was the object of this work in the second apartment? To remove the sins of the people from the sanctuary itself. "And he shall make an atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins; and so shall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation that remaineth among them in the midst of their uncleanness." Lev. xvi:16. To the scapegoat thus completing the round of service for the year, the sins of the people had been transferred by figure during the entire year to the sanctuary. The sanctuary itself was to be cleansed from these sins in order that a new round of service might begin. Each year's complete service was a type of the complete work of Christ, showing that our sins, by repentance and faith, are transferred from us to Jesus; and thus to the heavenly sanctuary, where He ministers; also that the time will come when the heavenly sanctuary must be cleansed, and the sins all put upon the head of Satan himself, the minister of sin, the anti-typical scapegoat, and by him borne into eternal oblivion. Do the scriptures state that the heavenly sanctuary is to be cleansed? "It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these." Heb. ix:23. From what is the heavenly sanctuary to be cleansed? Sin. Note.—Doubtless, this includes the records of sins which have been kept by the angels, which are also to be blotted out. What event marked the close of the ministry in the earthly sanctuary? "Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost."

"And behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent." Matt. xxv:50, 51. When was the Jewish temple itself destroyed? A. D. 70. Since the earthly sanctuary was destroyed in A. D. 70, to what sanctuary must the prophet refer to? "And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed." Dan. viii:14. That was to be cleansed in A. D. 1844. Does Paul connect the work of cleansing the heavenly sanctuary with the judgment? "It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these." "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." Heb. ix:27.

Note.—If men die more than once, that will be their own fault. Does the revelation say the same? "And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldst give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldst destroy them which destroy the earth." "And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in His temple the ark of His testament; and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail." Rev. xvi:1, 19.

Note.—This is the investigative judgment. To see who is fit to come up in the first resurrection. The nations are now angry one with another. Are they not destroying the earth? Then they will be destroyed, so says the word of God. Sixty-five years after Jesus went to heaven, the ten commandments were seen in heaven. And they were just the same as when God spoke them on Mount Sinai. You can see that the seventh day, Sabbath, is a sure thing. Then must not the judgment come, while men are living upon the earth?

"And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people." "Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come; and worship him that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters." Rev. xiv:6-7.

"A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened." "I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame." Dan. vii:10-11.

Will both the righteous and the wicked be judged? "I said in my heart, God shall judge the righteous and the wicked: for there is a time there for every purpose and for every work." Eccl. 3:17.

Will any besides the human family be judged? "For if God spared not the angels that sinned but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment." 2 Peter 2:4.

With what class does the judgment begin? "For the time will come that judgment must begin at the house of God; and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? 1 Peter 4:17.

Out of what are the dead judged? "And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was added, and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works." Rev. 20:12.

To convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of things recorded in books, properly be called, which follows this investigation? The executive judgment.

What would a judgment out of what is that part of the judgment called? An investigative judgment was opened, which is the book of life: "And hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of man." John 5:24.

"To execute judgment upon all, and all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him." Jude 15.

In what book are the names of candidates for eternal life? "And I treat these also, true yoke-fellow, help those women which labour with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow-labourers, whose names are in the book of life." Phil. 4:3.

Does the fact that our names are once recorded in the book of life insure their being always retained there? "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels." Rev. 3:5.

Whose names will be blotted out? "And the Lord said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." "But when the righteous turn away from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, shall he live?" Eze. 18:24.

Christians "Giving Up" Do Not Give Up, But Gain Greatly

(Rest and Keeping.) It is a pitiful thing to see a young disciple going about and asking everybody how much he must "give up" in order to be a Christian. Unfortunately, many of those who take it upon themselves to instruct him give him the same impression of Christian discipleship—that it consists chiefly in giving up things that one likes and finds pleasant. In fact, a man in solitary confinement might as well talk of what he must "give up" if he is pardoned out of prison, or a patient in consumption about what he must "give up" in order to get well. The prisoner must give up his fetters, and the invalid his crutches, and weakness—these are the main things to be sacrificed.

It is true that the one has the privilege of living without work and the other the privilege of lying abed all day; these are privileges that must be relinquished, no doubt. And so there are certain sacrifices to be made by him who enters upon the Christian life; but they are "not worthy to be compared" with the liberty and dignity and joy into which the Christian life introduces us; and to put the emphasis upon this negative side of the Christian experience, as so many are inclined to do, is a great mistake.

MAN HAS FAILED THOUGH RICH

When he is coarse in his manner and brutal in his instincts. When he is constantly reminding others that the brute still lingers in him. When there is evidence of mental poverty in his conversation. When he is a moral pauper. When he does not carry a higher wealth in his character than in his pocketbook.

When he is narrow and bigoted in his opinions. When he is leading a mean and stingy life so far as his charities and magnanimity are concerned. When he has fed others on hopes instead of adequate salaries or just dues.

When he does not in his prosperity help those who helped him in his adversity. When he goes on the principle of getting all he can and giving as little as possible. When he carries about his business a vinegary face instead of a sunny one.—O. S. Marden.

WANTED.

By JOHN G. HOLLAND.

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands; Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honor—men who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue, And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking! Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog In public duty, and in private thinking; For while the rabble, with their thumbworn creeds, Their large professions and their little deeds—Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps, Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sleeps!

What is the Greatest Instance of Human Obedience?

Curious and Unusual Bible Questions

Look at the picture above, then turn to your Bible and find the answer to the question. The picture illustrates the verse in which the answer will be found. Each week we will publish an illustrated question from the Bible and the following week publish the answer. See if you can find the answer before we publish it! Make a family pastime of this interesting feature—it will amuse and instruct you.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "By whom and under what circumstances was the first temperance society formed?" The answer is found in the book of Jeremiah, Chapter XXXV, Verses 5, 6 and 8: "And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites gold, silver, and vessels of silver, and said unto them, Drink ye wine. But they said, We drink no wine: for Jonadab the son of Rechabab our father commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither ye, nor your sons for ever: thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechabab our father in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters."

YOUR HEALTH AND HOW YOU CAN KEEP IT

Hot Day Helps Toward Keeping Cool and Healthy.

To keep in good health in hot weather one should avoid excessive eating or drinking. When the stomach is overworked that organ as well as the heart must labor doubly hard to carry on the process of digestion and to keep the blood supply coursing through the system. As a gas engine heats up when run at high rate of speed just so does the human system when forced to put on extra steam.

Keeping late hours does not help to keep one cool. On the contrary it makes it harder than ever to bear hot weather for the simple reason that the body's resistance being lowered by loss of sleep one cannot easily throw off the effects of the heat. Alcohol and tobacco should be left alone during the summer months, if not at all times, for being stimulants they tend to overheat the body. Too much tea and coffee will have the same effect. Little meat should be eaten on hot days as meat contains a large proportion of energy-making elements and energy elements means heat units.

Live and sleep in the fresh air and the body through its own system of ventilation and refrigeration will be able to cool itself. If by care and attention to diet and bathing the system is kept in good working condition waste matter will be carried to the surface of the skin in the form of perspiration. Thereupon contact with the air evaporation is set up and the surface of the body automatically cooled by the disposal of its own waste.

By avoiding undue excitement and worry and by cultivation of the priceless art of relaxation one can also avoid the full effect of heat. Proper relaxation acts like a refreshing tonic upon a tired and tortured system.

Water Cool, Not Cold, Is Best to Fight Heat

The water cooled individual is the happiest and healthiest on hot days. Thus to be healthy despite the heat one should drink water, pure water, often and in small quantities. It should be cool, even cold, but under no consideration should it be ice water. Have it cooled merely to the refreshing point.

If ice cold it may cause indigestion or some other disorder of the stomach. The ice may also be impure, in fact, be a harboring place for typhoid germs. Ice which comes from small ponds, a small fresh water lake or sluggish stream is very apt to be impure.

If it should contain typhoid fever germs, and it frequently does, they will become active the moment the ice melts in a glass of water. The fact that the water in the glass is pure will not protect one from the germs. People are extremely careless regarding the use of ice. A great many of the 300,000 people in the United States who are laid low yearly with typhoid owe it to the use of impure ice. In normal times one should drink at least six glasses of water daily. That is, one upon arising in the morning, one before each meal and one before retiring at night. In hot weather, however, the body "burns" up a great deal of water and so there is no harm in drinking more than the six-glass-a-day allowance.

It is safest, however, to drink in small quantities and at frequent periods rather than great quantities once or twice a day. There is a mistaken idea that water taken at meal-times is harmful. Too much water at these

Christian Head of a School Puts End to Swearing Among Boys

(The Continent.)

Professor Marshall Pancost, of Denver, Colorado, last year went into the coal-mining camps at Frederick, Flintstone and Dacona in Weld county, Colo., as superintendent of schools. He found the population was made up of ten different nationalities. The people were rough, despised churches, ridiculed "children of God," and were, as might be supposed, extremely profane in speech as well as in conduct. Mr. Pancost, though not a Billy Sunday convert, was converted the summer before Billy campaigned in Denver. He was greatly interested in the Sunday work, and went to Frederick in response, he felt, to a "call" from the secretary of the school board. There had long prevailed a Christian head of schools. It certainly seemed like answered prayer to the secretary, James G. Jardine, himself a convert of the famous John McNeill.

Without much verbal preaching, Superintendent Pancost set about convincing the boys of reverence for sacred things and turning the community toward higher living. He found the boys had been in the habit of swearing around school, if not actually in it; that as they had poured out of school in previous years, in the evening, it had seemed as if a torrent of profanity had been let loose on the streets. Quietly but surely he began to work to change this. In a few words he explained that profanity was absolutely "taboo" on the school grounds. He told the pupils that he himself, a profane man, but found it cheap and humiliating. He had rejected it as poison to his manhood. He felt he could not afford to keep a single bit of such poison in his system. Would they please help him to watch himself that he did not slip in the matter?

He said no more on the subject until he stumbled upon a fight on the schoolground between a boy of the "bully" type and a much smaller, weaker boy. The bully was cursing and swearing terribly. Judgment fell "swift and sure," the bully was suspended. The boys were made to understand the reason. By this time they had come to know their superintendent for a man of his word, impartial and just in all his dealings with them, stern and unrelenting in his treatment of wrong, equally immovable in defense of right. The next day the kind of man they could "lie to" in case of need. They knew he heaved straight to the line of his pretensions, without talking much about it.

Only once more during the year did the question of swearing in any phase come up. This was when he was supervising a reading class in the seventh and eighth grade room. A pupil while reading pronounced a phrase in such a manner that it sounded like the name of the Lord, used in a vulgar sense. The boys were made to understand the reason. By this time they had come to know their superintendent for a man of his word, impartial and just in all his dealings with them, stern and unrelenting in his treatment of wrong, equally immovable in defense of right. The next day the kind of man they could "lie to" in case of need. They knew he heaved straight to the line of his pretensions, without talking much about it.

ON WITH THE WAR!

(Chicago Evening Post.) The British house of commons spent three days discussing the Mesopotamia scandal; whereupon Premier Lloyd George spoke thus: "The government does not wish to shield anyone responsible for the terrible catastrophe in Mesopotamia, but I am bound to point out that for the better part of three or four days the army council, chiefs of the army, the cabinet and both houses of parliament have been discussing matters that have nothing to do with the practical prosecution of the war, and all this time events on which the whole future of civilization depends are happening. Beg you to realize your responsibilities and to urge and help the government get on with the war!"

SHOW HIM YOUR HANDS.

A little daughter of the tenement was left, at fourteen years of age, with four younger ones to mother and to nurse. And, faithful to her trust, she scrubbed and washed and mended until the slender shoulders bent and the thin face grew white and almost before anyone noticed much, the little broken life lay waiting for release. "I haven't been able to do anything," she whispered to her favorite girl friend, who lived just around the corner. "I couldn't go to school because of the work, nor to Sabbath school because it took all father could spare to keep the others in clothes. When the minister came to see me, he said I'd soon see Jesus; but I'm afraid I haven't done anything good, and I don't know anything to say to him." "And you needn't try to say anything," said the other, "not a single word," kissing the little girl's face. "When I see him look at you, you just show him your hands."

THAT "THIS IS FROM ME," IS A THOUGHT THAT WILL HELP YOU WHEN TEMPTATION IS STRONG

(A Tract, from Bible Study and Prayer Home, Shanghai.)

My child, I have a message for you today; let me whisper it in your ear, that it may aid with glory any storm clouds which may arise, and smooth the rough places upon which you may have to tread.

It is short, only five words, but let them sink into your inmost soul, use them as a pillow upon which to rest your weary head.

THIS THING IS FROM ME. Have you ever thought of it, that all that concerns you, concerns Me too? For "he that toucheth you toucheth the apple of Mine eye." Zech. ii. 8.

I would have you learn when temptations assail you, and the "enemy" comes in like a flood, that this thing is from Me, that your weakness needs My might, and your safety lies in letting Me fight for you.

Are you in difficult circumstances, surrounded by people who do not understand you, who never consult your taste, who put you in the background? This thing is from Me. I am the God of circumstances. "Thou canst not try to place by accident, it is the very place God meant for thee." Have you not asked to be made humble? See then, I have placed you in the very school where this lesson is taught: your surroundings and companions are only working out My will.

Are you in money difficulties? Is it hard to make both ends meet? This thing is from Me, for I am your provider, and would have you draw from, and depend upon Me. My supplies are limitless. Phil. iv. 19. I would have you prove My promises. Let it not be said of you, "In this thing ye did not believe the Lord your God." Deut. i. 32.

Are you passing through a night of sorrow? This thing is from Me. I am "The Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." I have let earthly comforters fail you, that by turning to Me you may obtain everlasting consolation. 2 Thess. ii. 13. Have some friend disappointed you? One to who you opened out your heart? This thing is from Me. I have allowed this disappointment to come, in order that you may learn that "The best friend to have is Jesus. He will hear you when you call."

Real Troubles and Imaginary Ones Are Pointed by Allegory

(The Christian.)

It sometimes happens that a person will wear out his own life and the lives of others over trifles, when if a real misfortune or emergency comes he will rise to the occasion and show that he is after all something more than a number of the ground.

A pointed illustration of this was afforded by the case of Francis, earl of Arundel, who lived in the fourteenth century. It was found that the earthquake seemed to have a curious effect on the depressed. Instead of sufferers by the fire losing heart and killing themselves, only three persons committed suicide in the three months following the catastrophe. In the days of that city's prosperity, the average was twelve suicides a week. Whether this was due to an improvement in the moral stamina of the inhabitants, or whether by this levelling of rich and poor conditions were made more natural and the contrasts less bitter, is not known. The question of liquor during those months had something to do with the result.

The Omaha News tells the following story illustrating the folly of worry: "A certain man carried a sack, under which he groaned and complained unceasingly. From none could he take help or comfort.

And as he slowly journeyed on, toiling under his heavy burden, the Angel of Knowledge came to him and spoke kindly, saying: "What ariest thou?"

And the man made answer surlily: "My worries."

Then the angel smiled pityingly upon him, and said: "Let us look into thy bundle and examine thy worries. But, lo! the sack was empty.

"Surely," cried the man, "there were two great worries, too heavy for a man to bear. But—ah, yes, I had forgotten—one was a worry of yesterday, and so it is gone."

"That—that was a worry of tomorrow, and it is not yet here."

Then the angel smiled upon the man with infinite pity, saying: "Listen! He who bows himself down under the worries of yesterday of tomorrow, forgets his own strength. But he who carries only the worries of today hath no need of a sack for his sorrows. If thou wilt cast black things aside, and give all thy strength and cheer and courage to the things of today, real misfortune never can overcome thee."

Whereupon the man did as the Angel of Knowledge commanded. And as he took up his journey and went swiftly on, his heart and hands were free to relieve many other wayfarers of their burdens, and to pluck for himself sweet fruits and flowers along the way.

And when he came at last to the setting of the sun it was with smiles and song.

FRANK LITTLE'S DEATH.

(Keweenaw, Mich. Miner.) A feeling akin to horror seizes one when we read of the hanging of Frank Little at Butte this day. It seems inhuman, but the old saying is "that those who draw the sword will perish by the sword," and there seems to be a grim connection with the saying and the death of Little. At the time that James C. Myron was brutally murdered by I. W. W. agitators on the Mesaba range last year Little was arrested in connection with the matter, as he was one of the able trouble-makers who were active in the death of Myron.

"He will keep you test you fail, The best friend to have is Jesus."

I want to be your confidant. Have someone repeated things about you that are untrue? Leave them to Me, and draw closer unto Me, thy shelter out of reach of "the strife of tongues." For "I will bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgments as the noonday." Ps. xcvi. 8.

Have your plans been all upset? Are you bowed down and weary? This thing is from Me. You made your plans, then came asking Me to bless them, but I would have you let Me plan for you, and then I take the responsibility, for "The things of this world are too many, and ye are not able to perform it thyself alone." Ex. xviii. 18. You are only an instrument, not an agent.

Have you longed to do some great work for Me, and instead been laid aside on a bed of pain and weakness? This thing is from Me. I could never get your attention in your busy day, and I want to teach you some of My deepest lessons. "They also serve who only stand and wait." I want you to learn to sing.

"I am not eager, bold or strong. All that is past; I am ready not to do At last at last!"

Are you suddenly called up to occupy a difficult and responsible position? Launch out on Me. I am trusting you with the "possession of difficulties," and "for this thing the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto." Deut. xv. 10.

This day I place in your hand this pot of holiness, make use of it freely; My child. Let every circumstance as it arises, every word that pains you, every interruption that would make you impatient, every revelation of your own weakness, be anointed with it. Remember, "Interruptions are divine instructions." (Rev. A. A. Fox). The sting will go as you learn to see life in all things. Therefore, "Set your hearts unto all the words which I testify among you this day . . . for it is not a vain thing for you; because it is your wisdom, and shall bring ye still prolong your days in the land." Deut. xxxii. 46, 47.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—A conference to discuss ways and means of increasing production of winter wheat and rye in 1918 will be held at the call of Secretary Houston in Indianapolis, beginning Monday, August 20. Special consideration will be given to the planting of these acreages without disturbance of the 1918 corn and other crops.

The conference at Indianapolis is one of a series of regional conferences on this same subject two of which already have been held in Washington and Atlanta. After the Indianapolis meeting the representatives of the department will proceed to other regional conferences to be held in Kansas City, Mo., August 22, and in Spokane, Wash., August 27.

FIGHT WAS DESPERATE

Graphic Account of German Attempt to Recapture Lost Ground

BRITISH TROOPS FORCED TO GIVE UP

French Artillery Fire in Taking Ground Was Terrific

British Front in France, Aug. 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—The fighting Thursday at Polygona was desperate. Wave after wave of the enemy came surging up against the London troops, who held on determinedly with rifle and bayonet until two simultaneous counter attacks from different directions forced them to retreat.

Gradually they withdrew, fighting all the way. Some few of them were surrounded and fought until forced to surrender. One young officer in command of ten men found himself encircled by the enemy and his men being swept by machine gun fire. The last heard of him was contained in a message he signalled back to his division, saying his men were facing death and that he saw no way but to surrender and save their lives.

Quiet Along French Front.

Along most of the French front it was comparatively quiet, although a hard local battle was continuing about a strong German redoubt known as "Les Lillas," which lies about a thousand yards southwest of the St. Jansbeek river.

In their advance the French surged forward on either side of this position, making a sort of a pocket about it and it was expected that the small German garrison would be compelled to surrender shortly. The Germans delivered a counter attack on the French extreme right flank, but this was repulsed by artillery fire. The prisoners accounted for to date total more than 370, and this figure represents considerably more than the entire French casualties along their whole front in Thursday's offensive.

The remarkably small number of casualties was due to the fine work of the French artillery. Preliminary bombardment of German positions was very effective and the advance was made under a perfect barrage.

As was the case on the British front about Langemarck, the German barrage was totally inadequate and the counter battery work, whereon so much depends, gave no trouble.

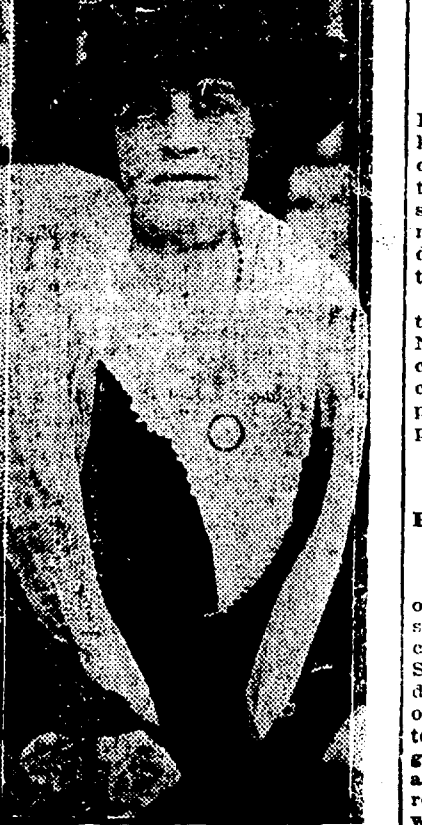

French Fire Superior.

French counter battery firing resulted in silencing a large number of enemy guns and as a result the French have been little troubled by gun fire in carrying out consolidations.

The work of the French engineers in this difficult terrain, which, as it approaches the river, is a veritable morass, had been thrust forward swiftly and when it came to bridging the flooded Steenbeek for crossing at dawn, Thursday, there was not the slightest delay in getting the numerous bridges over.

The French air service played an important part in the advance, going ahead of the infantry all along the line and keeping up the contact of the patrols at the height of two or three hundred metres. The German airmen who ventured in the direction of the French were driven back and the air was cleared of enemy machines. In addition to patrol work the French airmen did good execution with machine guns and bombs on enemy redoubts.

NURSERIES FOR FRENCH MOTHERS AND BABIES

Work Will Be Undertaken by Committee for Aid of Destitute Children.

New York, Aug. 18.—Announcement was made here today of the establishment within the next few weeks in many of the larger towns and cities of France of hospital nurseries for the benefit of the mothers and babies of France. This work will be undertaken by the committee for the aid of destitute children under the auspices of the American fund for French wounded. The first unit, composed of ten volunteer nurses and five physicians, will leave New York for France next month to open the first hospital nursery in Paris. Acting in conjunction with the American fund, which now supplies 3,000 hospitals in the smaller towns and cities of France, the new committee will attempt to provide care for the babies whose mothers have been forced to menial work in the French factories.

Funds for the new work will be handled by the American fund for French wounded through its eighty committees scattered throughout the United States.

STRIKERS WILL NOT LAY DOWN ON JOBS

Lumber Jacks Will Continue to Fight Fires Notwithstanding I. W. W. Order

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 18.—More than 500 striking lumber jacks, members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who have been sent from Missoula to fight fires for the United States forest fires, will stick to their jobs even though the threatened general strike of the I. W. W. is called next Monday, according to a statement today by Arthur W. Smith, secretary of the organization here.

The announcement is important, forest service officials say, because the fire situation is now more serious than at any time this year. Dangerous fires are spreading rapidly through dry forests and men enough to combat them successfully cannot be obtained.

Fires near Falcon, Idaho, along the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, are the most serious in the district.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD BOY ROBBED

Bigger Boy Knocks Andrew Sloan Down and Takes His Week's Wages.

He started home, but at the corner of Clinton and Holman streets Andrew's dreams of what he was going to do with his treasure vanished. Another boy much larger than he played the ruffian part and knocked the youth down and took his money away from him.

In tears Andrew told the story at the police station. Now the police and detectives are looking for the ruffian. A good description was given by Andrew of the boy who robbed him.

Press Opposed to Socialist Conference Pleas With Warlike.

London, Aug. 18.—The appointment of George J. His acceptance of the office is regarded as the more significant as he accompanied Arthur Henderson, who recently resigned as member of the war council, and James Ramsay MacDonald, ex-chairman of the labor party, on their recent famous visit to Paris since which time he has not declared his views.

The appointment of George H. Roberts as minister of labor necessitates his seeking re-election at Norwich. Other appointments to the board of trade are expected to be made in the near future.

BRITISH DO DAMAGE TO GERMANS AT SEA

Mine Sweeper and Destroyer Crippled in Fight With British Vessels.

London, Aug. 18.—The admiralty announces that a hostile destroyer and two mine sweepers were damaged severely by British naval forces on Thursday. The British warships were not damaged.

The announcement follows: "Some of our light naval forces scouting a German bight on August 15, sighted an enemy destroyer at 9:45 a. m. Fire was opened and the enemy destroyer was chased. She was seen to be hit repeatedly and to be on fire, but she escaped through the mist over the mine field.

"An enemy mine sweeper was sighted shortly after the sighting of the destroyer and a heavy searchlight opened. At least two of the mine sweepers were seen to be very severely damaged, but similarly with the destroyer our ships were unable to follow them, owing to the proximity of the mine fields.

"During the engagement our vessels were attacked by a submarine, and after the action a second submarine attacked, in both cases without result. Our vessels suffered no damage whatever."

Chiefs Drop Big Swatting Contest With Muskegon

Twenty-Nine Hits Registered in Game at League Park Friday.

Company E and the signal corps, a fierce encounter and fifteen healthy swats from the bats of the boys from Michigan featured Friday's defeat of Fort Wayne by Muskegon 8 to 5. With the soldier boys doing everything in their power and the rest of the crowd pulling hard for Fort Wayne, the Chiefs could not win. Fort Wayne evidently halted to consolidate her losses and is now tied with Dayton for the cellar championship, which position has been hotly contested for by the Vets and Chiefs for the last few weeks. Muskegon's win Friday made it three in a row, a clean sweep of the series.

A warrant was served on Fred Hunter, first baseman with Muskegon, following an attack he is alleged to have made on John Essig, secretary of the Fort Wayne ball club, preceding the contest over the refusal of Essig to admit a bat boy. Hunter is said to have struck Essig following the altercation. Essig swore out the warrant and Bailiff George Siskin was directed to serve it. When the bailiff appeared at the baseball park he decided to wait until the game was over before serving the warrant upon the request of the manager of the visiting club. Hunter gave bond.

The game developed into a slugging contest after the second inning when the Muskegon starters started off, scoring five runs before they were through. The first three men up each delivered a single. Two scored on Brennegan's two-bagger, and Speas' triple cleared the bases. Hunter sacrificed, allowing Speas to score. The next two were easy. Roberts went in to relieve Kowalski at this juncture.

The Chiefs scored three runs in their half of the fifth inning. Glocksion on an error, with one down, and went to third on Vandagriff's single. Roberts tripled, bringing in both runners and scored himself on a single by Breaux. Miller and Hoffman flew out to center.

The score was tied up in the seventh inning when the home club again got busy with their bats. Breaux was out on an easy infield drive which the visiting shortstop gobbled up. Miller got on and Smith drew a pass. Hoffman flew to center. Stegfrid singled, filling the bases. Kelly delivered the blow which tied the count and allowed two Chiefs to cross the pan. Glocksion flew out, ending the scoring for the inning.

Another batting round put the game in the cooler for Muskegon. Speas got a hit, Hunter and Essig doubled, scoring Speas and Hunter. Kirby scored on Kahler's single.

RUNNER WANTED TO ENLIST.
St. Louis, Aug. 18.—One of this city's leading marathon runners, Henry Levison, has passed the physical examination for the new national army. Levison has tried several times to enlist in the army but always was "turned down" because he lacked the required height. He says he does not claim exemption and is willing to serve his country. His greatest success in the yearly marathons which he started to compete in 1909, came in 1914, when he finished fourth. Sidney Hatch and Kennedy were ahead of him that year. He is 24 years old.

BURRY GOES TO GIANTS.
Chicago, Aug. 18.—Paul F. Burry, a young pitcher, who was tried out by the Chicago Nationals early in the spring and turned over to Newark of the International league, will be given a tryout with the New York Giants soon, and is expected to finish the season with them. Burry formerly pitched for Duquesne university, where he and Al Mamaux, the suspended Pittsburgh twirler, were teammates. He was first discovered by Connie Mack, but turned back, and next was taken over by Joe Tinker, who then was manager of the Chicago Nationals. He is 20 years old, weighs 160 pounds, and stands 5 feet 11 inches in his socks.

POOR DOWN TRODDEN BALLPLAYER GETS ONLY $72,000 IN FOUR YEARS

Much has been written since the Federal league war about the high price of ball players, all of which suggests the little mint Johnny Evers has made of himself during the last three and a half years. Way back in 1914 Johnny joined the Braves. He finished first that year. In addition his split on world series money amounted to $2,812.25, his grand total for the year being $39,812.25. In 1915 Johnny drew his salary and a $1,500 bonus when the Braves finished second. In 1916 the Braves took third and Johnny's earnings were a paltry $11,000. This year he drew about $5,000 from the Braves before he was transferred to the Phils, who will pay the rest. The total $72,312.25, at a rate of $18,078.10 per year of six months isn't so bad even for a poor, down-trodden ball player.

Restore 6-cent loaf, says a headline. What, bread or a racing match? It seems mighty funny to hear the Dodgers referred to as the champions. MEN-MOUNTAINS TO BATTER EACH OTHER FOR CHANCE TO TAKE A CRACK AT BIG JESS' CROWN

UNDERWOOD—UNDERWOOD

The question of whether Jess Willard will defend his title, and against whom, probably will be decided Labor day at Canton, O.
On that day Carl Morris and Fred Fulton, the biggest and perhaps the best of the heavyweights, Willard excepted, will mix in a fifteen round decision match. Whether the winner will have a chance at Willard is still a question, but Matt Hinkle, who is promoting the bout, believes Willard will consent to a match as soon as he can get in shape after his circus season.
Hinkle says he has been unable to get any definite statement out of Willard, but he has done more than any other promoter in getting Willard to commit himself. "When I get ready to box, I will see you, Matt," Willard told Hinkle, and there is a suspicion that he went even further and promised to go on with a match, but if he did Hinkle is not talking about it.
American heavyweights today are not much to brag about. None of them come up to the measure set by the champions and near-champions of other days. Imagine Tom Sharkey or Bob Fitzsimmons in the same ring with either Fulton or Morris, if you will, and guess how long it would last.
Nevertheless Fulton and Morris are the cream of the runners-up for Willard's title today, and if anyone is to tilt his crown from his head it must be one of them.
So in the game of creating new champions Carl Morris, the Sapulpa fireman, and Fred Fulton, the Minnesota plasterer, will swap wallop for fifteen rounds or less on Labor day.
Some 450 pounds of flesh will be propelled around a 24-foot ring with the hope that the winner will get a chance to meet another 260 bulk of bone and muscle for the alleged honor of holding the world's heavyweight championship.

There is not much to choose between the pair. Fulton has the advantage of height, towering six feet seven inches into space. Morris is perhaps the more rugged. Both are slow, unwieldy and awkward, and if fifteen solid punches are struck in the fifteen rounds it will be an eighth wonder.
Both men are attributed with weaknesses which real fighters should not have. Morris is lazy and so far as ring records show there has never been a chronically lazy fighter who ever got much of anywhere.

ENTRY LIST WILL CLOSE ON MONDAY

Time Extended for Patriotic Tennis Tournament at Country Club.

The time for closing the entry list for the Indiana state patriotic tennis tournament has been extended until Monday at 6 p. m. instead of Saturday at 6 p. m. as has been announced. This action was taken to allow more entries and add interest to the tournament.
Owing to unusual conditions prevailing this year the war and attending circumstances, it is not thought probable that the entry list will include as many of the town stars as has been the case heretofore. Another hindering factor is the fact that the dates for the local tourney conflict with the big tournament scheduled to take place next week in Cleveland.
Fort Wayne will have a chance to step in and take the laurels herself unless some more entries are made other than those known now. It is felt, although such a championship would be considered an empty honor—that is, making the championship contest a Fort Wayne affair.
The purpose of the tourney is to help the Red Cross and for this reason, those behind the tourney are urging that no one deter from entering because of his game or because he will be unable to play, but enter in order to swell the proceeds.

WETHER EDDYTORIUL

Being as there aint nothing else partickler to claim our attention in the way of a eddytorial this wk we thort it mite be a good idee to dash off a brief eddytorial concerning the kind of wether we have been a having lately.

It has been mostly hot. It pears to us sometimes that if we was a runnin the wether for Bingville we could make a better job of it than we have had for the past few weeks.

To begin with we had a turrible wet spring with about twict as much rain as we nacherly needed and so cold that persons had to keep their fires a going and luggin wood until all their wood was burnt up.

This cool backard spring kept up until about June 1 or thereabouts and then quite suddintly it come off hottern blazes and has remained so ever sinst.

It has not only remained hot ever sinst but it has remained dry as well. Now the crops is badly in need of rain and yit it dont rain and day after day it pears like the skies is dry as a bone with not a cloud in site.

What we be gitting at is why in thunderashion instid of having so blamed much rain all last spring why couldnt a leetle of it be saved and dropped on the ground now that it is needed so much?

But then we persoom we ort not to complain. We persoom no matter what kind of wether we had it wouldnt be the rite kind to please everybuddy. We have notised that some folks is almost as hard to please as we be.

In fact we hate to be allus kickin like some peepul.

Pertinent Personalities

Miss Tabitha Jones our fashionable dressmaker was took sick last wk from a spell of bilius sick headache and is still bedfast. Them ladies of Bingville who had Miss Tabitha working on dresses for them which was promised to be done before this is turrible put out and now they say sinst they didnt git their dresses when they wanted them it would serve Tabitha rite if she had to remain sick a wk or two longer. This is a nise christchian spirit to show aint it?

Rev. Sam Moore the beloved pastor of the Bingville church tells us that there was only three at prayer meeting last Wednesday evng inclooding himself and one of these was the church janitor, Sim Hines who had to remain for prayer mtg whether he desired to or not so as to lock up the church after twas over. This is simply ridiculus. Lufe Whitacre cold at this offis and paid us 25 cts on his back subscription which boosts Lufe up to Jan 1 1896. Thanks Lufe. Small contributions thankfullly recd, but the bigger they be the more thankfuller are we.

Jaspar Hawkins has a very painful bealing in his ear which has kept him awake nites for several nites back. Jasp says in his opinynn a bealing in a persons ear is worsen fuchoor punishment. We dont know how Jasp knows that—yet.

Mrs. Sam Hankins done a turrible big wash last Monday morning and had it hang out on the line by 6:30 a. m. Hows that for a big warshing out so early? Mrs. Sam must of had to git up at about 2 a. m. and warsh by candlelite of did that.

Jemima Peppers has been planning for quite a spell back to take a trip to the co. seat where she has a married sister who she aint saw for 15 years. Ab Wilkins while luggin rocks to bild a stone fence tother day stubd his toe whilst he was luggin a rock which was so big he couldnt see over it to see where he was steppin and the rock slid outen his hand and fell smashin his big toe on his left foot. Ab said it hurt so that he set rite down on the ground and wep like a child and then when it got to feelin better he cussed that stone until no self respectin fly would lite on it.

The Widdar Henderson is having the paining fence in front of her residence whitewashed, Hank Dewberry doing the work for her. When we past by the Widders yesterday and engaged Hank in conversation it lookd to us as if he was gitting more whitewash on the ground and on his clothes inclooding in the fence and there is a dout in our mind whether the whitewash will hold out until he finishes the job.

Amzi Gookins has been suffering turrible from a bunyun on his foot lately which he says akes him so at times that it almost unbearabe. Whenever we're a going to have a spell of wet weather Amzi's bunyun akes him moren usual and as a result he can tell when its a going to storm and folks who knows this hereabouts has got into the habit of askin Amzi what the weathers going to be being as Amzi and his bunyun is regarded as quite a weather prophet.

Last wk we had a curus coincidence happen to us. We was a talking to Brad Hinsley who we met on the st and happend to remark that it was a purty hot Wednesday. Brad said it was Tuesday not Wednesday so we had some pretty hot arguments about it until we offered to bet Brad the seegars it was Wednesday and he tuk us up and then we went into Ame Hilliers law offis to look at the callender and to our intents surprise it was Tuesday shure enuff and being as Brad was rite there was nothinkll else for us to do except to buy him 5 cts worth of seegars. We cant yet understand how we managed to git a day ahead. It wouldnt of surprised us if we had of got a day behint becuz we have did that often but never a day ahead before.

Cy Hoskins informs us that the old grandfathers clock which has stood in his hall for lo these menny yrs has went and stoppd on him and that it aint tickd a tick sinst last Tuesday nite when it stoppd at half past 11. About 12 yrs ago Sime Cooper our expert clock fixer had Cys clock all apart and repaired same but when Sime went to put the clock together agin he had three wheels and several screws which he diddent have no use for and throwd away. Cy thinks this is whats the matter with the clock and now wishes to goodness Sime haddent of throwd em away.

Thanks & Regrets

Mrs. Jerushy Perkins who is one of the kindest souls in Bingville made a brief vissit to the Bugle offis tother day and left a large green cucumber on our desk as a mark and token of the esteem in which she holds us we persoom.

In the past Jerushy has offen left pies and cakes and other natables on our desk which has been recd. by us with much cheer and et by ourself and wife with much gusto.

In the evg we tuk the aforsaid cucumber home and had it for supper. Being as our wife aint much of a hand for cucumbers we devoured it all ourself. We regret to state however that about the time we usually retire we was took with a severe pain to our eddytorial stummick which growd worse and worse until it reached sitch a acute stage that we suffard terrible agony and was dubbled up with pains and cramps until we resembled a summer squash.

As a last resort our wife finally went for Doc Livermore who had went to bed but our wife waked him up and Doc dressd and come over and when he arove he was still huff asleep and he give us two pills as big as marbels after which he discovered that he had made a mistake and give us a couple of horse pills!

We peard to grow easier after we had took them two pills and by mid-nite went to sleep and slept until mornink. Doc says hes awful surprised to find that them two horse pills cured us instid of killin us and he regards this as a great discuverry and will hereafter perskribe horse pills for huming colick.

Altho we assisted Doc in his great discuverry which he wouldnt of discovered if it haddent been for us being sick we nottis that he charged us 50 cts. for the vissit jest the same.

In concloushion we wish to say to Mrs. Perkins that if its all the same to her we would prefer that she diddent bring us no more cucumbers being as they dont seem to agree with us. We would prefer pies or cakes or something like that instid.

New Herrings Rec'd by Hen

Hen Weathersby, prop of a general store, desires us to inform the publick (this is a advertisement and should be regarded as sitch) that he has just recd and opened a box of the nicest smoked herrings which he has ever recd.

These herrings is 2 for 5 cts. and they are turrible big, fat herrings for their size and awful delicious. What is niser than a few of these herrings along with some crackers and cheese for instants as you set in Hens store of a evg and discuss the current topics of the day.

These herrings make a person turrible thirsty if they et sufficient of same, but Hen wishes to state that he will furnish all the water you can drink absolutely FREE to them as buy herrings and crackers and cheese of him.

No More Frost This Summer

Old Dad Henderson who prides himself on being a turrible far seelk wether profet says that hes purty reasonable shure that we wont have no frost betwixt now and next September.

Dad in the past has made some purty ackerate perdictshions, but the above is the fooltest perdictshion we ever heard him make. Dad used to be a better wether profet than he is now. For the past yr or two Dad has missed it on the wether a good menny more times than he has hit it until now hes almost scairt to make a perdictshion a tall and we persoom this is the reason he is so alimty caushious.

Most enny fool could perdict that there wouldnt be enny frost betwixt now and next September and he shure it would turn out as they said. Whoever heard of frost in July ennyhow unless it was at the north pole or some other seart?

For the past few days the thermometer has been hangin around 100 in the shade in Bingville and folks has been gaspin for breth and sweatin like a hottel of ice worter in the sun and under the circumstances we dont calikate there is a going to be enny frost.

Lafe's Ice Is Gone

Lafe Henderson come into this offis in disgust tother day and informd us with considerable perfanitty (which aint fit to print in this connectshion) that when he went to his ice house last Sabbath to git a lump of ice to make lemonade of he was amazed and surprised to find that there wassent a cake of ice in the ice house being as it had all melted to the last cake.

It aint no mystery or mirackel to us that Lafe's ice has went and melted on him. If we diddent put no more sawdust on our ice when we put it in the ice house than Lafe does we would expect it to melt and we wouldnt blame it if it did. Not only that but Lafe has used the same old sawdust to put up his ice with yr after yr without getting enny new fresh sawdust and when a person is so stingy of their sawdust in putting up ice they can expect their ice to melt.

Now we persoom Lafe will expect to borrrer ice from his nabers as usual but if he comes to us to borrrer enny ice and expects to git it he will be disappointed.

Good Speed for Tommie

Little Tommie Barker the 11 yr old son of Bige Barker our respected townsman has been suffering for a spell with a stone bruise on his heel which has been very painful judging from the slow way which little Tommie limps along, but it was showed tother day that Tommie can make turrible fast time on his feet when the occasion demands.

Deacon Andrews went out to his back orchard tother day to see how his apples was ripening and as he approachd one of his Norther. Spy trees little Tommie dropd outen the tree and legged it for home as fast as he could leg it.

The Deacon tuk after him and the Deacon is six feet all and has awful long legs but he wassent no match for little Tommie who the Deacon said got over the ground like a rabbit and escaped.

Eb's Pet Crow

Eb Doolittle tother day while in the woods back of his house ketchd a yung crow which he tuk home to make a pet of. The crow was about half growd and now Eb wishes he haddent ketchd it. The bland crow is the narrated.

theef that was ever in Bingville and thats saying a good eal. It stole Missus Doolittles silver thimbel and several of her teaspoons and hid em away where nobuddy can find em and it also tride to lug off the alarm clock but that was too big.

When it aint stealin it sets on top of the woodshed and hollers at everybuddy who goes past. Eb says hell give this crow away free gratis to ennybuddy who wants sitch a theef around the house being as hes had enuff of that crow.

I am GOING to SHOOT a COW

So menny folks have said to me lately that they are sick and tired of eating salt pork. So am I which is why I am going to bucher my cow. Send or bring your order in urly because if I cant sell three fourths of this cow in advance before I kill her why then I wont kill her! And want to know about this beforehand.

running when the stop is supposed to be for only a little while, thus consuming gasoline and wearing the machinery, so that the higher the stop is made, the more the machine soon becomes a matter of real economy.

We recommend the purchase of a five-passenger Chevrolet, design of 1918, at a cost of $650, the appropriation to be made from the general fund. This is the lowest priced starter upon the market but the machine is highly recommended and has been thoroughly tested in this community.

The machine should be labeled "Park Department" and will only be used by our superintendent when engaged in public work.

It is exceedingly important that no delay occur in securing this machine, as it is most needed right now, and our board therefore expresses its regret that it cannot pass favorably on this request, that the City Council will pass the ordinance without the usual reference to a committee.

COMMUNICATION.
To the Board of Directors of the Commercial Club:
Your Committee of City Interests begs leave to submit to the Board of Directors some few facts for its consideration that the committee deems of vital importance to the progress and best interests of the City of Fort Wayne.

It is quite apparent that for several years past the administrative departments of the city have been handicapped in the administration of the respective departments by reason of the lack of sufficient funds to properly provide for public needs and public demands. The administrative departments have under their supervision the fire, police and park departments as well as supervision of all the improvements of the City of Fort Wayne. Public Works has been without sufficient funds to properly provide for the maintenance of the city and the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Very sincerely yours,
REV. D. PETRILL.

HIRAM LONG, JR., DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

He Was Being Brought to This City Following Accident at Larwill.

Hiram Long, 40, who was being rushed to this city following an accident in which his uncle, Hiram Long, 75, was instantly killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by the Manhattan Limited on the Pennsylvania at Larwill, died as the train was passing Arcola. He suffered a fractured skull at the base of the brain. The elder Long sustained a fractured skull, broken left leg, crushed chest and broken jaw.

The accident is the third of its kind to occur in Whitley county since the evening of January 24, when Jacob Hawk and Clarence Van Orsdoll were killed in an automobile at the Line street crossing in Columbia City. The second fatality occurred on the evening of July 14, when Guy Moore and Harry Pinchon were killed.

RUSSELL EXPLAINS WHY RUSSIA QUIT FIGHTING, THEN BEGAN AGAIN

I have talked with many of the Russian revolutionists. I have found none that on March 11 had any hope that the curse hanging over their country 800 years would in their time be lifted.

And then, on March 12, the whole thing, without a moment's warning, began to crack and bend. On March 14 the revolution that no man had planned was complete, the old order had vanished, the wonder of a dawning New Day burst upon Russia.

Then the Russian revolutionist soared to the skies in an uncontrollable burst of enthusiasm.

The thing had come after all! All the old foundations had been swept away over night. The dreams of so many years were not idle. Behold they were about to be realities before his very eyes!

The czar was gone and men were free, not alone from czars and political despotism, but free also from poverty, injustice, hatred, competition—and war?

Ah!—well, there was the trouble. This terrible war was on. He had not made it, the citizen of New Russia; it was none of his affair. It had been made by the czar and the czar's government, all of whose deeds and works had been wiped out and cast away by the revolution and the New Dawn—the dawn of peace and joy to all mankind.

Why, then, should he fight? It was useless to talk to him about treaties and alliances. To the bottomless pit with all treaties made by the czar! They belonged to the Old Russia, dead and gone forever. New Russia had nothing to do with all that. New Russia had no concern, no object and no business except to spread among all men the glad tidings of the day without poverty, injustice, hatred, competition or war.

Why, then, should he fight? All men being brothers, equally, the Germans were the Russians' brothers as much as the rest. It seemed clear that the way to abolish war was to stop fighting. How, then, can we be asked to continue the czar's war against these, our German brethren?

Men of these views were in control of the new government. Men of these views constituted at least three-fourths of the population. These views dominated Russia for the first ten weeks after the revolution and to a certain extent dominate it now.

No wonder, then, operations came to a stop and the world concluded that Russia had virtually surrendered and was out of it.

The world didn't know Russia! After a time the Russian revolutionist began to perceive that much as he loved peace and was committed to it there could be no hope for peace except by going on with this war.

At first only a few saw this—Platonoff, the old time leader, who first unfurled the red flag in the Nevsky Prospekt; Krapotkin, the escaped prisoner of the fortress of Peter and Paul; Kerensky, the sure-sighted. Gradually it became clearer to more men and more until it was adopted by a majority.

"The first enemy of universal peace and universal brotherhood is German militarism," they said. "Unless that can be abolished from the world we have no hope to carry out our dreams. We must make war that we may have peace."

Reluctantly they came to the inevitable conclusion. Slowly it is sweeping over the rest of the country.

But these things take time. Men do not readily give up their most cherished delusions. Truth is often bitter medicine; men do not yearn for it. While the Russian idealist is learning that the life of his ideals depends wholly upon the defeat of Germany there may be many unpleasant incidents, as there have been.

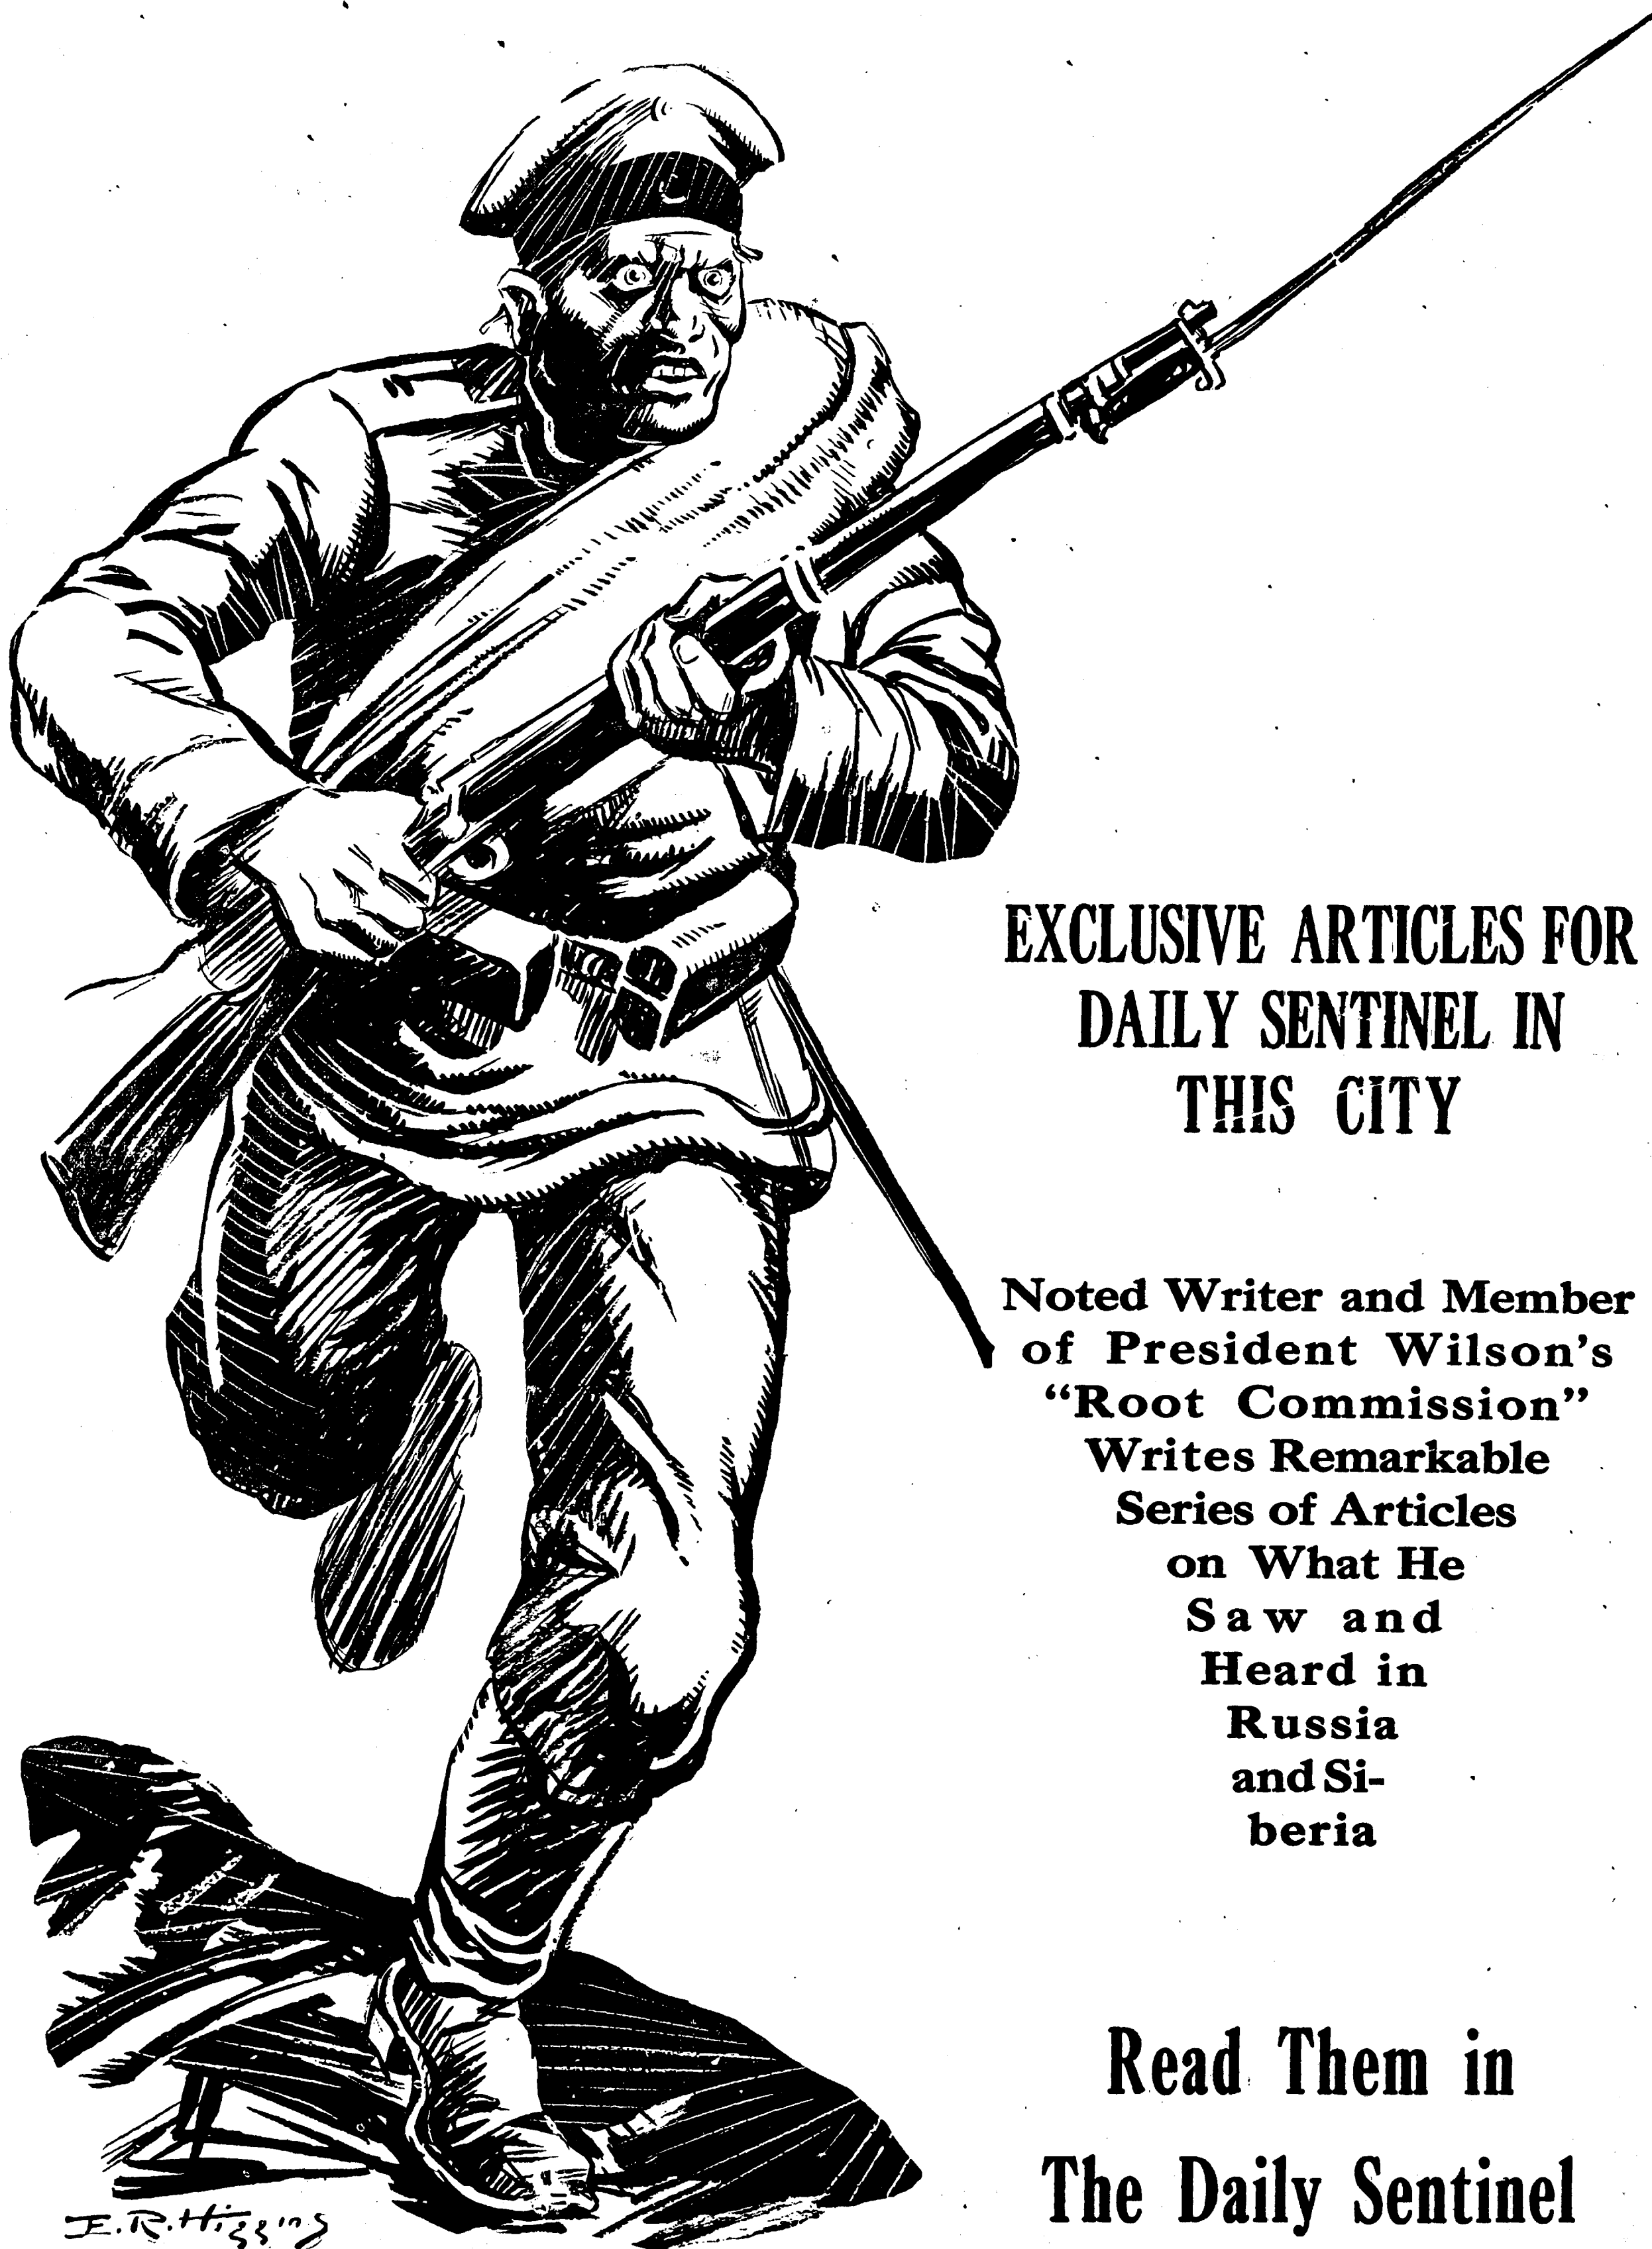

But nobody need doubt the result. Provided only the American pacifist and the American copperhead do not together utterly discourage the Russian and enable Germany to defeat not only Russia but all mankind.

VINES AS COVER FOR WALKS AND SHADE

The Grape Vine, Which Readily Lends Itself to Arbor Training, May Be Used for Screening Porches, Windows, and Outbuildings.

By L. C. CORBETT.

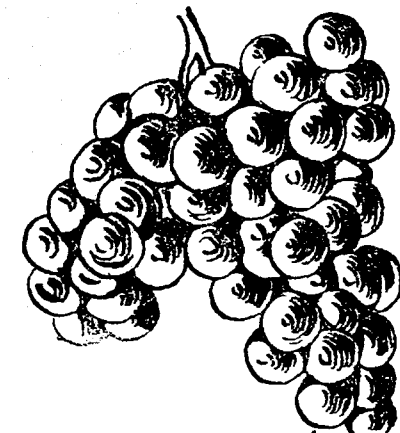

The grape vine may be trained in many desirable ways besides that of covering an arbor. It may be used as a shade or screening for tender plants by following certain systems of pruning and training. Strawberries adapt themselves readily to such situations and among garden vegetables lettuce and radishes may be successfully grown underneath a canopy of grape vines, as they will be out of the way before a very dense shade is formed by the leaves of the grape. Asparagus too may be grown under a shade of this character, as it will make a large share of its growth before the grape will have become dense enough to interfere with the young tender shoots.

A Grape-Vine-Covered Porch.

A cozy summer veranda may be covered by grape vines, thus securing the double advantage of a cool shady nook during the summer and a supply of fruit in autumn. In one garden a small arbor was made to support an Isabella vine which in one year produced 300 clusters of grapes.

If the shade is not allowed to become too dense. Among flowering plants none will thrive better under such conditions than pansies and violets.

"THE MECHANISM OF LIQUIDS"

In order to understand the "power problem" of the operation of lifting water we must learn right at the start that all pumps or lifts require precisely the same amount of power to lift a certain quantity of water to a certain height in a certain time. There is positively no difference between them except in the matter of friction and leakage. If all friction and leakage of each and every kind could be eliminated, one pump or hoisting contrivance would work as economically as another. The required power varies simply in accordance with the amount of water to be raised, the height to which it is to be raised, the time in which it is to be raised, and the amount of friction of the piston, the rod, the valves, the gear, and the water in the pipes, and the amount of leakage.

These simple facts must be clearly kept in mind by everyone who wants to understand pumping operations. The science of hydraulics—that is, "the mechanics of liquids"—states these facts in four so-called theorems, as follows:

1. The power required to raise a certain quantity of water to a certain height in a certain time varies directly with the quantity to be raised.
2. The power required to raise a certain quantity of water in a certain time varies directly with the height to which it is to be raised.
3. The power required to raise a certain quantity of water to a certain height varies inversely with the time in which it is to be raised.

4. The total amount of friction of a pumping apparatus consists of the friction of all its parts and of all the friction of the water in the pipes. Friction increases as the square of the velocity of the flow.

A few illustrations will make the given theorems clear.

(a) It requires twice as much power to raise 200 gallons 10 feet in one minute as it does to raise 100 gallons to the same height in one minute.

(b) It requires half the power to raise 100 gallons of water 5 feet in one minute that it does to raise it 10 feet.

(c) It requires four times the power to raise 100 gallons 10 feet in one minute that it does to raise the same quantity of water 10 feet high in four minutes.

(d) It requires eight times the amount of power to raise 200 gallons 20 feet in half a minute that it takes to raise 100 gallons 10 feet in one minute.

DEEP PLOWING.

Orchards may be renewed by cultivation, but deep plowing in orchards is disastrous, owing to the disturbance of many fine feeding roots that may not be noticeable to the plowman. Then scrape the trees and spray them.

Raising Turkeys

When about 6 weeks old the young turkeys are old enough to go to roost. Practically all turkey raisers allow the birds to roost in the open trees or on fences or other roosts, especially provided for them. In sections where high winds prevail it is customary to build the roosts next to a barn or shed, where there is some protection; when this is done poles are driven into the ground and poles laid across them 4 or 6 feet from the ground. By driving them to the roosting place and feeding them there every evening just before dark, young turkeys can be made to roost wherever desired. For the first few times it is sometimes necessary to keep them under the roost until dark, but they will finally fly up, and after a week or so will no longer have to be driven, but will come up every night to be fed and to roost.

During the summer and early fall turkeys can find an abundance of feed on the average farm. Grasshoppers and other insects, weeds and grass seeds, green vegetation, berries, and grain picked up in the fields all go to make up the turkey's daily ration. When this natural food is plentiful, very little need be added until fattening time, except for the purpose of bringing the turkeys every night to roost and to keep them from straying from home. For this purpose one feed of grain every night just before roosting time is sufficient.

One of the greatest difficulties with which turkey growers have to contend is to keep their flocks from wandering over too wide an area and invading neighboring farms. To some extent, feeding heavily night and morning reduces the area over which turkeys range, but even then they often go too far. When trouble of this kind occurs, the most effective plan is to drive them into an inclosure, such as is described in a preceding page, and keep them there until about noon. In warm weather turkeys do most of their ranging early in the morning and by 9 o'clock they are usually as far from home as they will get during the day. As soon as the sun becomes very warm they spend most of their time in the shade until 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when they begin moving toward home, ranging for feed along the way. If the weather is not too warm they do not spend so much time lying in the shade, and consequently range over a larger area and may keep moving away from home until noon. By feeding in the pen every morning, they soon learn to go there on coming down from roost and no time is lost in penning them. If they fly out of the pen after being fed, the flight feathers from one wing should be clipped.

AFTER A CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

Whitewash and disinfectants must be used freely about the hog house and yards. If the cleaning and disinfecting is carefully done we may be able to stock up again within a few weeks after the hogs have stopped dying and suffer no further loss but it is usually best to wait 2 or 3 months before we do this, depending on the hogs that have survived for a fresh start.

Marketing Apples

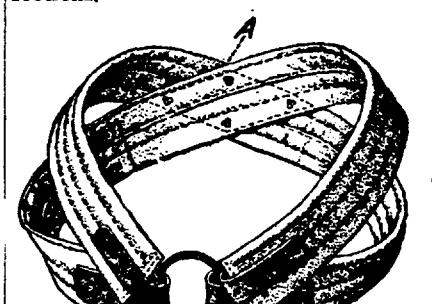

It is not too early for apple growers to formulate plans for marketing the crop of the present season. Marketing plans should comprehend picking methods, grading and sizing methods, kind or kinds of packages to use, types of pack if box packages are contemplated, shipping methods and facilities, storage and methods of marketing the fruit to the best advantage.

The time of picking apples varies considerably with the variety. In any case, however, fruit should be mature before any picking is done. Time of picking should be determined in part, also, by the use to which the fruit is put.

Grading and sizing may be done by machinery. Some form of grading is necessary to realize the highest profit. Through proper grading one New York firm received two years ago a minimum of $3.56 a barrel for its fruit and as high as $6.00 a barrel for the best grades. One experiment in honest grading and packing is usually sufficient to convince any grower of the policy of the practice.

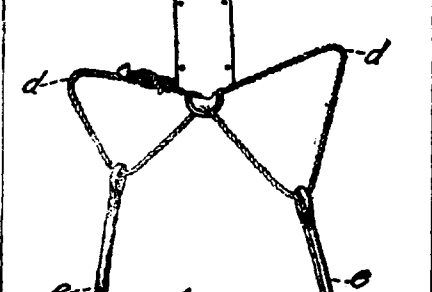

The advantages of the various types of storage and the type best suited to his conditions must be determined by the individual. For the commercial grower local storage is by far the best. For the average farmer or the man catering to a small market, a different form of storage is essential.

The co-operative plan of marketing apples has been very successful in some sections.

Fruit Weighing Apparatus.

A scale for weighing a maximum of 50 pounds; scale calibrated to indicate full box or parts of box in tenths; a, pointer; b, d, ropes; and c, steel hooks.

Grapefruit Sizer.

Grapefruit is said to cure jaundice and all blood diseases.

Drying Vegetables

Economy may be effected by drying vegetables by artificial heat. The simplicity of the method and equipment and the ease with which the dried product is kept makes drying a very practical substitute for canning. Miss Addie D. Root of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture offers a few suggestions for drying vegetables: "When drying string beans or peas a good green color may be preserved by blanching them, before placing them in the dryer. (Vegetables may be blanched by placing them in boiling water for a few minutes and then plunging them into cold water.) Prepare the peas and beans as for cooking. Blanch from 3 to 5 minutes and place in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Greens, such as Swiss chard and spinach, makes an attractive dried product. Only fresh greens should be dried. Prepare as for cooking and place in the dryer. Keep at a temperature of from 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Corn should be cooked in boiling water from 8 to 15 minutes or just long enough to set the milk. It is then cut from the cob with a thin, sharp knife and placed in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Vegetables such as carrots and sweet potatoes may be dried. Vegetables of this type dry better when cut into small pieces.

"It requires about three hours to dry vegetables by artificial heat in a simple drying apparatus, which can be made at home. Such a dryer may consist of a series of wooden trays, two inches deep, with screen wire bottoms. The trays should be placed one upon the other and elevated above the stove or other source of heat by a box ten inches deep, from which the top and bottom have been removed, and which should rest on four bricks to permit air circulation under the dryer.

FORAGE FOR CATTLE.

To give one an approximate idea of the value of irrigated land in the matter of forage for cattle, the following figures will show what alfalfa will do on irrigated as compared with common hay on nonirrigated land:

- One acre sown to alfalfa and irrigated will produce 10,000 pounds of hay.
- One acre in inclosed pasture, 500 pounds.
- One acre of range averages 250 pounds.
- Or again:
- One acre of irrigated alfalfa will feed one steer 400 days.
- One acre of inclosed pasture will feed one steer twenty days.
- One acre of range will feed one steer ten days.
- Or putting it in sheep, it will show:
- One hundred and sixty acres of irrigated alfalfa will maintain 1,400 sheep one year.
- One hundred and sixty acres of inclosed pasture will maintain eighty sheep one year.
- One hundred and sixty acres of range will maintain forty sheep one year.

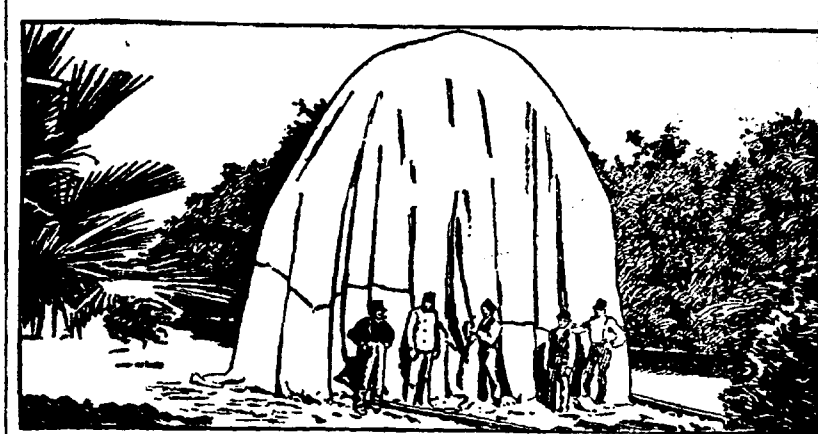

WHY WE HAVE PERFECT CITRUS FRUITS

By C. L. MARIATT.

Scale insect enemies of citrus trees are directly controlled in two ways: (1) By spraying the infected plants with some liquid insecticide; (2) by subjecting them to the fumes of hydrocyanic acid gas, commonly called "gassing."

cyanide (28 per cent strength) with commercial sulphuric acid (66 per cent) and water. The work is done at night to avoid the scalding which follows day applications, at least in bright sunlight as with spraying. The gassing is often done by individuals or companies who make a regular business of it, charging a fixed rate per tree.

Fumigation Tent in Position on Tree.

The gassing method is undoubtedly the most effective means known of destroying scale insects. It has been in general use in California for more than twenty-five years, and the methods are now thoroughly perfected and highly satisfactory. Gassing is especially desirable for trees that have a dense habit of growth, such as the orange, which develops a large thick bark, the spraying of which thoroughly and completely is almost impossible. Furthermore with gas there is no danger of spoiling the fruit as may happen with improper spraying.

Gassing consists in inclosing a tree at night with a tent and filling the latter with the poisonous fumes of potassium cyanide by treating refined potassium much of this work is also done under the direct supervision of the county horticultural commissioners, which gives a greater assurance of efficiency.

Where gassing is impracticable, spraying is practiced. The expense of spraying is not heavy compared with that of gassing. On the small fruit ranches spraying is almost always done. In most of the citrus districts of California where spraying is practiced to any extent there are individuals who make a business of treating orchards at a charge of a cent a gallon for the liquid applied, or about double that price when they furnish as well as apply the insecticide. This is usually a very satisfactory way of having the work done.

HELPS FOR THE FARMER'S WIFE.

If milk is used in mixing mustard instead of water it will keep fresh for several days.

To soften fruit jar rubbers, put ammonia in warm water and let them stand in it for ten or twenty minutes. To remove grease from silk rub a lump of wet magnesia over the spot, allow it to dry and then brush off the powder.

Don't depend upon extra heat when you want water to boil quickly, but add a little salt to the water and watch the gratifying results.

TO CURE COLDS.

As a good preventive of colds in poultry, use copper sulphate one ounce to ten gallons of water or enough potassium permanganate to turn the water blue. Good ventilation and plenty of fresh air are essential in the winter, but one should guard against excessive drafts.

HOW PLANTS LIVE.

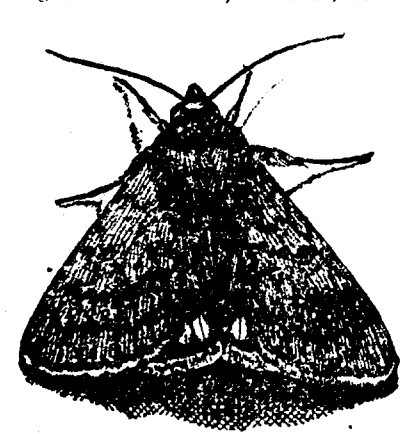

Plants cannot assimilate food elements that exist in the soil until these elements are chemically changed or broken up. Bacteria, air, heat and water are the agents to do this. Only in the liquid form can plants feed up on soil elements. The finer the seed-bed the quicker the seed germinates and the faster the plant grows, provided, of course, that the water supply is all right. Every act and condition that reverses this condition of the seed-bed is a hindrance to plant growth.

AN IMPORTANT PROBLEM.

The plentiful supply of good, wholesome fresh water in the home, the stable, and the feed lot is one of the most important problems that confront the up-to-date farmer. Its successful solution will be a factor in keeping him and his family in good health and "at home" on the farm.

The Parent of the Corn Ear Worm

The Corn Ear Worm or Boll Worm is quite destructive in its larval stage throughout the country. It attacks the ear of corn, especially the sweet corns, the cotton boll, tomato fruit, and sometimes the pods of beans and peas. Its greatest fondness, however, seems to be for sweet corn. Some seasons it is almost impossible to get any absolutely perfect ears of early corn in the gardens on account of this insect. The worm, which varies in color of green, purple and pink, is the larva of an ochre yellow moth marked with black. It is claimed that there are two or three generations per year.

WIRE FENCE AND LIGHTNING DEADLY.

Wire fences increase the dangers of livestock during thunder storms, unless the fences are carefully "grounded."

Such fences may be grounded by running a No. 8 or No. 10 galvanized iron wire from each strand of the fence into the ground. The wire should be twisted two or three times about each strand and should reach to a depth of four or five feet into the ground. If the soil is particularly dry the wire should be sunk much deeper. It should always reach down to moist soil. A crowbar may be used in making the holes. Projecting points above the fence will help to relieve the electric tension and prevent the lightning from striking.

Field fences should be grounded every 20 rods and fences about barnyards and feed lots every 10 rods at least.

SHEEP.

Sheep keeping should be encouraged. No other animal can thrive on such short pasturage as the sheep. Sheep manure is the most valuable of all. On almost every farm there is a brushy field on which sheep could browse eight months of the year.

What Corn Needs

Corn makes its entire growth during the season of highest temperature, growing best when the thermometer registers 80 degrees to 100 degrees F. It can not grow in early spring or late fall, as its growth is retarded during the summer by cold nights or cool weather. It needs its greatest supply of moisture during the summer when droughts are most likely and when rains are less effective because of losses from evaporation. In other words, the heat requirement of corn prevents growth at times when moisture conditions are likely to be most favorable, while lack of moisture frequently retards growth when heat conditions are most favorable. The problem, therefore, where heat is great and moisture deficient, is to store up moisture, and, where moisture is plentiful and heat deficient, is to handle the soil so as to prevent moisture from lessening unduly such heat as may be available.

IVY POISONING.

A perfectly harmless and exceedingly useful remedy for inflammation caused by coming in contact with wild ivy is boric acid in solution. Make a solution from boric acid powder, four teaspoonfuls dissolved in a pint of boiling water. When this is cold apply to the affected parts. The skin should be covered with gauze (can be bought by the roll in drug stores) kept constantly wet with cold boric acid solution. If the itching is very intense the parts may be sponged off with a weak solution of alcohol (half water and half alcohol), when the gauze is changed. The gauze should be put on fresh quite frequently, there is much oozing from the little blisters (blisters).

FRUIT PRODUCTION.

The production of apples in this country during the last six years has averaged over 80,000,000 barrels. The estimated value of this apple crop for 1915 was $145,000,000. The product of peaches in 1914 was estimated at 54,000,000 bushels, and of pears for that year 11,000,000 bushels. Considering all of the hardy fruits of the north and the tropical fruits of the south, what a vast bulk is gathered every year. Surely famine and starvation cannot come to a country thus supplied.

SALISIFY.

The name "salisify" is applied to three distinct vegetables; the common white salisify, known also on account of its flavor as oyster plant or vegetable oyster, black salisify, the Schwarzwurzel of the German, and the so-called Spanish salisify. Since the salisifies are not injured by mild frosts, they may be left in the ground until late winter or early spring.

Mosquitoes Don't Like Yellow

People who wish to avoid the bite of the mosquito should wear yellow. Of all colors the mosquito is most partial to, especially deep blood-red, although it does not like yellow. It is with its fondness for blood. For yellow it shows the deepest aversion and shuns it on all occasions. It is said that the seeing power of the mosquito is so keen that it is susceptible to color even in the ordinary darkness of night; hence night dresses or bed coverings of a yellow color will aid in keeping mosquitoes at a respectful distance.

INSECTS HAVE DONE GREAT DAMAGE.

In some sections of the country the currant and gooseberry have almost entirely disappeared. Berries, worms and midew, allowed to have their way unchecked, were too much for the bushes to withstand, and these old-time favorites were allowed to die. If you care enough for these fruits, it will only require a little work and a very small expense to get white hellbore, to take care of the currant, and gooseberry worms that eat the foliage, and bordeaux mixture will stop the midew on gooseberries.

FARM HOME CONVENIENCES.

The problems relating to the installation of water plumbing, sewage plumbing, lighting, heating, ventilation, etc., of the modern farm house should be more closely investigated by the farmer who intends to build a new house, or who intends to add these modern improvements to a residence already built. He should make a personal study of the whole subject before he contracts with the village hardware man or the town plumber. He will thus be able to decide upon a satisfactory general plan. After having made this he should not fail to select an intelligent mechanic to do the work, because there is much blundering done by some of the would-be plumbers.

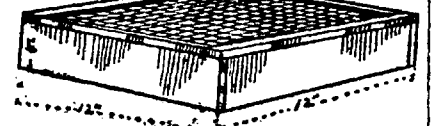

CLEAN POULTRY HOUSES.

The quarters of adult birds should be thoroughly cleaned, sprayed and renovated twice annually. Many poultrymen find it advantageous to spray their houses bi-monthly, thus insuring greater cleanliness. Any of the coal tar products make excellent disinfectants. They can be purchased at hardware stores in convenient packages. Give the birds clean, comfortable quarters and good results will follow.

Much food is ruined by being stored where flies or other insects or rats and mice can get at it. Much cereal food is ruined because it is not protected against weevils or other insects.

Striped Cucumber Beetle and the Squash Bug

The first of these, a biting insect, and the second, a sucking insect, attack melons, cucumbers and squashes; and they are often confounded, both being called "squash-bugs." This is unfortunate, because they call for radically different treatment. We would suggest planting an excess of seed; for the first named insect, dusting plants with one pound of Paris green mixed with fifty pounds of fine dry cheap flour. The beetle can be to a certain extent driven away by air-slacked lime alone, dusting it liberally on and about the plants in each hill. In the true squash-bug we would recommend hand-picking of bugs in the early morning, also hand-picking of the large yellow eggs. Destroy all vines after harvesting crop.

To prevent injury various coverings may be used over the plants. A cheap frame may be made and covered with gauze or similar material and held in place with earth packed about the edge to keep the plants covered. This cover or frame may be used year after year.—F. L. Washburn.

A GREAT HIGHWAY.

Good road advocates should turn their eyes upon the Pacific coast states, where their hobby is reaching a development nowhere else approximated in the United States. The dream of the Pacific coast is for a macadamized, asphalt surfaced highway from Alaska south to the Panama canal. The realization of the project so far is the actual voting by the state of California of a bond issue of $11,000,000 and by the public interest aroused in Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, which promises early legislation for the continuation of the California highway.

WASTE.

Approximately 20 per cent of each potato pared by ordinary household methods is lost in the process. The loss includes much and sometimes all of the portion of the tuber containing important soluble salts. Potatoes that are boiled and baked in their skins lose practically none of their food value.

Please do not forget to read the

How Many Horses Have You?

Too many farmers are horse poor. They have not only too many horses, but horses which are not good. In farming, as in other sections of the land there is no need for more than four horses. Three of these should be heavy horses and one should be an animal heavy enough to do considerable work yet light enough to do the family driving. Of these heavy horses at least one should be a good brood mare. While practicing economy in other respects, it is well to study the economical use of horse flesh.

WHITE PINE BLISTER RUST.

The American Forestry association says that unless the ravages of the white pine blister rust are soon stopped all white pines will be lost. This means a great loss to the country, since the New England district has pine worth $75,000,000; the lake states, $98,000,000; the western states, $60,000,000; and the national forests, $30,000,000, making a total of $263,000,000. There seems to be no cure for the disease and it spreads rapidly. The only remedy is to remove and burn the infested trees promptly. Currants and gooseberry bushes may harbor one stage of the disease.—LeRoy Cady.

HAVE A SHED FOR THE FARM TOOLS.

Every farmer should have a shed for his tools and the tools should be cleaned and placed in the shed as soon as one is through using them. Often this saves time and delay when the tool is wanted later on. The paint brush should be used freely on the woodwork and other parts that become worn. This costs but little and adds years to the life of the tools. The tool house need not be a costly building. A good roof with cheap siding will do and any man should be able to put it up at odd times.

DRAINAGE.

Fruit farm drainage is even more important than draining for farm crops, as fruit plants, shrubs, vines and trees will not thrive in wet soil. The outlets of tile drains need looking after several times each year to see that they do not get clogged. Sometimes the outlet tile being exposed to winter frosts, crumbles causing a stoppage of the outlet.

BUCKWHEAT.

Buckwheat is about the easiest crop to succeed with. One item in its favor is that it can be sown at almost any time during the growing season for a cover crop, and can be sown throughout a long season for the grain it produces. Fruit growers should keep on hand a quantity of buckwheat seed.

The Future Farmer

The future farmer will be the best educated man in America. He will be a chemist, with knowledge to enable him to handle his soils, his fertilizers and his foodstuffs as to make them yield the maximum of profit. He will be a botanist with knowledge to enable him to take advantage of the laws of heredity to breed disease-resisting and frost-resisting plants. He will keep pace with every movement of the scientific world which can be turned to his advantage. He will be able readily to increase the quantity and quality of his wheat and corn, vegetables and fruit, cotton and wool, without having to add a single acre to his field.

PASTURING ALFALFA.

Alfalfa should never be pastured the first season, and in most cases it will be best to use it for hay-making during the second season, in order that it may become thoroughly established before animals are allowed to tramp over it. It should never be pastured closely, as this injures the growth of the plants. Horses and sheep are more likely to do damage in this way than are cattle or hogs. With cattle and sheep, care must be exercised to avoid bloating. At first the animals should be turned in for only a short time each day, and when the alfalfa is wet with dew or rain there is still greater need of care to avoid bloating. It is wise to be a little more careful than with clover.

SILLO MATERIAL.

Almost all kinds of building materials are used for silo construction. It frequently happens that one particular type of material becomes practically universal in a particular locality, leading to the belief that no other material will successfully preserve silage. Wood stave silos were among the first to be built above ground. For a number of years they have been advertised and sold in all parts of the country. In some localities farmers will not risk other construction material.

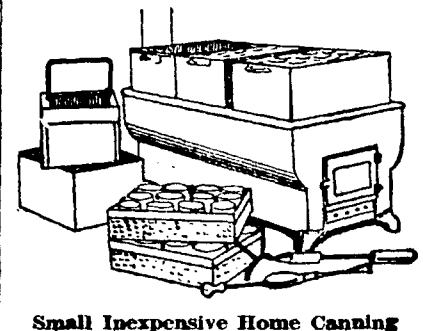

Tests made by the Pennsylvania experiment station to determine the relative value of wood-stave and concrete block silos do not prove one type superior to the other.

GRAFTING PAYS.

Did you do any grafting? If not, you are the loser and your trees may be any old thing. It may be ten years before you will find it out and herein lies the danger—your money, labor, interest on the site and trees all go and you are the loser and missed an opportunity. If you are setting a large apple or pear orchard of course you want trees of some reliable sort or direct from some reliable source.

Timely Hints for Amateur Cannners

In selecting vegetables for canning, use great care to get those as nearly perfect as possible. Be sure that the vegetables used are fresh. Grade carefully and avoid waste. Do not scald or blanch longer than necessary. Over-scalding tends to make delicate vegetables, like asparagus, soft.

Small Inexpensive Home Canning Outfit.

Fit all the covers to the jars before filling with vegetables. Be certain that the rubbers to be used are new and elastic, and will stand long boiling. Do not let vegetables remain in cold dip. Dip and pack at once.

Scald and dip only as much as can be packed in water. Add salt and boiling water as soon as the can is packed.

Place the rubber and adjust cover loosely and set the jar in the water at once. Be certain that the false bottom in the canner is at least 1 1/2 inches high. When the water in the canner is boiling, keep the fire even, that the boiling may be continuous but not too violent.

Count the time for cooking from point at which water begins to boil. Seal at once when taken from the canner.

Hold can upside down to see whether it is perfectly sealed.—Miss Mary L. Bull, University Farm, St. Paul.

GET RID OF FLIES.

Flies breed largely in stables and in manure piles. Consequently, stables must be kept free from accumulations of manure. Breeding places, particularly the manure pile, should be treated to kill the fly larvae. One pound of commercial borax will treat 16 bushels of fresh horse manure. Community effort is necessary for efficient control, but farmers especially can do effective work by individual effort.

There is more profit in working the garden than in having and working the farm. The man who is a good gardener is a good farmer.

make it possible to obtain information on the movements of all the ships during the night.

While government officials declined to go into details regarding the arrest it was said to be the direct result of the investigation to learn how Germany obtained advance information regarding the sailing and route of the ships which first left for Europe with American troops and also the secret destination of the destroyer flotilla which are now taking part in the offensive against German submarines.

Mystery of Chemists Not Cleared.
The mystery surrounding the arrest yesterday of three German chemists had not been cleared today. The men were still confined in a police station, where it was said they were being held on orders from the department of justice. Two of the men under arrest are Dr. John Praba and Robert Sterne. The police refused to make the identity of a third man who was arrested by a secret agent. A large quantity of chemicals is said to have been found in the apartment where the unidentified man was taken into custody.

den sent a telegram to Francis H. Peabody, chairman of the coal committee of the National Council of Defense, declaring he might be obliged to take possession of the coal mines in the state in order to enforce the contract he made with the operators. Mr. Peabody in his reply asked the governor to delay, asserting federal action would not doubt be forthcoming shortly.

Assurance From President.
In a telegram to Samuel Insull, chairman of the State Council of Defense, President Wilson also gave assurance that the Illinois coal problem receiving the most careful attention and everything that can be done will be done.

Many of the 20,000 coal miners who have been on strike in certain districts of Illinois have already returned to work and labor leaders predicted today that others would resume work next Monday.

COAL REPORT COMING.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The federal commission, which has finished its investigation of coal production costs, probably will submit its findings to President Wilson in a few days.

The president will take some action in the coal situation early next week. He carried back to the white house from the trade commission a mass of statistics on coal production costs and will go over them tomorrow. His decision probably will be announced Monday.

The president's intention, it was learned today, is to reduce the present prices not only at the mines but of jobbers and retailers. The trade commission's report indicates that operators can sell their bituminous coal at a price far below the maximum of three dollars fixed at a recent conference between mine managers and government officials and still make a handsome profit.

The report will serve to acquaint the president comprehensively with the national fuel situation in relation to the consumer. Government control of the industry in accordance with the provisions of the food control law, now appears imminent.

The situation will come over at a conference yesterday between the president, Francis S. Peabody, chairman of the coal production committee of the council of national defense, and John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The food control law authorized the president to fix coal prices from the mine to the consumer and requisition the fuel for sale to the public. Operators and miners, who oppose government price fixing, fear that sale prices will be pushed down to a level where their interests will be jeopardized.

The trade commission's report will say, it is learned, that at present prices operators, jobbers and retailers are reaping exorbitant profits and inequitable distribution is adding to the cost in many sections.

KERN BURIAL

Up to the time of his retirement from the senate in March last, Mr. Kern was majority floor leader and chairman of the democratic conference committee. He was a native of Indiana, having been born in Alto, Howard county, December 20, 1849.

SKETCH OF SENATOR KERN.
Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 18.—Senator John W. Kern was born at Alto, near here, December 20, 1849. While he was still a young man his parents moved to Warren county, Iowa, where they lived on a farm. He started to attend school in Iowa and lived there until he was fourteen years of age, when the Kern family moved back to Alto. When he was fifteen years of age he began teaching school in his home town.

Entering the University of Michigan in 1867, he studied law and graduated in 1869. He began practicing in Kokomo when he was but twenty years old. His reputation grew until he was known as one of the ablest criminal lawyers in Indiana. At one time he was city attorney of Kokomo and ran for several other local offices on the democratic ticket.

In 1882 he was elected reporter of the supreme court of Indiana and served four years. He was city attorney of Indianapolis during the administration of Thomas Taggart as mayor.

He ran for governor of Indiana on the democratic ticket in 1900 and 1902, being defeated each time. He was running mate of William Jennings Bryan for vice president of the United States in 1908, being defeated again. Opposing the late Senator Benjamin P. Shively, he was a candidate for United States senator before the Indiana legislature in 1909. In 1910 the democratic state convention, over his protest, made him its choice for United States senator, and the legislature of 1911, which was democratic, elected him to that position. He ran for reelection in the first popular election last fall and was defeated by Senator Harry S. New.

On entering the senate, Mr. Kern sprang into the limelight because of his friendship with William Jennings Bryan, and after the democrats gained control of the senate he was majority leader. He was very close to the Wilson administration.

Senator Kern was married twice. His widow is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

RALSTON'S TRIBUTE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Former Governor Ralston was shocked by the news of the death at Asheville, N. C., of John North Kern, former United States senator.

"I am saddened by the news of the death of my dear friend, Senator Kern. His death will be the cause of sorrow throughout the country, for he had friends everywhere. My deepest sympathy goes out to his widow and children. Senator Kern was one of the most lovable characters I ever knew. As a public servant few men ranked higher than he did. I know of the high admiration held for him by President Wilson."

aged and two German submarine attacks were without result. No British ships were damaged.

Another bombing raid was carried out Thursday night by British naval airplanes on the railway junction at Thourout, in West Flanders, eleven miles from Bruges. Fires were caused and the British admiralty announces an ammunition dump is believed to have been hit. The British aviators dropped many tons of bombs on their objectives, returning safely.

BRITISH OFFICIAL REPORT.

London, Aug. 18.—The German troops in Flanders were again completely repulsed by the British after sharp fighting, according to the British official statement issued early this morning. The statement follows: "The British army today delivered another counter attack against our recently captured positions immediately northwest of Lens. His troops were again completely repulsed after sharp fighting in which we secured a few prisoners. There was considerable hostile artillery activity during the night in this neighborhood and also northwest of Ypres."

ANOTHER BOMBING RAID.

London, Aug. 18.—The admiralty announces that another bombing raid was carried out about midnight Thursday by the naval air service on the railway station and junction at Thourout, a town in west Flanders, 11 miles southwest of Bruges. Fires were caused and it is thought that an ammunition dump was hit and the railway station damaged. Many tons of bombs were dropped on the objectives. All machines returned safely.

FRENCH IN NEW GAINS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The French last night made further progress in Belgium north of the road between Bixschotte and Langenacker, it is announced officially. They captured a strong point of support east of the Steenbeke river. German attacks on the Aisne front were repulsed.

AIR RAID ALARM IN PARIS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—An air raid alarm was sounded at 3 o'clock this morning. The sky was clear and within a quarter of an hour the hum of defense airplanes could be heard as they circled over the city. At 4:05 bugles were sounded indicating the danger was over.

AMERICAN SAILOR LOST.

Base of the American Flotilla in British Waters, Aug. 18.—The body of James H. Bush, 28 years, of Brockton, Mass., fireman on an American destroyer, has been washed ashore clearing up the mystery of his disappearance ten days ago while on watch. Accidental death by drowning was the verdict at an inquest. It is the first death since the arrival of the flotilla.

NAVAL GUNNER LOST.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 18.—J. L. Scibbe, a navy gunner, was detailed to an American steamship that arrived here today from Genoa, was reported by ship officers to have fallen or jumped overboard on August 14. He was last seen by members of the crew at 2 p. m. on that date. Scibbe's home was in Joplin, Mo.

FRAUDULENT HEROES.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The Lafayette flying corps, composed of Americans, has become so well known in France and abroad that many pretenders to membership have sprung up, not only here but in the United States. The commander of the corps has received word from New York that various persons are attempting to deceive the public.

in this respect. One of them, according to this information, was received by the Aero Club of America and told fantastic stories of his exploits, as well as lecturing on the latest models of airplanes. The Lafayette corps never heard of this man before.

NUMBER OF DEAD IN POWDER MILL IS LIKELY LARGE

they were unable to approach. No death list can be obtained until the ruins cool. The loss in lives of men and stock will reach well up into millions. The first explosion was caused by the overheating of the machinery in the nitric acid building. The flames leaped along through the building and another explosion occurred. Most of the workers, however, are believed to have had ample time to escape. Other explosions occurred every five minutes or so shaking the surrounding country like a series of earthquakes. Altogether fifteen detonations were counted.

One of the explosions wrecked a number of houses in Gragon and most of the workers lived and farm houses in the vicinity also caught fire. Provision was made by the people of Rigaud for accommodating the homeless workers.

Trainmen who got away from the scene of the explosion reported that forty houses at Dragon, a little village near the powder plant, occupied by workmen, were razed by the force of the explosion.

Rigaud is a post village in Vaudreuil county, Quebec, on the Riviere a la Grasse, 45 miles south of Montreal. It had a population prior to the war of about 1,000 persons.

Passengers on a Canadian Pacific railroad train which passed the scene of the disaster placed the number of dead from the first explosion at twenty.

The passengers said it was impossible to obtain definite figures as hundreds rushed into the open country when the first explosion occurred and few had returned when their train left for Montreal.

The extent of the explosion may be judged by the fact that two farm houses over a mile from the plant were blown down. At noon the village of Dragon was blazing and it looked as if it would be destroyed. The whole countryside was covered at 10 o'clock with a dense copership of black smoke. A special train of doctors and nurses left here at 11:30 o'clock for the scene of the disaster.

ONE KILLED IN CAVE-IN

the Mossman Yarnelle company. He was assisting his father and a brother, Charles, in digging a trench for a sewer at the rear of a new house, which had just been erected.

The unfortunate young man was in the trench and the father advised that the boy should be taken out. He had not gotten the words from his mouth when a small portion of it caved in and caught the young man, burying his feet. Before he could free himself the entire wall caved in.

Hit By Chunk.
It is thought that a large chunk hit the man on the head, inflicting a deep cut. The brother succeeded in getting his head uncovered in about five minutes later and it was only ten minutes later that, with the assistance of several policemen, who hurried to the scene in the patrol, the dying man was freed. It was thought that he was dead at the time, but he was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, but there were no signs of life when the patrol arrived.

Christie was married five years ago and besides his wife is survived by the parents, three brothers and five sisters. He was a member of the Trinity Episcopal church.

GERMANY NOT READY TO SAY

has been manifesting extreme sensitiveness about Austria-German discussion of the future of Macedonia and vehemently oppose any acceptance of the return of occupied areas. The note which was sent direct to the emperor by the pope was published in the morning papers.

While the newspaper Germania, as befits its representative Catholic character, is decidedly optimistic regarding the prospects for tangible results, most papers are rather skeptical as to the chances that it will lead to anything in the immediate future. At least the Pan-German papers insist that peace on the proposed basis is utterly impossible. The Berlin Tages-Zeitung, in its comment, says the evacuation of Belgium and all occupied regions of France is impossible just because independent Belgium henceforth would be an irreconcilable enemy of Germany, and it must be subordinated to the security of Germany's frontiers. Even the plan of the former German chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, for a Polish protectorate, is rejected because the Poles have shown themselves ungrateful for favors granted them.

WILL BE SENT INDEPENDENTLY.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The reply of the United States to the pope's peace note will be sent independently and not in connection with any answer from the other belligerents. At least this is the plan at this time, as indicated by Secretary Lansing. A reply may not be expected until the proposal has been carefully considered. It is generally taken to be the fact that the president will consider the opinions of the other allies in making reply and that the diplomatic representatives in Washington are exchanging views of their governments with the state department.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BLOOM.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Bloom will be held at 2 o'clock, Rev. H. H. Hostetter, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment in Lindenwood.

RELATIVES OF HIS FATHER HAVE AGREED that little Jack De Saules may be taken to Minocqua jail at intervals to visit the inmates. On his last visit the little fellow killed a man.

HAS IN HAND MAKINGS OF WHITE SLAVE CASE

Two Youths and Two Girls Were Taken from Pennsylvanian Freight Train.

Captain Henry Stoll, of the Pennsylvania police department, has in hand what looks like the making of a rather substantial white slave case. In the custody of the Pennsylvania police are two youths, Frank McCloud, 19, and Robert Barber, 20, both of Lafayette, Ind., who, with Cora Rice, 18, divorced, and Opal Henry, 18, both of the same city, were taken from a Pennsylvania freight train Saturday forenoon by Captain Stoll's men.

The quartet came to Fort Wayne from Lima, Ohio, where they had remained for a day or two after a sojourn since August 2 at Bucyrus. Apparently sweating the members of the hobo party Captain Stoll made out to learn that the boys bought tickets for themselves and the two girls from Lafayette to Fort Wayne on August 7, by way of the Wabash, and from here to Bucyrus.

They have been at light housekeeping there a day and two ago, when they returned to Fort Wayne. To Capt. Stoll they said they were going home. The possibility of prosecution under the Mann white slave act lies in the young men having taken the girls from one state to another for immoral purposes. None of them had any money when arrested. One of the girls has been quite ill at Capt. Stoll's office since their arrest here.

Capt. Stoll will report the case to federal authorities and in the meantime the quartet will be turned over to the Fort Wayne city police.

Cora Rice says she was married at the age of fourteen and is the mother of a child now three years of age. Her husband was killed some time ago. Her name before marriage she said was Cora Beaver and she further told Captain Stoll that her father and mother were separated. Her mother now resides in Lafayette and her father in Danville, Ill.

PRESIDENT STUDIES THE I. W. W. SITUATION

Wilson in Close Touch With Events and is Prepared to Act Readily.

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Wilson is making a personal study of the labor situation in the northwest, especially in Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho, where a general strike of the I. W. W. is threatened next Monday.

The president is keeping in touch with the situation through Chief Justice Coughlin, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, his personal investigator, now in the west.

Department of labor conciliators on the ground reported over night that the situation seemed to have changed slightly for the better, although it was still grave. Offers of mediation have been made in some instances, and probably will be made in others today. Department of justice officials, scanning over night reports, saw little change in the situation.

A recommendation said to have been reached at a conference between Governor Lister, of Washington, the state attorney general and representatives of the department of justice had not been received here today. The recommendation would be to the effect that all strike leaders should be summarily arrested when the strike becomes effective.

In the absence of official confirmation of the report department officials declined to comment on the situation.

UNSTEADINESS MARKS LOCAL OATS MARKET

Receipt of New Grain Expected to Cause Lower Prices.

Featuring the activities in the local markets Saturday morning was the unsteadiness noted in the oats market. The receipts of the new grain seems to be causing a fluctuation in the quotations. Seven loads were weighed at the city scales Saturday morning, the prices ranging all the way from 60 to 70 cents per bushel. City weighmaster Skelton states that he looks for lowered quotations next week, as there is little likelihood of the price holding up in the face of the large crop being harvested.

Corn remained steady, one load selling on the city scale for $1.75 per bushel. Both the new and old hay markets remained firm, two loads of the old being weighed at $15 per ton and eight loads of the new at $12 per ton.

INJURED MAN WILL RECOVER FROM WOUNDS

Alfred Foreman Seriously Hurt When Team Runs Away.

Alfred Foreman, the man who was injured Friday afternoon when a team attached to the mowing machine on which he was riding, ran away, will undoubtedly recover, unless infection sets in from the steel blades of the machine.

The accident happened on the Gable farm, south of the city, on the Decatur road. Foreman, who is employed on the farm, was driving the horse-drawn mowing machine. The reins caught in a wheel. Foreman stopped to untangle them and was on the ground when the horses started to run. The injured man attempted to crawl toward the house and was found unconscious by Jacob Gable. He was brought to this city and given medical attention. Foreman is a native of Switzerland.

PRESIDENT PREPARING TO CONTROL COAL

EXECUTIVE HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH DIRECTOR HOOVER

to His Authority Under the
New Food Control Law.

WILL MAKE COAL REPORT IN FEW DAYS

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Wilson went to the food administration today for a personal conference with Herbert C. Hoover and later went to the federal trade commission. It was believed the president discussed the coal situation and the extent to which he would assume the powers to control distribution vested in him by the food bill.

Under the law the president may fix price of coal, operate the mines or commandeer stocks and sell to the public. Some decision of which course he will pursue is expected as the result of today's conferences which were based on the federal trade commission's now completed report on the coal situation.

At the federal trade commission the president went over the figures gathered on cost of producing coal. The trend of the commission's report on the subject was to urge the president to take

Summary of the Day's War News

Another effort was made early today by the Germans to recapture the ground taken by the British in their successful attack in the vicinity of Lens, giving them control of dominating positions. The British war office reports that sharp fighting occurred northwest of Lens and that once more the attack of the Germans was repulsed completely. The Germans continue to pound the British positions heavily with their artillery. In the vicinity of Ypres also the big German guns kept up a lively fire but no infantry attacks are reported.

A naval battle in German waters between British and German light sea forces is reported by the British admiralty. While the British were scouting a German bay on Thursday they sighted a German destroyer, which was badly damaged. Two German mine sweepers also were damaged.

Indiana Statesman, Whose

NO ARRANGEMENTS

Death Came to Him at Asheville, Where He Had Gone
to Seek Health.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 18.—The body of John W. Kern, former United States senator from Indiana, who died here last night, was sent early today to Hollins, Va., the late senator's summer home, where burial will take place. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today when those in charge of the body left here.

Mr. Kern died at an Asheville hospital from uremic poisoning after an illness lasting since Tuesday. Mrs. Kern and her daughter, Mrs. George B. Lawson, of Roanoke, Va., were with him at his death.

Senator Kern was 68 years old. Mr. Kern, who came here a week ago to recuperate, died of uremic poisoning. With him at the time of his death were Mrs. Kern and Mrs. George B. Lawson, a daughter, of Roanoke, Va.

CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, famous writer for the Daily Sentinel has spent three months in Russia as a member of the American commission to the new Russian government, which was headed by Eilhu Root. His opportunities for observation and investigation of Russian conditions were unparalleled, as all the resources of the provisional government were placed at his disposal. The commission has just returned to this country, and Russell, after closing his immediate official business, has started to write the truth about Russia. This is the second article; watch for others.

BY CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.
(Copyright, 1917, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

If you want to get Russia straight in your mind you must begin with the first foundation fact, which is this: The revolution there was different from any other revolution.

All the rest have been political. This was about one-fifth political and about four-fifths something else.

Revolution had been taught many years in Russia. Taught secretly, of course, underground, in cellars, stealthily and in whispered speech, but taught.

Those that taught it taught a great deal more than merely the notion that the rule of the czar must be overthrown.

Here is the first place where we in America get off on the wrong foot. We have one fixed, abiding, persistent conception of the Russian revolutionist as a man with a deadly hatred of the czar. We don't under-

Auditor of North German

BELIEVED TO HAVE

Likely to Be Interned Until After War as an Alien Enemy.

New York, Aug. 18.—The arrest of Heinrich S. Ficke, the auditor in this city of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, as an alien enemy was expected to be followed today by the detention of numerous other men, all of whom probably will be interned until the end of the war. Ficke was arrested last night by United States Marshal Power, who said: "Through his arrest and others to be made soon, the leak to Germany will be stopped."

The marshal added that he was satisfied with the facts in his possession and that he had ample authority to act under President Wilson's proclamation, relating to dangerous aliens.

Could Note Sailings.

The Ficke home on Staten Island is only a short distance from Fort Wadsworth, one of the main fortifications guarding the harbor approach to New York city. From the house, it was said, all ships leaving New York during the day can be seen and a short journey to St. George or Stapleton

THRILLING DIVE AND MINACULOUS ESCAPE IS THIS

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—Andrew Laseinski, a vigor working on the roof of Philadelphia's big city hall, escaped death yesterday by an almost miraculous circumstance. A scaffold on which he was working, 160 feet from the ground, gave way and he fell head-first and with feet dangling outward. Sixty feet down a single, one-inch rope from another scaffold hung like a hangman's noose. By a spectacular trick of fate, one of Laseinski's lying legs went into it and drew the noose tight. His fall was stopped with a jerk and he hung head downward, swinging in space.

The man managed to swing himself back and forward till he found a resting place on the ledge of a window, not big enough to permit him to get inside the building. Workmen tore away the window sashes and pulled him to safety.

RUSSELL IN SECOND ARTICLE EXPLAINS WHY RUSSIA QUIT FIGHTING, THEN BEGAN AGAIN stand that he planned an entirely new system of society, that he had a whole vast creed of social betterment in which the overthrow of the czar was nothing but an incident.

There never was a broader creed. It embraced the whole world.

The Russian revolutionist dreamed of a free Russia only as part of a free world. Free not alone from czars and political despotism, but free also from poverty, injustice, hatred, competition—and war.

All mankind in one great family; all races in one great nation.

Happiness, joy, sufficiency for all; and universal peace.

In that dream he cared little more for Russia than for any other corner of the world federation. Perhaps he cared not at all for it, or made himself believe that he didn't. Anyway, all the ordinary appeals of patriotism that so much move other men came to seem to him not praiseworthy, as we think them, but hateful.

World patriotism was his creed. Universal brotherhood, universal good will, no more national barriers, no more national prejudices, made up his first article. And universal peace.

To tell the truth it was a creed that in his time he did not expect to see put into practice. He knew that some day it would come true, but for his own life time he looked forward to nothing but covert agitation, secret meetings, perilous escapes from the ever watchful police, and either Siberia or the gallows as the boundary of his life.

The bloody story of the futile revolution of 1905 taught him the terrible lesson. The czar and his power were fast rooted in the very foundations of things, not to be torn out except with long, painful, toilsome efforts stretched over years.

Copenhagen, Aug. 18.—The German foreign office is not yet ready to announce the government's standpoint on the pope's peace proposals and an answer probably will be delayed considerably while the four central powers are endeavoring to reconcile somewhat divergent views and interests regarding peace.

A cordial article in the Cologne Gazette perhaps presages the German point of view by declaring it is the duty of all governments to support any effort at honorable mediation and pointing out that the pope's action is in line with previous efforts of Germany.

It is evident that Austria-Hungary will throw its full weight in favor of an affirmative answer to the pope's proposal, just as Bulgaria, which recently

The Only Alternative Will Be

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The coal situation in Illinois remained unsettled today, the public hearing on price-fixing by Justice O. N. Carter, director of coal, having been adjourned until next Monday. Justice Carter, acting under instructions from Governor Frank O. Lowden, has announced he will proceed with the hearing until all sides have presented their cases, after which he will set a price for fuel at the mine month, unless such power has in the meantime been assumed by the federal government. The coal operators have publicly repudiated an agreement reached with Governor Lowden last week which resulted in the appointment of Justice Carter as state coal director with authority to fix prices.

GRAND DUKE MAY BE WAITING FOR A TURN OF TIDE

Petrograd, Aug. 17.—Grand Duke Michael, according to the Bourse Gazette, has rejected the suggestion that he go to England to live, declaring he could not leave Russia until the constituent assembly has determined the future form of government.

It will be remembered that Grand Duke Michael made at the beginning of the revolution a provisional renunciation of his claim to imperial succession, declaring he will only accept the throne if called by the people.

The Bourse Gazette says there were persistent rumors a few days before the transfer of ex-emperor Nicholas from Tsarskoe Selo that Grand Duke Michael had departed for England. Investigation proved he had been given the option of going there but refused to do so until the question of regime was settled.

Rigaud, via Montreal, Aug. 18.—The great plant here of Curtis & Harvey, Ltd., explosive manufacturers, was wrecked by a series of terrific explosions early today. Buried beneath the ruins of a dozen or so structures that comprised the factory are an unknown number of dead.

Several thousand male and female workers employed at the plant were in the danger zone for hours.

An early estimate based on first reports placed the number of killed at about 250, but indications were this afternoon that there were comparatively few casualties.

A relief train arrived from Montreal at noon bringing doctors and nurses, but owing to the fierce heat from the burning ruins of the plant

PUTTING AN END TO THE TROUBLE AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Aug. 18.—Continued disorders this week in front of the white house as a result of "picketing" by militant suffragists today caused the Washington police to put into effect an order prohibiting further demonstrations.

Banners bearing the inscription "Kaiser Wilson" have caused disturbances requiring the interference of the reserves on several occasions during the past few days. Yesterday six women who violated the anti-picketing edict were arrested on charges of obstructing traffic.

Assailing the militant pickets in un-sparing terms, Senator Myers, of Alabama, today introduced a bill to prohibit white house picketing.

"The proceedings have been outrageous, scandalous and almost treasonable," he said. "I think people are disgusted with the proceedings. The president, out of the generosity of his heart, pardoned women recently sent to the workhouse for sixty days. I think they should have been compelled to serve out their sentences. It is time congress acted to stop these insults to the president."

WEATHER FORECAST FOR WEEK.

FRENCH AIRMAN AVENGES SLURS UPON HIS HONOR

British Front in France and Belgium, Aug. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—From a section of the French front comes word that the renowned aviator, Capt. George Guynemer, brought down two more German machines, making fifty-two he has accounted for. Guynemer visited headquarters to receive a decoration from a distinguished Rumanian general. The Associated Press saw the medal pinned on the breast of the intrepid airman, besides numerous orders he won, including a decoration from the king of the Belgians the day before.

Guynemer swore vengeance for this of the honor, but he was much disturbed over an article which has just appeared in a Berlin paper saying he is not really brave, but that he flew at a great height and attacked enemies by swooping down on them. The purport of the story was that Guynemer did not play the game fairly.

Guynemer swore vengeance for this canard and as he walked away, after receiving the decoration, with a determined look on his face, the young aviator gave full indication as to what he had planned. It may be added that he appeared to hold the deepest veneration of French soldiers. As he strode out of the headquarters grounds yesterday with his breast blazing in the sun from many medals, the soldiers stood at attention all along the way, even those who were inside the office rising to their feet as a tribute to the hero.

Special Announcement

"Crestholme Circle" Will Be Offered Within a Week.

As promised MONROE W. FITCH & SONS will offer the beautiful wooded tract on Taylor and Ardmore avenues, also on street car line, in Country club district. On account of the scarcity of help, including teams, "Crestholme Circle," the main street in this tract, is not entirely completed, but the brick pillars on Taylor street, to be used as lighting posts, have been erected. No tract will be offered with less than 100 feet frontage, and the public should remember, while inspecting the property, that this is the only location that really "overlooks" Fort Wayne.

Without doubt "Crestholme Circle" and adjoining wooded frontage will be put on the market one week from today, and the prices of these "ideal home sites" will be very low and will interest anyone who desires to buy property that will grow in value every minute because of the high class development around same.

Fitch & Sons are selling farms, as well as city property and insurance, and in this connection we might state that a farm investment would be the right thing when we consider the present prices of wheat and other farm products.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD PICNIC.

F. A. Austin N. Y. C. Agent, Out to Meet Patrons of the Road.

F. A. Austin, recently appointed passenger agent of the N. Y. C. and the L. E. & W. at Fort Wayne, met many of the business men and manufacturers and all of the local ticket and freight agents of the city today. He was escorted around the city and introduced by A. R. Phillips, whom he succeeds and who knows everybody in the city and then some. Mr. Phillips, it will be remembered, has been advanced to traveling passenger agent of the N. Y. C., working out of Toledo. Mr. Austin was recently agent at Jerome, Mich. He has secured a lease, upon a house on Oakland street and will bring his family here to occupy it early next week. There will be no other changes in the personnel of the force at the local N. Y. C. station.

G. A. R. TRAVEL LIGHT.

This Part of the Country Sending Few Vets to Encampment.

Allen county will not be very well represented, in a numerical sense, at the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Boston next week. In fact, it does not appear that there will be over two dozen veterans from the county at the encampment. There are two things to interfere with a big attendance—the distance and the fare, for the railroads are not making special rates, as on former occasions. Of the veterans leaving for Boston today the Wabash had three in one party whose combined age is 228 years. One was 89, one 77 and another 71, and there never was a more happy and congenial party assembled for similar purpose. Their names could not be learned.

TO NEBRASKA FOR A VISIT.

O. E. Hambrick, special apprentice in the motive power department of the Pennsylvania, left last night for Pittsburg on business for the company. He will go to Cleveland tonight to spend Sunday with relatives.

COULDN'T PASS EXAMINATION.

A most disappointed man is Andy Ryan, Jr., who made an effort to get into Battery B, but failed. He came home at 3 o'clock this morning from Fort Benjamin Harrison, bringing the news that he failed to pass the rigid physical examination. "I did want to go to France so bad," he said, in speaking of the matter, "but I guess I will have to give it up." The young man is a son of Blacksmith Andy Ryan, of the Pennsylvania shops.

MOVING IN NEW BUILDING.

The induction motor section of the General Electric works, which is in charge of W. H. Kellermeyer, is today moving into new quarters in building 19, south side of Wall street, on the third floor. This department is new, its products being the latest added to the output of the big plant. It has great promise for the future, however, and Mr. Kellermeyer predicts it will be a most important part of the factory soon.

MISS STEELE RETURNING.

Miss Frances Steele, the trained nurse who has charge of the hospital and dispensary at the General Electric works, who has been at Clear Lake for two weeks, will return home tomorrow and Monday morning will resume charge of the department. Miss Mary McDonald, who had charge of the dispensary during the absence of Miss Steele, will resume her duties in the regular field of trained nurses.

IN HIS NEW OFFICE.

F. J. Guers, head of the stationery department of the General Electric office, and his assistants, completed the work of moving into the room at the west end of the fifth floor of the office building this morning and is now very conveniently and comfortably located. The room was recently vacated by X. J. Divens, head of the advertising department, who has taken rooms in another part of the building.

WILL REPORT MONDAY.

Claude Miller, a gang foreman at the Pennsylvania paint shop, will resume that duty Monday, after a lay off lacking three days of being three months. He had one of his feet crushed by a heavy steel rod falling upon it while at work in the shops, and for nearly two months was unable to walk.

C. R. AIKEN PROMOTED.

C. R. Aiken will become a gang foreman, working for a while at night, in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, commencing tonight. Mr. Aiken is a machinist, but for some time has been engaged in other work, lately as a clerk in the cost department of the shops. The change is a nice promotion for Mr. Aiken.

GONE TO FARM FOR TWO WEEKS.

O. A. Langston, clerk for Foreman P. J. Scheid, of the Pennsylvania car machine shop, will assist his folks in the farm work for two weeks. To-

Charles Wick, who had been at the lakes ten days, resumed the duties of transformer tester at the General Electric works yesterday.

The Misses Minnie and Cora Blue, of the small motor department of the General Electric works, went to Clear Lake today to stay a week.

E. W. Mitchell has gone to the lakes up north and J. J. Byrie has gone to Chubbuck to spend Sunday. They are Pennsylvanians.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hardendorff and T. Rodney have gone to Chicago to visit friends. The gentlemen named are employed in the Pennsylvania boiler shop.

Fred J. Fleichmann, machinist at the Pennsylvania machine shop, will depart today, resuming work this morning. He had been at Long Lake for two weeks.

N. Ellis, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is temporarily disabled by an injured eye. Some metal substance lodged in the optic yesterday, putting it out of commission.

Nine engines, all belonging to the Pennsylvania but one—No. 75, of the G. R. & I.—received general repairs at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today.

Herbert E. Mead, of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe shop, will visit his brother, Lloyd Mead, at Indianapolis, Sunday. Lloyd is a member of the battery, which expects to leave for "the front."

C. E. Scheid has returned to his duties in the Pennsylvania erecting shop. With his family he had been visiting his brother, Frank Scheid, general foreman of the Pennsylvania shops at Toledo.

F. A. Anglin, an axle lathe operator at the Pennsylvania car machine shop, accompanied by his family, went to Dunkirk, O., this afternoon to spend Sunday with relatives. They will return home tomorrow night.

Stenographer J. Klingel, of the Pennsylvania motive power office, went to Kendallville this afternoon to join George Bruck, formerly of the local Pennsylvania offices. The two men will go to Rome City tomorrow to do a little fishing.

Machinist C. F. Brown, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, laid off today to participate in the Brown family reunion at Foster park, which is in progress today. The family is a large one and the attendance at the celebration is very large.

Machinist C. M. Rohyans, a machinist in the wheel department of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning to meet his wife, who is enroute home after a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Rohyans will spend Sunday with friends in Chicago.

G. M. Smith, of Columbus, Ohio, has been transferred to Fort Wayne to take charge of the Pennsylvania lines restaurant, in the passenger station on Baker street. He succeeds J. W. Carpenter, who resigned several days ago to assume charge of a hotel at Connersville. Mr. Smith was engaged as a dining car steward in and out of Columbus before the call to Fort Wayne.

Carl Miller, for two or three years night foreman at the Wabash shops, has been transferred to Delray in the capacity of assistant foreman of the round house. The change is a nice promotion for him and besides it gives opportunity for day work. Mr. Miller has been succeeded as night foreman by Nelson R. Burtch, a machinist. The change is also a promotion for Mr. Burtch.

Material Inspector H. T. Hogan, of the Pennsylvania, has received notice that his son, Hugh P. Hogan, was recently appointed general foreman of the B. & O. shops at Cincinnati. He was assistant foreman of the same shop three years. Hugh Hogan is a Fort Wayne boy, leaving his trade in the Wabash and the Pennsylvania shops and working several years as a machinist and later gang foreman in the latter shops.

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP ORMISTON.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Attorney Arthur W. Parry, of West Washington boulevard, had a narrow escape from possible death a few days ago. He was a passenger on the Chicago & Milwaukee traction car which was wrecked at the Grant Lakes training station. The car on which Mr. Parry was a passenger had stopped at the station, and when the car approached from the opposite direction he jumped, just before the two cars came together. Cornell Morganthaler was also a passenger on the car and he, too, escaped uninjured.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown. Also Revs. Miller and the various associations with which he was connected; and also for the beautiful floral offerings during the illness and in the death of our beloved father, Henry P. Sherer.

TWO PRISONERS ARE

MEN OF THEIR WORD

One Turned State's Evidence and Other Came Back as He Promised.

Two prisoners in police court Saturday morning, proved to be men of their word.

James Hodges, who was arrested Thursday night on a charge of drunkenness and whose case was continued until Saturday morning, was told to go to the army recruiting station and see whether he had been accepted or not and ordered to report back to the judge in fifteen minutes. The man unaccompanied proceeded to the recruiting station and was told to return and get out of his trouble the best he could. He reappeared in police court ten minutes later when he was fined $1 and costs.

Charles Davis, a colored lad, also drew the same amount in a fine. He turned state's evidence in the case against Anna Kinney, charged with fornication. Anna drew a fine of $15 and costs while Charles got the one dollar fine. Steve Folsom, who was held as a witness in the case, was let go.

Other Police Court Cases. The case against Herman Ikemeyer, charged with disorderly conduct, was continued until August 22. The case against Fred Hunter, a ball player, charged with assault and battery upon John Essig, was continued until September 5.

John Hall, charged with train climbing, was ordered turned over to the federal authorities for investigation in regard to registration, in custody of the sheriff.

The disorderly conduct case against Frank Robison was continued until August 21. Pat O'Brien drew five and costs for being drunk and Charles Gray a laterer, was let go.

ROLLER SKATING A PERMANENT AMUSEMENT

Rink in Overland Building.

Improvements now under way at the new Overland building comprehend the making of one of the finest roller skating rinks to be found in the country. It will have a floor space of 70x150 feet, without a post or column to interfere, and its equipment will be of the very best to be obtained.

Messrs. D. E. Manochio and J. L. Bell, who have secured from Gaskin and Eckart a lease of the entire third floor of the Overland building, placed their order this week for 1,000 roller skates of the finest manufacture, also for 500 seats of theater pattern to be arranged along the outer walls. Music for the skaters will be furnished by a large orchestra and on special nights by a full orchestra.

Such a high-class roller skating rink right in the heart of the city is bound to become popular again with such facilities, especially in view of the fact that this rink will have ample dimensions to accommodate 800 skaters on the floor at one time. The young, the youth and the grown ups will all find great pleasure and relaxation in this healthful exercise that was such a craze during the best days of Princess rink.

The promoters of the new enterprise have hit upon the name of "Washington Roller Skating Rink" for their resort, a name that will be kept spotless for the manner in which the rink will be conducted, as it will be on a high plane and absolutely free from suspicious taint from a moral point of view. Children will be taught and their proper care guaranteed and instructors will be on hand at all times to instruct the novices into the art of roller skating.

Altogether considered, the new Washington Roller Skating rink is going to be one of the very delightful amusement places of Fort Wayne and its proprietors, who have long been business men of Fort Wayne, are to be congratulated for bringing the city in line with other large cities that have always had skating rinks as permanent amusement attractions.

Official Standing of Clubs Must Be Figured in Fractions.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The race for the pennant in the American league has become so close that it has become necessary to figure the leader by fractions.

Technically the Chicago club is in the lead by half a game, but the Boston team has played fewer games, and consequently has the advantage by two-thirds of a point. The exact percentage of the two leaders is: Boston, .614679 plus; Chicago, .614035 plus.

The official standing as announced by President Ban Johnson of the league today follows:

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Boston	67	42	.615
Chicago	70	44	.614

DEATH OF EDITOR IN

PARIS WAS SUICIDAL

Writer Under Arrest on a Charge of Sedition Took His Life.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The death in prison Wednesday of Minguel Almeraya, editor of the Bonnet Rouge, who was under arrest on a charge of sedition, continues to occupy the press and his friends who do not admit the hypothesis of suicide. They point out that on the day before his death he instructed his attorney to ask that he be released on bail on account of his health. He also requested the attorney visit him. When he arrived Almeraya was dead.

The Petit aPristen says the suicide has been established beyond a doubt. A trace of gray paint was found on his shoe laces with which he strangled himself, which is the same color as the bar of the red to which they had been fastened. The paper adds that neither the shoe laces nor a silk shirt which he had been wearing were found in the cell where he died, this suggestion being that the warden found the body before the man was dead and removed signs of suicide before summoning the prison doctor who was thus able to say he was present at the death which was natural.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1917.

JOHN WORTH KERN.

The death of former United States Senator John Worth Kern will be a shock to the people of Indiana. While it was known that his state of health had been poor, it was not generally known that his condition had lately grown critical.

Senator Kern was on the verge of a breakdown throughout the prolonged and trying session of congress a year ago when, as the democratic floor leader and conference chairman, the task fell upon him of keeping the way clear for the vast program of democratic enactments, the climax coming with the sudden projection of the great railway strike issues into congress late in August. It was his profound sense of duty and his determined will to perform his duty that kept him going through the arduous and dreary weeks of the worst summer the country had known for many years. Not even the adjournment of congress early in September brought him the quiet and rest of which he stood so gravely in need, for the necessities of the campaign then proceeding imposed further hard obligations upon him. For years in frail health, the final year of his splendid service in the senate was too much for him and his bodily strength was greatly impaired when at length retirement brought him complete rest to regain what had been so freely and expensively given to intelligent and energetic labor for the public concern.

Senator Kern was a native Indian. His entire life was spent in this state and his public career had been almost continuous from the time when as a young man he was made city attorney of Kokomo. He was elected reporter of the Indiana supreme court, later was for a term or two a state senator from Marion county and in 1900 the democratic nominee for governor of Indiana, a distinction that was repeated four years later—the nomination in each instance having come to him unwanted and unsought. In 1908 the democratic national convention in Denver named him, much against his will and his wishes, to run for the vice presidency upon the ticket with Mr. Bryan, who as the Indiana statesman's long and cherished friend, greatly desired Mr. Kern's association with him in the campaign for democracy. Two years after that, when Governor Marshall's signal victory for adopting the principle of popular selection for the nomination of a candidate for the United States senate came about after a bitter fight with the machine, Mr. Kern was the overwhelming choice of the delegates for that honor and was named, despite his protests. His election was assured by sweeping democratic victories in the legislative districts throughout the state. His career in the senate was remarkable. He took high standing at once and was one of the influential figures both in the party councils and in the work of the senate. His rise to the leadership of his party in that body came early and was the more greatly a distinction because of his recent coming as a member. Following the election of President Wilson, Senator Kern's services to the administration, to his party and to the whole people were conspicuous and brilliant. To him the president looked for the leadership that was to put the prodigious program of constructive legislation promised by the party upon the law books of the nation. To detail the extent of Senator Kern's services in this regard would be almost tedious. What the last congress accomplished in far-reaching progressive and useful legislation is not matched by any session in the country's history. In the accomplishment of that Senator Kern bore immense responsibilities and he acquitted himself with the fullest measure of credit and honor. There is no accounting for the vicissitudes of political life and Senator Kern's defeat for re-election last fall were accepted by him not only as the fortunes of war, but as a release from duties that were wracking him painfully, but it nevertheless was a singular acknowledgment of the splendid service he had rendered the people and the added luster he had shed upon Indiana's record in the United States senate where it is the tradition of a century that this commonwealth almost without exception always has been represented by her best.

In a later time than this the people of Indiana and the country will better understand and more suitably appreciate the services of John Worth Kern, of Indiana, in the senate of the United States. No scoffing at him as a politician will obscure or even blemish the luster of his fame as a statesman, for that he was and proved himself to be.

ANTE-WAR PROFITEERING.

Inquiries conducted by agents of the federal trade commission disclose that $5 a ton and even better was for a time the meager profit retail coal dealers in Indianapolis were taking from the ultimate consumer. Not all dealers were in like degree wanting in modesty. Some appear to have been wanting in opportunities, while others seem to have been afflicted with diffidence and timidity and it is not inconceivable that some may have been restrained by just plain business decency. At all events, the trade commission's investigation has shown that ante-war profiteering was a reasonably well established and tolerably extensive practice in the Indiana capital, which bears out what a good many mine operators here and there have been asserting—that excessive prices of coal, found in communities over the country, are not due to prices at the mine but to the rapacity of dealers.

Just how this has been may be observed in the single instance of New York city. At a time when hard coal was selling in Fort Wayne at a price around $9 a ton, during the scarcity last winter, dealers were obtaining as high as $15 a ton for it in New York. The difference in price does not altogether represent the difference in profit, for it must be remembered that the haul from the anthracite fields to New York is several hundred miles shorter than it is from the same fields to Fort Wayne. The New York dealers found they could extort the prices and they extorted. That appears to have been the case in Indianapolis, and in some other cities that are of record.

When the government lays its rough hand on the coal business and says "thus far," the practices of both operators and dealers will become perforce more decent. Coal will not be cheap in any sense that it can be taken back to the levels of two or three years ago, but it will be cheaper perhaps than it is now. There is no purpose of the government to eliminate profits from the coal business anywhere along the line, from mine to consumer. It is designed that production shall be increased and steadied, that distribution shall be fair and consistent with needs and that prices shall be stabilized upon an equitable margin. The public doubtless would be willing to stand even a mild degree of profiteering if that might establish complete assurance of fuel amply and regularly.

If Governor Goodrich does have an extra session of the legislature there will probably be as good a working organization on the democratic side of the senate as there was last winter, when much of the governor's program was undone and much else never done at all. We do not suspect that the special session will be invoked to slam through anything partisan and raw, but if excitement gets high and there is a runaway, the fellows are on hand to stop it.

Anyway, LaFollette and Vardaman escape aspersion and reprobaton as alien enemies. They're native born and in service of their people and their government—such service as it. Otherwise, you can go as far as you like and say what you please, which seems to be the privileges of the Wisconsin objector and the Mississippi brawler when they address themselves to a discussion of their government and its task of bringing the nation safely through a war that has been forced upon it.

There is a rather promising indication that chibblains and the number of dependent relatives are diminishing in the land. Enlistments for the regular army have been rather lively and the number of exemption claims is said to be coming down in an interesting way. They'll all begin to feel like it as the trouble gets hotter, which it soon will be.

The recent czar, in transit to Siberia, gets a flood of fresh light on that journey to which so many thousands of his fellow citizens now living and former subjects now dead were condemned by his own imperial dictum. It may not ease the pain of the penalty, but it will give him to understand why the Russian autocracy no longer is.

The coal operators of Illinois appear to have some anxious curiosity to know if there is such an animal as state seizure of the coal mines. As pioneers in the quest for answer to the problem of eminent domain, public emergencies and similar issues the coal operators may at length gain credit for useful service if not great wisdom.

FOR SERVICE.

(Meditation for Sabbath Morning.)
I should wish to be of service
Like the flower,
Giving all my best and dearest
Hour by hour,
Giving all my life like sunshine,
Kiss by kiss,
Climbing round by round unconscious
Of my bliss,
Knowing only that my brothers
On the way
Drew some help and guidance from me
Day by day.

I should wish to be the purest
That I know,
With a heart that knew the red
But felt the snow,
With a faith so great that those
Who sadly fall
Might find place beneath my grace

With my love to paint the crimson
White again,
Turn red ruin back to Christ,
Nor live in vain.

Production Engineering—No. 3

BY GEORGE F. CARD.

Dr. Taylor early in his search for a workable system of factory management that would eliminate the objectionable feature of military control and give to workers a fair return for voluntary effort, came to the conclusion that industry cannot advance by war and waste, it must advance by co-operation and efficiency. Employer and employees must work together. Instead of commanding the workman as in the past the new management must use its scientific information as a basis for teaching and serving the workman, with the end that not only the product but the rewards of both hand worker and brain worker may be largely increased.

In furtherance of this idea Dr. Taylor enunciated the following principles or laws which the management must accept as new duties, and which they must faithfully perform before expecting any degree of co-operation or voluntary assistance from their employees.

First—They must develop a science for each element of a man's work, which replaces the old rule of thumb method.

Second—They must scientifically select and train the workman, where in the past he chose his own work and trained himself as best he could.

Third—They must heartily co-operate with the men, so as to insure all of the work being done in accordance with the principles of the science which is being developed.

Fourth—There is almost equal division of the work and the responsibility between the management and the workmen. The management take over all the work for which they are better fitted than the workman, while in the past almost all the work and the greater part of the responsibility were thrown upon the men.

It is this combination of the initiative of the men coupled with the new type of duties forced upon the management that makes scientific management so successful.

Three of these elements exist in a small and rudimentary way in other forms of management, but are of minor importance, whereas under scientific management they become the very essence of the whole system.

Mr. F. M. Felker, a production expert of wide experience, divides these laws into five sections and states them as follows:

First—To separate from the "Line organization" or to add to the "Line organization" a staff organization.

Second—to set up tentative standards of performance.

Third—to correct these standards by working out scientifically the best method of performance.

Fourth—to determine the best inducement to the employee to attain these standards.

Fifth—to equip the employee with clear, complete and exact knowledge of the best and quickest way of doing the work.

A committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers has condensed these laws still more, as follows:

First—The systematic use of experience.

Second—The economic control of effort.

Third—The promotion of personal effectiveness.

While Mr. J. Calder goes a step further and expresses them in this manner:

First—Systematized experience.

Second—Economicized effort.

Third—Developed personality.

Since all the essential things that Dr. Taylor contends for are contained in these versions the student can, if he has the gist and understanding of them well correlated, go the limit in condensation and write them down more efficiently and quite as correctly with three simple words, as follows:

First—Investigate.

Second—Standardize.

Third—Instruct.

An opportunity is here afforded for clubs and new beginners to start the practice of graphic presentation.

This method of presenting figures and facts is fast becoming popular in progressive concerns.

Busy managers have little time to read and digest long written reports and appreciate anything that will lighten their mental burdens. In fact the rule has been established in some offices that all reports, data sheets and inter-departmental communications that can be represented by curves, diagrams, or in other graphic ways must be made out in that manner. For present purposes all the material needed for a chart of laws is a sheet of heavy white or light colored wrapping paper (24x36 inches is a good size) and a red, black and blue pencil. A draftsman's square will be useful but can be dispensed with.

Several plans can be followed for graphically showing the laws of scientific management and the student should try all of them to find out which is most impressive. A simple one is shown below.

All Methods Processes Equipment Material Labor and Physical Conditions.

By Time studies and written rules the best and most economical way of doing the things investigated.

By Trained Teachers Study Clubs Committee Meetings and other ways, how to perform Standardized Tasks in standard time.

1st.—To investigate

2nd.—To standardize

3d.—To instruct

Duties of the Management.

Another way, more elaborate but better suited for clubs and class instruction is as follows: Draw a circle (say 3 inches in diam.) in the center of the sheet, this will represent the management. Radiate from this circle three short lines (equally spaced) and draw a smaller circle at the end of each line. These circles will represent the principal elements. Then from each of these circles draw a line for each of the minor elements with a still smaller circle at the end within which write the name of the element represented.

This is a symmetrical design and has a psychological effect of great value. This value can be further enhanced by emphasizing the lines, circles and the writing inside them with bright colored crayons, making the contrast between the different groups as striking as possible.

A representation of this sort, if cleverly done, is attractive to the eye and unconsciously photographs on the mind some peculiarity of shape or color which becomes a card index, as it were, for permanence and quick recall to memory. Psychology is another phase of scientific management that students should pay close attention to. At least that part of it which relates to the individual as a unit with special characteristics. No one can successfully hold any of the positions mentioned in article No. 1 without a working acquaintance with the laws which control different types of individuals. This knowledge is essential for the correct selection of employees and to compute and set the proper task for each person when such tasks are based on the performance of highly skilled operatives.

To briefly summarize the vital things contained in Dr. Taylor's laws governing scientific management, they mean, the careful selection of workmen for each particular job, then training and helping them to work according to scientific methods. It is emphatically laid down that the management has no right to expect co-operation from employees until these conditions are fulfilled and the things which they must do (as shown in the chart above) have been performed to the utmost ability of the staff organization. That factories can be organized and operated successfully under these laws is a matter of record. I will tell in the next article about many of them, why some have failed and the reasons therefor, and will give a list of the different industries that have found "common sense" management a profitable innovation. A chart of efficiency principles like the one suggested, neatly drawn and colored, will be a good beginning for a series of similar illustrations covering production methods, to hang in office or club room.

part of the men or to their ignorance of the ordinary rules of health. Minor defects have been allowed to become permanent disqualifications under a test based on normal physical conditions. A short visit to the hospital or a simple surgical operation in many cases would prevent serious trouble. Lack of reasonable care on the part of individuals accounts for physical defects in a degree not anticipated even by experienced doctors who have recently examined hundreds of young men.

In the revelation of the physical status of a large part of the country's young manhood and the resultant pointing to a correction of its defects, the selective draft examination reforms the function of a national clinic. From the census that is now nearing completion there should follow a better understanding than ever before of the health conditions among men in the prime of life in this country. When the results of the doctors' examinations are tabulated, as they should be by the medical authorities, the facts as they exist and the tendencies as they are revealed in every class of occupation and industry should be helpful guides in effecting a revolution in the matter of the national health and its care.

DISPELLING THE MURK.

(Indiana Daily Times.)

The Fort Wayne Sentinel calls attention to stories supposed to emanate from Washington, D. C., in which bounteous crops are described as plentiful supplies of foodstuffs are represented as being in the very act of overflowing the cornucopia of gladness into the lifted and eager hands of the merry populace.

The esteemed Sentinel does not see how these tales accord with the extortionate prices being collected from the consumer in its own section, as elsewhere.

The fact is, these yarns of superabundance are sent out by the booze interests and their friends in and out of office to impress the public with the idea that it is not necessary, as a war measure, to cut out the manufacture of booze and the incidental waste in booze of grains that ought to go as food for the people and for our allies.

The booze interests would be fool the people into a degree of extravagant error if only the booze business might profit from that blunder. The booze interests are so closely identified with Kaiserist interests that they would feel not the slightest compunction if they were to help bring about the actual defeat and overthrow of the American government. Booze is not more selfish than it is treacherous.

The solemn truth is that the greed and treachery of booze in this war crisis is an alien enemy.

Intern John Barleycorn! Save for bread the grains that now are being used to make booze. As between bread and booze we must have bread. It is an elementary war truth that we need for food every ounce of all the food crops we can raise.

It is evident that some young men, since the announcement of the war department that married men would not be taken for the first drafted armies, are going to be slackers. They should not overlook the fact that the law requires sworn proof, under heavy penalties, that their wives are absolutely dependent on their husbands' labor—with no money, parents or investments to fall back on—before marriage will be accepted as a cause for exemption.

Some time ago when it became known that married men would probably be exempted there was a disgraceful rush to the marriage license bureaus in many sections of the country, breaking all records in certain cities. Then the war department issued a notice that men married would receive no special consideration and the number of applications for licenses diminished to normal.

Several days ago Gen. Crowder ruled that men with wives dependent upon them would not be taken on matter when married. Since then there has been a record-breaking rush to marriage bureaus. In New York and Brooklyn men crowding the clerks' offices openly indicated they were there to evade military service. The United States marshal at New York yesterday, with fifteen deputies, cleared the marriage license bureau of scores of young men who could not produce registration cards.

It is not fair to accuse all the young men who marry at this time of being slackers, but it is obvious that many of them are attempting to evade a duty which they should be proud to fulfill. A man who will deliberately hide behind a woman's skirts to avoid war is not the best material for a soldier, but in fairness to the millions of others who will serve when they are called, he should be made to do his duty.

The recently expressed view of one young man is worthy of consideration and is probably typical. Before the entrance of the United States into the war he became engaged, but postponed the marriage because he did not wish to leave his wife with the responsibilities of a home on her hands if he should be drafted.

Now with the new ruling regarding married men in effect, married soldiers are exempted, and hundreds more are present marrying to evade service, and leaving the burden to him and the thousands of others who tried, and are trying, honestly to do their duty, no matter what personal sacrifice is entailed. For the sake of such young men, if not for the nation's sake, the marrying slacker should be brought up short.

A. C. W. NOTES

This column of news is presented by the Associated Christian Workers of Fort Wayne through the courtesy of The Sentinel.

—For Sunday—

What is the topic for Sunday evening? Do you know?
The following are the topics to be discussed in the different prayer meetings on Sunday evening:
Epworth Leaguers, "The Father's Care of Us."
Christian Endeavors, "A Definite Purpose and the Success It Wins."
Young People's Alliance, "A Definite Purpose and the Success It Wins."
Luther Leaguers, "The Sunday Show, a Menace to Our Youth."
Don't fail to attend one of these and take a part aside from singing.

—For the Future—

On the evening of September 13 there will be held an entertainment in which your society must make two parts of the program the best. This entertainment will be of a temperance nature and in working up your part think of something along the temperance line which will tend to promote this cause. In planning this our Mr. Davis and his committee decided that each society was to have not less than three minutes and not more than five in each part of it. Also that if you have decided to have a song for one part then for the other part have a recitation or perhaps a short five minute playlet or temperance line. Remember that the society which receives the most points on their parts will receive a prize. (I know that it is a good one and one that anyone would enjoy.) There will also be special music and a talk on temperance by some prominent business man of this city or out of town. Remember this date, Sept. 13, as the time to go to Wayne street M. E. church for a rousing temperance good time.

I wonder what Elch and Ford have "up their sleeve."
There will be held a meeting of some kind, sometime, somewhere and the winners of the dollars offered by the generals will be given their rewards.

Constitution will be printed next week. Tell your friends about it so they can read it and know how this band of Christian workers carry on the Lord's work.

WILL HELP MEET DEMAND

BELIEVE IT TO BE PATRIOTIC DUTY

Addition Will Probably Be Built to the Hospital Nurses' Home.

Believing it to be a patriotic duty, the Lutheran Hospital association, of this city, has under consideration plans whereby it will be possible to train more nurses than ever before in order to help meet the demand caused by the United States' entrance into the world war.

A meeting of the board of directors has been called for Sunday afternoon, at which time ways and means of providing suitable housing for a greater number of nurses will be discussed. A $10,000 addition will probably be built to the present hospital nurses' home.

The situation as regards the need for nurses in the present crisis is set out in the following communication from the officials of the Lutheran Hospital association:
The country is depending upon its professionally trained nurses to care for the sick and wounded men of our army in France. Already several hundred have been called into service, and in the coming months several thousand more may be needed, who will be recruited not only from the ranks of private duty nurses, but also from among public health nurses, teachers and executive officers in training schools. A steady depletion in the ranks of our skilled nurses is therefore inevitable.

This is a grave situation. We must provide the best nursing care for our army; we must carry on with undiminished energy the nursing work in our hospitals at home; we must also be ready, as war proceeds, to care for great numbers of disabled men; we must increasingly safeguard health work in which nurses are engaged, especially where the health of the nation's children is at stake. Highly skilled nurses will be needed, never before, and in greatly increased numbers. In one way only can the loss of trained nurses be made good, and that is by training others to take their places. By training greatly increased numbers, and in no other way, can we meet adequately the situation that confronts us.

The Council of National Defense, at Washington, has sent out letters to president and deans of women's and co-educational colleges throughout the country asking to have the matter placed before the graduating class of students, and the committee is now sending a personal letter to each of the approximately 10,000 young women graduating from our colleges this year. A campaign of publicity, through pamphlets, articles, addresses and other suitable measures, has been started also among graduates of high and private schools. The government has done everything in its power to direct the aroused interest of our educated women to the peculiarly important service that pupil nurses in hospitals can render at this time.

The Lutheran hospital of this city has received a communication from the Council of National Defense asking whether the Lutheran hospital could assist in meeting the present crisis by admitting a greater number of applicants to their training school. The Council of National Defense expect substantial results from their campaign among college women and would be glad to be in a position to advise all applicants as to hospitals which are prepared to admit larger classes during this emergency.

The Lutheran Hospital association realizes that the most generous utilizing of their resources to replenish and increase the supply of nurses is a truly patriotic task. In a special meeting of the Lutheran hospital board of directors to be held Sunday afternoon the question of providing ways and means of providing suitable housing for a greater number of nurses will be discussed. The building of an addition to the hospital nurses' home, to cost approximately $10,000, is one plan under consideration.

The need of enlarging the hospital building proper has been felt for some time and has been discussed at various times. However, now that the country is at war the addition to the nurses' home will doubtless take precedence over any contemplated addition to the hospital.

BIG CELEBRATION IS NOW PLANNED

As a result of the success of the celebration of the potato patch patriots at Foster park, Wednesday, a movement is on foot for a much larger celebration to be held early in the fall. Local automobile and real estate dealers are said to be interested in the movement, the plan being to make it sort of a fall festival to be held in or near Foster park.

Much interest is being manifested and it is not at all improbable that a definite announcement as to time and place will be made within a few days. Headquarters have been established in the directors' room of the People's Trust & Savings company's building. One feature of the program will be the election of a house by one of the local building companies.

PUBLIC MEETINGS FORBIDDEN.

Amsterdam, Aug. 18.—The military commander at Stettin, Germany, has forbidden "in the interest of public safety" meetings in Stettin and in the district of Rantow. The socialist organ Vorwarts says the executive committee of the socialist party sent to Chancellor Michaelis a protest against such prohibitions which are reported in all parts of Germany and a request for abolition thereof.

UNION WILL PAY DUES.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 18.—The sixty-third annual convention of the International Typographical union, before final adjournment late last night, voted to take care of the national dues of members who join the national army, the necessary fund to be raised.

SOCIETY

It is said with authority by those who know, that the woman who is not preserving foodstuffs either by canning, drying or salting in these days of plenty is making a mistake. The mistake does not immediately concern the housekeeper for she may be able to look ahead and declare she can buy all she wants, having the necessary wherewithal to pay the price. Or she may have already been able by reason of habit of buying in large quantities or by having some private means of access to wholesale stock, to fill her cellar shelves with all she wants. The point of the matter of canning and drying is to save now such foods from going to waste and be in position to not need to buy after awhile. Women forget that this is as much a service to the country and an aid to the allies as knitting and Red Cross work. The canning of vegetables is not particularly easy work, neither is making apple butter from windfall apples. "It takes gas," some one exclaims. To be sure, but two dollars extra on a month's gas bill will not buy a few cans of vegetables next winter, and two dollars extra is an extraordinary consumption, because so much fruit or vegetable matter can be put up at once.

All Acts on Palace Bill Strangers to Fort Wayne.

Everything's new except the theater and you can't tell that from now at the vaudeville season. None of the acts on the bill for the first four days of the week ever played Fort Wayne before but everyone of them has won a reputation over the vaudeville circuits of the east and west. The feature attraction of course, is the interpretive dancing done by the famous

THE SWING OF GARDEN FASHION.

A garden is a pretty thing, and it deserves a pretty costume. The young lady in the swing has evidently preferred to be beautiful in an decorative in white linen and rose crepe, and not purely utilitarian in blue jean overalls. Leave them for the farmerettes and the cornfields; a flower garden deserves something a little more decorative. The bonnet keeps off the sun and the gloves evidently protect the hands. There is no reason why the frock, minus the cap and gloves, could not be worn for sport.

Marmain Sisters, American girls who have studied their art both in America and abroad and are bringing to the New Palace one of the most sumptuously staged attractions of its character known to vaudeville.

A fast and furious high stepping syncopated bit of jazz will be presented by Ralph Dunbar's Tennessee Tens, a double quintet of darlings in plantation melodies, instrumental numbers and dances. Demarest and Collette will present their musical variety and a snappy little girl with a new kind of curl, Dorothy Kenton, will be heard in her original conception of how a banjo should be played. W. S. Harvey, assisted by Midge Anderson will introduce their heavy juggling novelty. The House Upside Down, Burnham and Yant introducing the girl with the double voice in a bit of banter and a bit of song is another feature of this bill.

Why "The Daily Grind" is Worth Your While

By BIDDY BYE.

The highly systemized home run by a nagger and the unorganized home run by a complainer produce about an equal amount of misery. However, men seldom run away from a dustless house where they frequently desert the home which is never clean.

Between the female tyrant and the shirk is many a comfortable path. Therefore it seems queer that brides so often expect husbands to provide homes which they themselves are not at all prepared to take care of.

But the queerness isn't half so important as the unfairness. To too many girls a roof, the bigger and higher the better, and loads of fine furniture and much leisure to advertise her state to her friends are the measure of her "home." Housework she looks upon mainly as something to evade.

But the young husband seldom considers his home in terms of princess mirrors and parties. For him is the vision of an orderly table and a fine shower bath—comfort and freedom—considerable contrast to the scant accommodations of the bachelor's boarding house.

But none of the comforts of home are ever to be had except at the cost of some woman's labor—and willing labor it must always be. The wife, new or old, who refuses to make her home run smoothly and economically, cheats her husband.

Her beauty and coquetry may defend her from his criticism for a while, but one day the married woman who refuses to do her bit of drudgery is bound to come in for some deserved domestic discord.

Of the things man will keep with him after the war are a keen appreciation of order and system which he has learned as a soldier. And girls who would fulfill the soldier's ideal cannot afford to conduct their homes in the careless and expensive ways peculiarly the product of twentieth century fashion.

Only she who accepts the daily grind as a man accepts his army discipline is a good sport, and a satisfactory mate for the carefully trained army man.

Save Every Crumb of Bread for Others

"If we eat more than our share we eat somebody else's share," reads a poster distributed broadcast in England. It is supplemented with the further statement: "Save the bread and the bread will save you." Both propositions are as applicable in Indiana and America and it is the hope of the food administrators that it will not be necessary to make any harsher presentation of these truths.

SATIN WILL BE FAVORITE FOR FROCKS THIS FALL

Everything points toward satin as the favorite material for the one-piece frock for autumn wear. Glace satin, satin Francese, satin Elizabeth, beautiful brocades and crepe effects are in high feather. Charmeuse and satin meters are good buys. The metallic shades and "vol d'oiseau" come in new designs and are particularly luscious selections for evening flutters. The chiffon velvets in all the wine and purple shades are positively regal and royal, if not heavenly and divine. Even if wars do wage there appears to be plenty of expensive fabrics in the world; designs were never more stunning or materials more tempting.

In summer, comfort's the thing. It is not any too easy to obtain it, either. Many frocks have been designed to insure comfort, but few have lived up to their purpose. School Gardeners Help Solve High Cost of Living

Paul Keller lives with his uncle and helps him with his garden at 2805 Oliver street. It is one of the most beautiful sights that the supervisor has seen. Both the flowers and vegetables are of the finest and the entire yard is in perfect condition.

There are few slackers among the school gardeners this year. Many of the older boys and girls are doing splendid work and have fine gardens. Even some of the smaller children have stuck to their gardens bravely and the results are something to be proud of.

Here are a few of the good workers. There are so many of them that a whole paper would be necessary to give one even a slight idea of the number. These children live in the southeast part of the city, and each has plenty of room to raise garden truck. Others who had very little room have done wonders with very little space.

Many parents felt that they could not spare any space to the children this year, a fact that caused many disappointments among the children. One little girl was so eager for a garden that she planted in the heavy shade of some bushes. Her plants were sickly and not a weed was permitted to grow in that bed.

Another little boy rented the back yard from his parents, and is selling his vegetables to his mother at store prices. He has kept an accurate record of every penny spent and earned. His potatoes didn't amount to much. Of course he was disappointed but not discouraged—not he—he pulled out the spuds and planted beans, so he'll get something from that space yet.

There are too many spaces going to waste just now, or rather going to weeds. There is still time to plant beans (bush), turnips, radishes and lettuce if you get an early maturing variety.

Nine-year-old Virgil Wright helped to care for this tall corn which is some of the finest in the city. It is growing at 2101 South Lafayette street.

Blanche and Lucile Marchand, 3404 South Lafayette street, have private patches of their own and help their mother with a large garden of both flowers and vegetables. Lucile is seen in the above picture.

Harry and Vera Ault live at 2001 North street. Vera has a good sized garden in the back yard at her home that is her special charge, and Harry has done a great deal of the work in the large garden just south of the Ault home.

Gretchen Lininger has a fine garden at her home, 422 East Pontiac street, where she has hoed and weeded many days this summer. Her parents have three lots planted in another section of the city and they have vegetables galore.

SOLDIER BOY FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGE

Case Against Carl Johnson Continued for 90 Days in Police Court.

Judge H. Waveland Kerr, of the city court, ruled that Carl Johnson was guilty of unlawful possession of a motor vehicle in police court Saturday morning, but after deliberation continued the case against him for ninety days and ordered him turned over to the officers of Company B, signal corps, for punishment.

The case attracted much attention in the city. The boy took the automobile last Saturday evening and drove to Churubusco to see his brother. He was arrested upon his return to the city and Sunday morning Judge Kerr ordered him turned over to the military authorities.

Then came the question as to who had the jurisdiction in the case, civil or the military authorities. It was ruled by the war department that the case should be handled by the civil authorities. The young man was surrendered by the officers of the company to the police force after a warrant for his arrest had been issued.

A large number of witnesses testified in court Saturday morning as to the previous good character of the young man. Johnson will get his punishment from military authorities.

FIGHT WAS DESPERATE

Graphic Account of German Attempt to Recapture Lost Ground

BRITISH TROOPS FORCED TO GIVE UP

French Artillery Fire in Taking Ground Was Terrific

British Front in France, Aug. 18.—The fighting Thursday at Polygon was desperate. Wave after wave of the enemy came surging up against the London troops, who held on determinedly with rifle and bayonet until two simultaneous counter attacks from different directions forced them to retreat.

Gradually they withdrew, fighting all the way. Some few of them were surrounded and fought until forced to surrender. One young officer in command of ten men found himself encircled by the enemy and his men being swept by machine gun fire. The last heard of him was contained in a message he signalled back to his division, saying his men were facing death and that he saw no way but to surrender and save their lives.

Quiet Along French Front. Along most of the French front it was comparatively quiet, although a hard local battle was continuing about a strong German redoubt known as "Les Lilas," which lies about a thousand yards southwest of the St. Janshoek river.

In their advance the French surged forward on either side of this position, making a sort of a pocket about it and it was expected that the small German garrison would be compelled to surrender shortly. The Germans delivered a counter attack on the French extreme right flank, but this was repulsed by artillery fire. The prisoners accounted for to date total more than 370, and this figure represents considerably more than the entire French casualties along their whole front in Thursday's offensive.

The remarkably small number of casualties was due to the fine work of the French artillery. Preliminary bombardment of German positions was very effective and the advance was made under a perfect barrage.

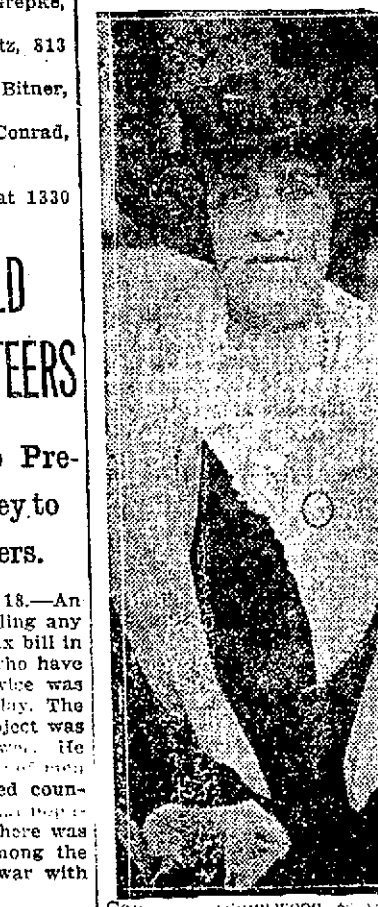

As was the case on the British front about Langemark, the German barrage was totally inadequate and the counter battery work, whereon so much depends, gave no trouble.

French Fire Superior. French counter battery firing resulted in silencing a large number of enemy guns and as a result the French have been little troubled by gun fire in carrying out consolidations.

The work of the French engineers in this difficult terrain, which, as it approaches the river, is a veritable morass, had been thrust forward swiftly and when it came to bridging the flooded Steenbeke for crossing at dawn, Thursday, there was not the slightest delay in getting the numerous bridges over.

The French air service played an important part in the advance, going ahead of the infantry all along the line and keeping up the contact of the patrols at the height of two or three hundred metres. The German airmen who ventured in the direction of the French were driven back and the air was cleared of enemy machines. In addition to patrol work the French airmen did good execution with machine guns and bombs on enemy redoubts.

NURSERIES FOR FRENCH MOTHERS AND BABIES

Work Will Be Undertaken by Committee for Aid of Destitute Children.

New York, Aug. 18.—Announcement was made here today of the establishment within the next few weeks in many of the larger towns and cities of France of hospital nurseries for the benefit of the mothers and babies of France. This work will be undertaken by the committee for the aid of destitute children under the auspices of the American fund for French wounded. The first unit, composed of ten volunteer nurses and five physicians, will leave New York for France next month to open the first hospital nursery in Paris. Acting in conjunction with the American fund, which now supplies 3,000 hospitals in the smaller towns of France, the new committee will attempt to provide care for the babies whose mothers have been forced to menial work in the French factories. Funds for the new work will be handled by the American fund for French wounded through its eighty committees scattered throughout the United States.

STRIKERS WILL NOT LAY DOWN ON JOBS

Lumber Jacks Will Continue to Fight Fires Notwithstanding I. W. W. Order

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 18.—More than 500 striking lumber jacks, members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who have been sent from Missoula to fight fires for the United States forest fires, will stick to their jobs even though the threatened general strike of the I. W. W. is called next Monday, according to a statement today by Arthur W. Smith, secretary of the organization here.

The announcement is important, forest service officials say, because the fire situation is now more serious than at any time this year. Dangerous fires are spreading rapidly through dry forests and men enough to combat them successfully cannot be obtained.

Fires near Falcon, Idaho, along the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, are the most serious in the district.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD BOY ROBBED

Now the police and detectives are looking for the ruffian. A good description was given by Andrew of the boy who robbed him.

APPOINTMENT WELCOMED. Press Opposed to Socialist Conference Pleased With Warde.

London, Aug. 18.—The appointment of George J. Warde as parliamentary secretary to the board of trade is welcomed by the press opposed to the Stockholm socialist conference as indicating that he accepts the attitude of the government with regard thereto. His acceptance of the office is regarded as more significant as he accompanied Arthur Henderson, who recently resigned as member of the war council, and James Ramsay MacDonald, ex-chairman of the labor party, on their recent famous visit to Paris since which time he has not declared his views.

The appointment of George H. Roberts as minister of labor necessitates his seeking re-election at Norwich. Other appointments do not incur the obligation of re-appearing to their constituents.

DIRECT TO HATTIESBURG. Local Companies Will Undoubtedly Not Stop at Fort Harrison.

Regimental Quartermaster Sergeant William Moore, formerly of Company E, has written to members of Company E announcing that it is very likely that they will be sent directly to Hattiesburg, Miss., and that they will not stop over at Fort Benjamin Harrison. This theory is based on the fact that all supplies and equipment are being sent to the Mississippi port.

BRITISH DO DAMAGE TO GERMANS AT SEA

Mine Sweeper and Destroyer Crippled in Fight With British Vessels.

London, Aug. 18.—The admiralty announces that a hostile destroyer and two mine sweepers were damaged severely by British naval forces on Thursday. The British warships were not damaged.

The announcement follows: "Some of our light naval forces scouting a German ship on August 16, sighted an enemy destroyer at 9:45 a. m. Fire was opened and the enemy destroyer was chased. She was seen to be hit repeatedly and to be on fire, but she escaped through the mist over the mine field.

"An enemy mine sweeper was sighted shortly after the sighting of the destroyer and a heavy fire was opened. At least two of the mine sweepers were seen to be very severely damaged, but similarly with the destroyer our ships were unable to follow them, owing to the proximity of the mine fields.

"During the engagement our vessels were attacked by a submarine, and after the action a second submarine attacked. In both cases without result. Our vessels suffered no damage whatever."

THE BERLIN VERSION. Berlin, Aug. 18.—An official statement issued at the German admiralty today regarding the naval clash between British and German light forces on August 16, says: "On Thursday a German guard patrol in the North sea encountered enemy cruisers and destroyers on the fringe of the English barred zone and attacked them. The enemy, who had a large superiority, turned away under the well placed German fire and withdrew from the engagement with all possible haste. We suffered no losses."

Chiefs Drop Big Swatting Contest With Muskegon

Twenty-Nine Hits Registered in Game at League Park Friday.

Company E and the signal corps, a static encounter and fifteen healthy swats from the bats of the boys from Michigan featured Friday's defeat of Fort Wayne by Muskegon 5 to 3. With the soldier boys doing everything in their power and the rest of the crowd pulling hard for Fort Wayne, the Chiefs could not win. Fort Wayne evidently halted to consolidate her losses and is now tied with Dayton for the cellar championship, which position has been hotly contested for by the Vets and Chiefs for the last few weeks. Muskegon's win Friday made it three in a row, a clean sweep of the series.

A warrant was served on Fred Hunter, first baseman with Muskegon, following an attack he is alleged to have made on John Essig, secretary of the Fort Wayne ball club, preceding the contest over the refusal of Essig to admit a bat boy. Hunter is said to have struck Essig following the altercation. Essig swore out the warrant and Bailiff George Stannett was directed to serve it. When the bailiff appeared at the baseball park he decided to wait until the game was over before serving the warrant on the request of the manager of the visiting club. Hunter gave bond.

The game developed into a slugfest contest after the second inning when the Muskegon started things off, scoring five runs before they were through. The first three men up each delivered a single. Two scored on Brenneke's two-bagger, and Speas' triple cleared the bases. Hunter sacrificed, allowing Speas to score. The next two outs were easy. Roberts went in to relieve Kowalski at this juncture.

The Chiefs scored three runs in their half of the fifth inning. Glickson got on an error, with one down, and went to third on Vandagriff's single. Roberts tripled, bringing in both runners and scored himself on a single by Breau. Miller and Hoffman flew out to center.

The score was tied up in the seventh inning when the home club again took heavy blows. Miller got on an error, and Smith drove in. Miller got on and Smith drove in. Hoffman flew to center, Steinfeld singled, filling the bases. Kelly delivered the blow which tied the count and allowed two Chiefs to cross the plate. Glickson flew out, ending the scoring for the inning.

Another batting round put the game in the cooler for Muskegon. Speas got a hit, Hunter drew a base and Kirby doubled, scoring Speas and Hunter. Kirby scored on Kahler's single.

RUNNER WANTED TO ENLIST.

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—One of the city's leading marathon runners, Henry Levinson, has passed the physical examination for the new national army. Levinson has tried several times to enlist in the army but always was "turned down" because he lacked the required height. He says he does not claim exemption and is willing to serve his country. His greatest success in the yearly marathons which he started to compete in in 1909, came in 1914, when he finished fourth. Sidney Hatch and Kennedy were ahead of him that year. He is 24 years old.

BURRY GOES TO GIANTS.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Paul F. Burry, a young pitcher, who was tried out by the Chicago Nationals early in the spring and turned over to Newark of the International league, will be given a tryout with the New York Giants soon, and is expected to finish the season with them. Burry formerly pitched for Duquesne university, where he and Al Mamaux, were teammates. He was first discovered by Connie Mack, but turned back, and next was taken over by Joe Tinker, who then was manager of the Chicago Nationals. He is 20 years old, weighs 160 pounds, and stands 5 feet 11 inches in his socks.

POOR DOWN TRODDEN BALLPLAYER GETS ONLY $72,000 IN FOUR YEARS.

Much has been written since the Federal league war about the high price of ball players, all of which suggests the little mint Johnny Evers has made of himself during the last three and a half years. Way back in 1914 Johnny joined the Braves. He had no delusions about how much money he was worth and was not at all backward in getting what he could. As a result when his four year contract ended this fall he will have drawn $72,000 in salaries, bonuses and world series splits from the Braves and Phillies. All of this with the exception of about $5,000 has already been paid by the Boston club. When Johnny joined the Braves he signed a contract that would have brought him to the age of J. D. R. It called for $19,000 a season for 1914, '15, '16 and '17. In addition he was made a present of $25,000 for attaching his name to the contract. Furthermore there were bonuses. If the Braves finished first he was to receive $2,000; if they finished second $1,500, and third $1,000.

In 1914 Johnny received his $10,000 salary, his $25,000 present and $2,000 bonus, as the Braves finished first that year. In addition his split on world series money amounted to $2,312.23, his grand total for the year being $39,312.23.

In 1915 Johnny drew his salary and a $1,500 bonus when the Braves finished second. In 1916 the Braves took third and Johnny's earnings were a paltry $11,000. This year he drew about $5,000 from the Braves before he was transferred to the Phils, who will pay the rest.

The total $72,312.23, at a rate of $18,078.10 per year of six months isn't so bad even for a poor, down-trodden ball player.

MEN MOUNTAINS TO BATTER EACH OTHER FOR CHANCE TO TAKE A CRACK AT BIG JESS' CROWN

CARL MORRIS (By Paul Turnano). FRED FULTON

The question of whether Jess Willard will defend his title, and against whom, probably will be decided Labor day at Canton, O.

On that day Carl Morris and Fred Fulton, the biggest and perhaps the best of the heavyweights, Willard excepted, will mix in a fifteen round decision match.

Whether the winner will have a chance at Willard is still a question, but Matt Hinkle, who is promoting the bout, believes Willard will consent to a match as soon as he can get in shape after his circus season.

Hinkle says he has been unable to get any definite statement out of Willard, but he has done more than any other promoter in getting Willard to commit himself.

"When I get ready to box, I will see you, Matt," Willard told Hinkle, and there is a suspicion that he went even further and promised to go on with a match, but if he did Hinkle is not talking about it.

American heavyweights today are not much to brag about. None of them come up to the measure set by the champions and near-champions of other days. Imagine Tom Sharkey or Bob Fitzsimmons in the same ring with either Fulton or Morris. If you will, and guess how long it would last.

Nevertheless Fulton and Morris are the cream of the runners-up for Willard's title today, and if anyone is to lift his crown from his head it must be one of them.

So in the game of creating new champions Carl Morris, the Sapulpa fireman, and Fred Fulton, the Minnesota plasterer, will swap wallops for fifteen rounds or less on Labor day.

Some 400 pounds of flesh will be prodded around a 24-foot ring with the hope that the winner will get a chance to meet another 250 lb. of bone and muscle for the alleged honor of holding the world's heavyweight championship.

WETHER EDDYTORIUL
Being as there aint nothing else partickler to claim our attention in the way of a eddytorial this wk we thort it mite be a good idee to dash off a brief eddytorial concerning the kind of wether we have been a having lately.
It has been mostly hot.
It pears to us sometimes that if we was a runnin the wether for Bingville we could make a better job of it than we have had for the past few weeks.
To begin with we had a turrible wet spring with about twict as much rain as we nacherly needed and so cold that persons had to keep their fires a going and luggin wood until all their wood was burnt up.
This cool backard spring kept up until about June 1 or thereabouts and then quite suddintly it come off hotten blazes and has remained so ever sinst.
It has not only remained hot ever sinst but it has remained dry as well. Now the crops is badly in need of rain and yit it dont rain and day after day it pears like the skies is dry as a bone with not a cloud in site.
What we be gitting at is why in thunderashion instid of having so blamed much rain all last spring why couldnt a leetle of it be saved and dropped on the ground now that it is needed so much?
But then we persoom we ort not to complain. We persoom no matter what kind of wether we had it wouldnt be the rite kind to please everybuddy. We have noticed that some folks is almost as hard to please as we be.
In factt we hate to be allus kickin like some peepul.

Pertinent Personalities
Miss Tabitha Jones our fashionable dressmaker was took sick last wk from a spell of bilious sick headache and is still bedfast. Them ladies of Bingville who had Miss Tabitha working on dresses for which was promised to be done before this is turrible put out and now they say sinst they didnt git their dresses when they wanted them it would serve Tabitha rite if she had to remain sick a wk or two longer. This is a nice christchian spirit to show aint it?
Rev. Saml Moore the beluvved paster of the Bingville church tells us that there was only three at prayer meeting last Wensday evg inlcuding hisself and one of these was the church janiter, Sim Hines who had to remain for prayer mtg whether he desired to or not so as to lock up the church after twas over. This is simply ridiculus.

Lafe Whitacre cald at this offfis and paid us 25 cts on his back subscription which boots Lafe up to Jan 1 1896. Thanks Lafe. Small contributions thankfullly recd, but the bigger they be the more thankfuller are we.

Mrs. Sam Hankins done a turrible big wash last Monday morning and had it hangin out on the line by 6:30 a. m. Hows that for a big washing out so early? Mrs. Sam must of had to git up at about 2 a. m. and wash by candlelite to of did that.
Jemima Peppers has been planning for quite a spell back to take a trip to the co. seat where she has a married sister who she aint saw for 15 years altho the co. seat is only 15 miles from Bingville. Jemima says she calkulates shell make this vissit unless winter ketches her afore she gits started.
Ab Wilkins while luggin rocks to bld a stone fence tother day stubd his toe whilst he was luggin a rock which was so big he couldnt see over it to see where he was steppin and the rock slid outen his hand and fell smashin his big toe on his left foot. Ab said it hurt so that he set rite down on the ground and wep like a child and then when it got to feelin better he cussed that stone until no self respectin fly would lide on it.

The Widdier Henderson is having the paining fence in front of her residence whitewashed. Hank Dewberry doing the work for her. When we past by the Widders yesterday and engaged Hank in conversation it lookd to us as if he was gitting more whitewash on the ground and on his clothes inlcuding in his eyes than he was gitting on the fence and there is a doubt in our mind whether the whitewash will hold out until he finishes the job.
Amzi Gookins has been suffering turrible from a bunyun on his foot lately which he says akes him so et times that it almost unbearable. Whenever we're a going to have a spell of wet weather Amzi's bunyun akes him moren usual and as a result he can tell when its a going to storm and folks who knows this hereabouts has got into the habit of askin Amzi what the weathers going to be being as Amzi and his bunyun is regarded as quite a weather prophet.
Last wk we had a curus coincidence happen to us. We was a talking to Brad Hinsley who we met on the st and happened to remark that it was a purty hot Wensday. Brad said it was Tuesday not Wensday so we had some pretty hot arguments about it until we offered to bet Brad the seegars it was Wensday and he tuk us up and then we went into Amz Hillers law offfis to look at the callender and to our intents surprise it was Tuesday shure enuff and being as Brad was rite there was nothink else for us to do except to buy him 5 cts worth of seegars. We cant yet understand how we managed to git a day ahead. It wouldnt of surprised us if we had of got a day behind becauz we have did that often but never a day ahead before.

Cy Hoskins informs us that the old grandfathers clock which has stood in his hall for lo these meny yrs has went and stoppd on him and that it aint tickd a tick sinst last Tuesday nite when it stopd at half past 11. About 12 yrs ago Sime Cooper our expert clock fixer had Cys clock all apart and wheyer or whether he had three wheels and several screws which he didnt have no use for and throwd away. Cy thinks this is whats the matter with the clock and now wishes to goodness Sime haddent of throwd em away.

Thanks & Regrets
Mrs. Jerushy Perkins who is one of the kindest souls in Bingville made a brief vissit to the Bugle offfis tother day and left a large green cowcumber on our desk as a mark and token of the esteem in which she holds us we persoom.
In the past Jerushy has often left pies and cakes and other eatables on our desk which has been recd. by us with much cheer and et by ourself and wife with much gusto.
In the evg we tuk the aforsed cowcumber home and had it for supper. Being as our wife aint much of a hand for cowcubers we devoured it all ourself. We regret to state however that about the time we usually retire we was took with a severe pain to our eddytorial stomachick which growd worse and worse until it reached stage a acute stage that we sufferd horrible agony and was dubbled up with pains and cramps until we resembled a summer squash.
As a last resort our wife finally went for Doc Livermore who had went to bed but our wife waked him up and Doc dressd and come over and when he arove he was still half asleep and he give us two pills as big as warbels after which he discovered that he had made a mistake and give us a cupple of horse pills!
We peard to grow easier after we had took them two pills and by midnite went to sleep and slept until mornink. Doc says his awful surprised to find that them two horse pills cured us instid of killin us and he regards this as a great discoverry and will hereafter perskribe horse pills for huming colick.
Altho we assisted Doc in makin this grate discoverry which he wouldnt of discoverryd if it haddent been for us being sick we nottis that he charged us 50 cts. for the vissit jist the same.
In concloussion we wish to say to Mrs. Perkins that if its all the same to her we would prefer that she didnt bring us no more cowcubers being as they dont seem to agree with us. We would prefer pies or cakes or some think like that instid.

New Herrings Rec'd by Hen
Hen Weathersby, prop of a general store, desires us to inform the publick (this is a advertisement and should be regarded as such) that he has jist recd and opened a box of the nicest smoked herrings which he has ever recd.
These herrings is 2 for 5 cts. and they are turrible big, fat herrings for their size and awful delishious. What is niser than a few of these herrings along with some crackers and cheese for instants as you set in Hens store of a evg and discuss the current topics of the day.
These herrings make a person turrible thirsty if they ete sufficient of same, but Hen wishes to state that he will furnish all the water you can drink absolutely FREE to them as buys herrings and crackers and cheese of him.

No More Frost This Summer
Old Dad Henderson who prides hisself on being a turrible far seekin welier prophet says that hes purty reasonable shure that we wont have no frost betwixt now and next September. Dad in the past has made some purty akkerate perdictichions, but the above is the fooltest perdictichion we ever heerd him make. Dad used to be a better prophet than he is now. For the past yr or two Dad has missed it on the wether a good meny more times than he has hit it until now hes almost scairt to make a perdictichion a tall and we persoom this is the reason he is so alimty caushious.
Most enny fool could perdict that there wouldnt be enny frost betwixt now and next September and he shure it would turn out as they said. Whoever heerd of frost in July ennyhow unless it was at the north pole or some other seavort?
For the past few days the thermometer has been hangin around 100 in the shade in Bingville and folks has been gaspin for breth and sweatin like a bottel of ice worter in the sun and under the circumstances we dont calkulate there is a going to be enny frost.

Lafe's Ice Is Gone
Lafe Henderson come into this offfis in disgust tother day and informd us with considerable perfanity (which aint fit to print in this connexshion) that when he went to his ice house last Sabbath to git a lump of ice to make lemonade of he was amazed and surprised to find that there wassent a cake of ice in the ice house being as it had all melted to the last cake.
It aint no mystery or mirackel to us that Lafe's ice has went and melted on him. If we didnt put no more sawdust on our ice when we put it in the ice house than Lafe does we would expect it to melt and we wouldnt blame it if it did. Not only that but Lafe has used the same old sawdust to put up his ice with yr after yr without getting enny new fresh sawdust when a person is so stingy of their sawdust in putting up ice they can expect their ice to melt.
Now we persoom Lafe will expect to borrow ice from his nabers as usual but if he comes to us to borrow enny ice and expects to git it he will be disappointed.

Good Speed for Tommie
Little Tommie Barker the 11 yr old son of Big Barker our respected townsman has been suffering for a spell with a stone bruise on his heel which has been very painful judging from the slow way which little Tommie limps along, but it was shourd tother day that Tommie can make turrible fast time on his feet when the occasion demands.
Deacon Andrews went out to his back orchard tother day to see how his apples was ripening and as he approached one of his Northern Spy trees little Tommie dropped outen the tree and legged it for home as fast as he could leg it.
The Deacon tuk after him and the Deacon is six feet iall and has awful long legs but he wassent no match for little Tommie who the Deacon said got over the ground like a rabbit and escaped.

Eb's Pet Crow
Eb Doolittle tother day while in the woods back of his house ketchd a yung crow which he tuk home to make a pet of. The crow was about half grown and now Eb wishes he haddent ketchd it.
The bland crow is the gorrmandest cheef that was ever in Bingville and thats saying a good eal. It stole Missus Doolittles silver thimbel and several of her teaspoons and hid em away where nobuddy can find em and it also tride to lug off the alarm clock but that was too big.

When it aint stealin it sets on top of the woodshed and hollers at everybuddy who goes past. Eb says hell give this crow away free gratis to ennybuddy who wants stich a thief around the house being as hes had enuff of that crow.

I am GOING to SHOOT a COW
I am going to shoot a cow next Tuesday if the wether is faverabel and if I can git Joshua Witherow to help me and I will sell fresh kild beef by the side, shoulder, quarter or lb., to enny one needing fresh beef.
If ennybuddy wants to buy this cow whole I will sell her alive on her feet jist as she stands which will save me all the trouble of killin her. Here is a chance to git fresh beef at popular prices. So meny folks have said to me lately that they are sick and tired of eating salt pork. So am I which is why I am going to butcher my cow. Send or bring your order in urly because if I cant sell three fourths of this cow in advance before I kill her why then I wont kill her! And want to know about this beforehand.

This City Following Accident at Larwill.

Hiram Long, 49, who was being rushed to this city following an accident in which his uncle, Hiram Long, 75, was instantly killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by the Manhattan Limited on the Pennsylvania at Larwill, died as the train was passing Arcola. He suffered a fractured skull at the base of the brain. The elder Long sustained a fractured skull, broken left leg, crushed chest and broken jaw.

The accident is the third of its kind to occur in Whitley county since the evening of January 24, when Jacob Hawk and Clarence Van Orsdoll were killed in an automobile at the Line street crossing in Columbia City. The second fatality occurred on the evening of July 14, when Guy Moore and Harry Pinchon were killed.

I have talked with many of the Russian revolutionists. I have found none that on March 11 had any hope that the curse hanging over their country 800 years would in their time be lifted.

And then, on March 12, the whole thing, without a moment's warning, began to crack and bend. On March 14 the revolution that no man had planned was complete, the old order had vanished, the wonder of a dazzling New Day burst upon Russia.

Then the Russian revolutionist soared to the skies in an uncontrollable burst of enthusiasm.

The thing had come after all! All the old foundations had been swept away over night. The dreams of so many years were not idle. Behold they were about to be realities before his very eyes!

The czar was gone and men were free, not alone from czar and political despotism, but free also from poverty, injustice, hatred, competition—and war?

Ah!—well, there was the trouble. This terrible war was on. He had not made it the citizen of New Russia; it was none of his affair. It had been made by the czar and the czar's government, all of whose deeds and works had been wiped out and cast away by the revolution and the New Dawn—the dawn of peace and joy to all mankind.

Why, then, should he fight?

It was useless to talk to him about treaties and alliances. To the bottomless pit with all treaties made by the czar! They belonged to the Old Russia, dead and gone forever. New Russia had nothing to do with all that. New Russia had no concern, no object and no business except to spread among all men the glad tidings of the day without poverty, injustice, hatred, competition or war.

Why, then, should he fight?

All men being brothers, equally, the Germans were the Russians' brothers as much as the rest. It seemed clear that the way to abolish war was to stop fighting. How, then, can we be asked to continue the czar's war against these, our German brethren?

Men of these views were in control of the new government. Men of these views constituted at least three-fourths of the population. These views dominated Russia for the first ten weeks after the revolution and to a certain extent dominate it now.

No wonder, then, operations came to a stop and the world concluded that Russia had virtually surrendered and was out of it.

The world didn't know Russia!

After a time the Russian revolutionist began to perceive that much as he loved peace and was committed to it there could be no hope for peace except by going on with this war.

At first only a few saw this—Platonoff, the old time leader, who first unfurled the red flag in the Nevsky Prospekt; Krapotkin, the escaped prisoner of the fortress of Peter and Paul; Kerensky, the sure-sighted. Gradually it became clearer to more men and more until it was adopted by a majority.

"The first enemy of universal peace and universal brotherhood is German militarism," they said. "Unless that can be abolished from the world we have no hope to carry out our dreams. We must make war that we may have peace."

Reluctantly they came to the inevitable conclusion. Slowly it is sweeping over the rest of the country.

But these things take time. Men do not readily give up their most cherished delusions. Truth is often bitter medicine; men do not yearn for it. While the Russian idealist is learning that the life of his ideals depends wholly upon the defeat of Germany there may be many unpleasant incidents, as there have been.

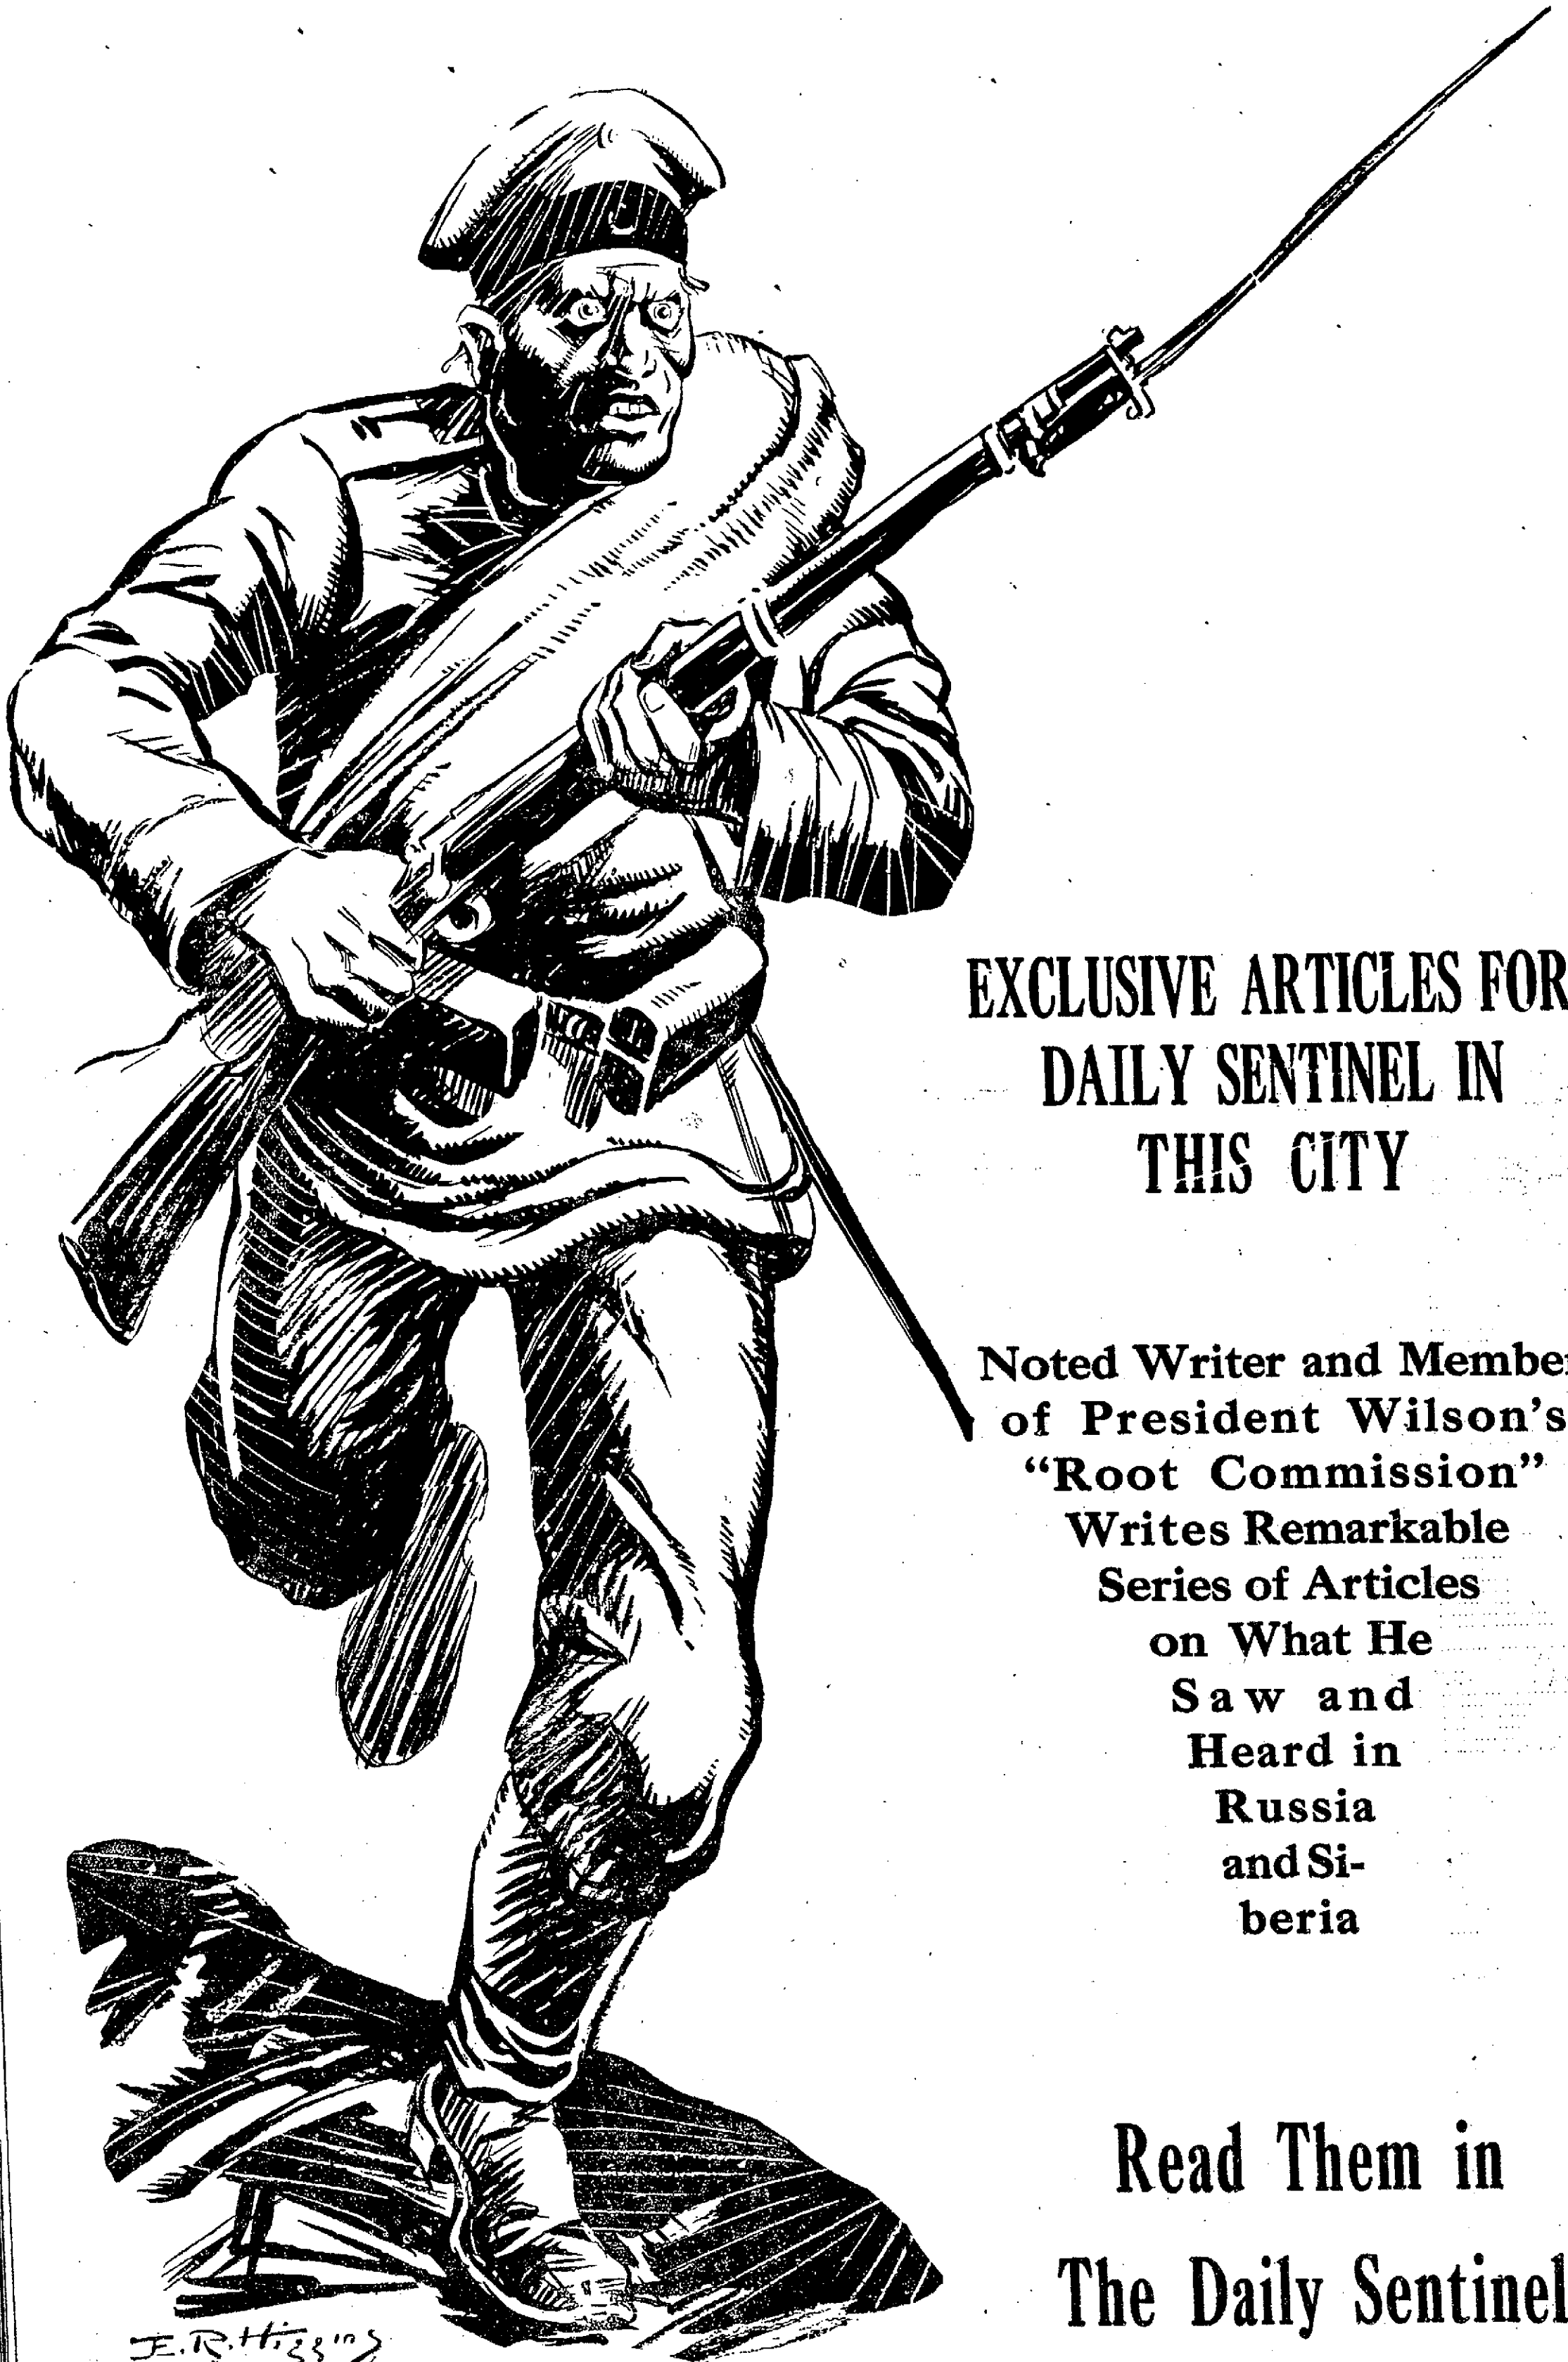

But nobody need doubt the result. Provided only the American pacifist and the American copperhead do not together utterly discourage the Russian and enable Germany to defeat not only Russia but all mankind.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE FARMER

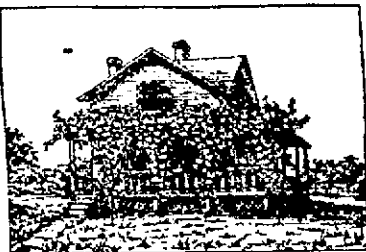

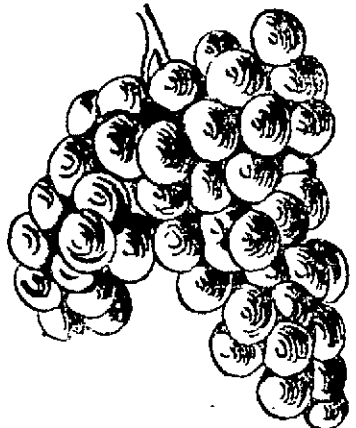

VINES AS COVER FOR WALKS AND SHADE

The Grape Vine, Which Readily Lends Itself to Arbor Training, May Be Used for Screening Porches, Windows, and Outbuildings.

By L. C. CORBETT.

The grape vine may be trained in many desirable ways besides that of covering an arbor. It may be used as a shade or screening for tender plants by following certain systems of pruning and training. Strawberries adapt themselves readily to such situations and among garden vegetables lettuce and radishes may be successfully grown underneath a canopy of grape vines, as they will be out of the way before a very dense shade is formed by the leaves of the grape. Asparagus too may be grown under a shade of this character, as it will make a large share of its growth before the grape will have become dense enough to interfere with the young tender shoots.

A Grape-Vine-Covered Porch.

A cozy summer veranda may be covered by grape vines, thus securing the double advantage of a cool shady nook during the summer and a supply of fruit in autumn. In one garden a small ash house was made to support an Isabella vine which in one year produced 300 clusters of grapes.

Raising Turkeys

When about 6 weeks old the young turkeys are old enough to go to roost. Practically all turkey raisers allow the birds to roost in the open trees or on fences or other roosts especially provided for them. In sections where high winds prevail it is customary to build the roosts next to a barn or shed, where there is some protection; when this is done posts are driven into the ground and poles laid across them 4 or 5 feet from the ground. By driving them to the roosting place and feeding them there every evening just before dark, young turkeys can be made to roost wherever desired. For the first few times it is sometimes necessary to keep them under the roost until dark, but they will finally fly up, and after a week or so will no longer have to be driven, but will come up every night to be fed and to roost.

During the summer and early fall turkeys can find an abundance of feed on the average farm. Grasshoppers and other insects, weeds and grass seeds, green vegetation, berries, and grain picked up in the fields all go to make up the turkey's daily ration. When this natural feed is plentiful, very little need be added until fattening time, except for the purpose of bringing the turkeys every night to roost and to keep them from straying from home. For this purpose one feed of grain every night just before roosting time is sufficient.

One of the greatest difficulties with which turkey growers have to contend is to keep their flocks from wandering over too wide an area and invading neighboring farms. To some extent, feeding heavily night and morning reduces the area over which turkeys range, but even then they often go too far. When turkeys of this kind occur, the most effective plan is to drive them into an inclosure, such as is described for a brooding pen, and keep them there until noon. In warm weather turkeys do most of their ranging early in the morning and by 9 o'clock they are usually as far from home as they will get during the day. As soon as the sun becomes very warm they spend most of their time in the shade until 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when they begin moving toward home, ranging for feed along the way. If the weather is not too warm they do not spend so much time lying in the shade, and consequently range over a larger area and may keep moving away from home until noon. By feeding in the pen every morning they soon learn to go there on coming down from roost and no time is lost in penning them. If they fly out of the pen after being fed, the flight feathers from one wing should be clipped.

AFTER A CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

Whitewash and disinfectants must be used freely about the hog house and yards. If the cleaning and disinfecting is carefully done, it will be able to stock up again within a few weeks after the hogs have stopped dying and suffer no further loss but it is usually best to wait 2 or 3 months before we do this, or depend on the hogs that have survived for a fresh start.

Marketing Apples

It is not too early for apple growers to formulate plans for marketing the crop of the present season.

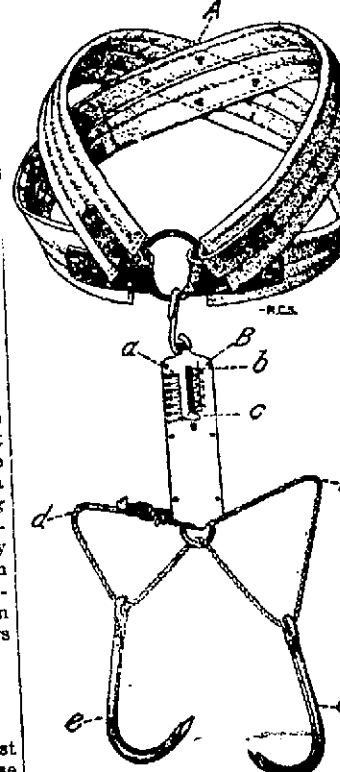

Marketing plans should comprehend picking methods, grading and sizing methods, kind or kinds of packing, types of pack if box packing is contemplated, shipping methods and facilities, storage and methods of marketing the fruit to the best advantage.

The time of picking apples varies considerably with the variety. In any case, however, fruit should be mature before any picking is done. Time of picking should be determined in part, also, by the use to which the fruit is put.

Grading and sizing may be done by machinery. Some form of grading is necessary to realize the highest price. Through proper grading one New York firm received two years ago a minimum of $2.56 a barrel for its fruit and as high as $6.00 a barrel for the best grades. One experiment in honest grading and packing is usually sufficient to convince any grower of the policy of the practice.

The advantages of the various types of storage and the type best suited to his conditions must be determined by the individual. For the commercial grower led storage is by far the best. For the average farmer or the man catering to a small market, a different form of storage is essential.

The co-operative plan of marketing apples has been very successful in some sections.

Drying Vegetables

Economy may be effected by drying vegetables by artificial heat. The simplicity of the method and equipment and the ease with which the dried product is kept makes drying a very practical substitute for canning. Miss Addie D. Root of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture offers a few suggestions for drying vegetables: "When drying string beans or peas a good green color may be preserved by blanching them before placing them in the dryer. (Vegetables may be blanched by placing them in boiling water for a few minutes and then plunging them into cold water.) Prepare the peas and beans as for cooking. Blanch from 2 to 5 minutes and place in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Greens, such as Swiss chard and spinach, makes an attractive dried product. Only fresh greens should be dried. Prepare as for cooking and place in the dryer. Keep at a temperature of from 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Corn should be cooked in boiling water from 8 to 15 minutes or just long enough to set the milk. It is then cut from the cob with a thin, sharp knife and placed in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Vegetables such as carrots and sweet potatoes may be dried. Vegetables of this type dry better when cut into small pieces.

"It requires about three hours to dry vegetables by artificial heat in a simple drying apparatus, which can be made at home. Such a dryer may consist of a series of wooden trays, two inches deep, with screen wire bottoms. The trays should be placed one upon the other and elevated above the stove or other source of heat by a box ten inches deep, from which the top and bottom have been removed, and which should rest on four bricks to permit air circulation under the dryer.

FORAGE FOR CATTLE.

To give one an approximate idea of the value of irrigated land in the matter of forage for cattle, the following figures will show what alfalfa will do on irrigated as compared with common hay on nonirrigated land:

One acre sown to alfalfa and irrigated will produce 10,000 pounds of hay.

One acre in inclosed pasture, 500 pounds.

One acre of range averages 250 pounds.

Or again:

One acre of irrigated alfalfa will feed one steer 400 days.

One acre of inclosed pasture will feed one steer twenty days.

One acre of range will feed one steer ten days.

Or putting it in sheep, it will show: One hundred and sixty acres of irrigated alfalfa will maintain 1,600 sheep one year.

One hundred and sixty acres of inclosed pasture will maintain eighty sheep one year.

One hundred and sixty acres of range will maintain forty sheep one year.

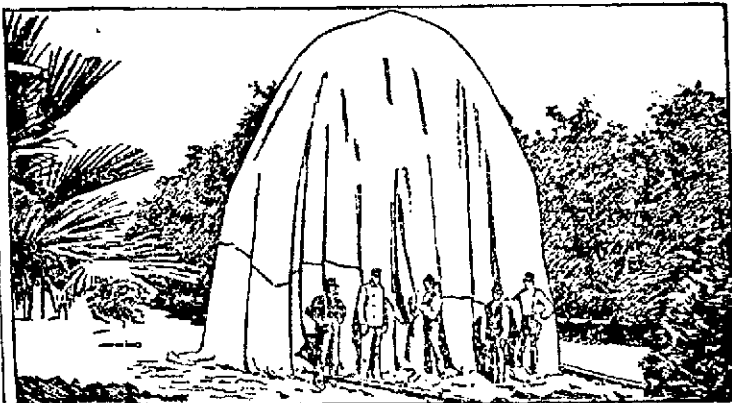

WHY WE HAVE PERFECT CITRUS FRUITS

By C. L. MARLATT.

Scale insect enemies of citrus trees are directly controlled in two ways: (1) By spraying the infected plants with some liquid insecticide; (2) by subjecting them to the fumes of hydrocyanic acid gas, commonly called "gassing."

commercial sulphuric acid (66 per cent) and water. The work is done at night to avoid the scalding which follows day applications, at least in bright sunlight as with spraying. The gassing is often done by individuals or companies who make a regular business of it.

Fumigation Tent in Position on Tree.

The gassing method is undoubtedly the most effective means known of destroying scale insects. It has been in general use in California for more than twenty-five years, and the methods are now thoroughly perfected and highly satisfactory. Gassing is especially desirable for trees that have a dense habit of growth, such as the orange, which develops a large thick head, the spraying of which thoroughly and completely is almost impossible. Furthermore, with gas there is no danger of spoiling the fruit as may happen with improper spraying.

Gassing consists in enclosing a tree at night with a tent and filling the latter with the poisonous fumes generated by treating refined potassium cyanide (98 per cent strength) with much of this work is also done under the direct supervision of the county horticultural commissioners, which gives a greater assurance of efficiency. Where gassing is impracticable, spraying is practiced. The expense of spraying is not heavy compared with that of gassing. On the small fruit ranches spraying is almost always done. In most of the citrus districts of California where spraying is practiced to any extent there are individuals who make a business of treating orchards at a charge of a cent a gallon for the liquid applied, or about double that price when they furnish as well as apply the insecticide. This is usually a very satisfactory way of having the work done.

HELPS FOR THE FARMER'S WIFE.

If milk is used in mixing mustard instead of water it will keep fresh for several days.

To soften fruit jar rubbers, put ammonia in warm water and let them stand in it for ten or twenty minutes.

To remove grease from silk rub a lump of wet magnesia over the spot, allow it to dry and then brush off the powder.

Don't depend upon extra heat when you want water to boil quickly, but add a little salt to the water and watch the gratifying results.

TO CURE COLDS.

As a good preventive of colds in poultry, use copper sulphate one ounce to ten gallons of water or enough potassium permanganate to turn the water blue. Good ventilation and plenty of fresh air are essential in the hen house, but one should guard against excessive drafts.

HOW PLANTS LIVE.

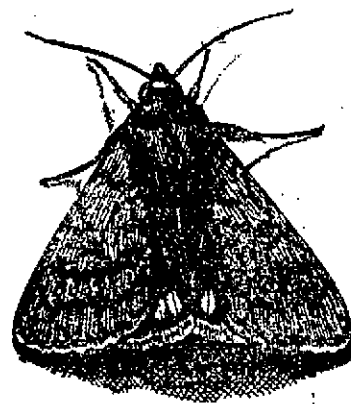

Plants cannot assimilate food elements that exist in the soil until these elements are chemically changed or broken up. Bacteria, air, heat and water are the agents to do this. Only in the liquid form can plants feed upon soil elements. The finer the seedbed the quicker the seed germinates and the faster the plant grows, provided, of course, that the water supply is all right. Every act and condition that reverses this condition of the seed-bed is a hindrance to plant growth.

AN IMPORTANT PROBLEM.

The plentiful supply of good, wholesome fresh water in the home, the stable, and the feed lot is one of the most important problems that confront the up-to-date farmer. Its successful solution will be a factor in keeping him and his family in good health and "at home" on the farm.

The Parent of the Corn Ear Worm

The Corn Ear Worm or Boll Worm is quite destructive in its larval stage throughout the country. It attacks the ear of corn, especially the sweet corns, the cotton, boll, tomato fruit, and sometimes the pods of beans and peas. Its greatest fondness, however, seems to be for sweet corn. Some seasons it is almost impossible to get any absolutely perfect ears of early corn in the gardens on account of this insect. The worm, which varies in color of green, purple and pink, is the larva of an ochre yellow moth marked with black. It is claimed that there are two or three generations per year.

WIRE FENCE AND LIGHTNING DEADLY.

Wire fences increase the dangers of livestock during thunder storms, unless the fences are carefully "grounded."

Such fences may be grounded by running a No. 8 or No. 10 galvanized iron wire from each strand of the fence into the ground. The wire should be twisted two or three times about each strand and should reach to a depth of four or five feet into the ground. If the soil is particularly dry the wire should be sunk much deeper. It should always reach down to moist soil. A crowbar may be used in making the holes. Protecting points about the fence will help to relieve the electric tension and prevent the lightning from striking.

Field fences should be grounded every 30 rods and fences about barnyards and feed lots every 10 rods at least.

SHEEP.

Sheep keeping should be encouraged. No other animal can thrive on such short pasturage as the sheep. Sheep manure is the most valuable of all. On almost every farm there is a brushy field on which sheep could browse eight months of the year.

What Corn Needs

Corn makes its entire growth during the season of highest temperature, growing best when the thermometer registers 80 degrees to 100 degrees F. It cannot grow in early spring or late fall and its growth is retarded during the summer by cold nights or cool weather. It needs its greatest supply of moisture during the summer when droughts are most likely and when rains are less effective because of losses from evaporation. In other words, the heat requirement of corn prevents growth at times when moisture conditions are likely to be most favorable, while lack of moisture frequently retards growth when heat conditions are most favorable. The problem, therefore, where heat is great and moisture deficient, is to store up moisture; and, where moisture is plentiful and heat deficient, so to handle the soil as to prevent moisture from lessening unduly such heat as may be available.

IVY POISONING.

A perfectly harmless and exceedingly useful remedy for inflammation caused by coming in contact with wild ivy is boric acid in solution. Make a solution from boric acid powder, four teaspoonfuls dissolved in a pint of boiling water. When this is cold apply to the affected parts. The skin should be covered with gauze (can be bought by the roll in drug stores), kept constantly wet with cold boric acid solution. If the itching is very intense the parts may be sponged off with a weak solution of alcohol (half water and half alcohol), when the gauze is changed. The gauze should be put on fresh quite frequently if there is much oozing from the little blisters (blisters).

FRUIT PRODUCTION.

The production of apples in this country during the last six years has averaged over 60,000,000 barrels. The estimated value of this apple crop for 1915 was $145,000,000. The product of 1915 was 1,100,000 bushels, and of pears for 1914 was 1,100,000 bushels. Considering all of the hardy fruits of the north and the tropical fruits of the south, what a vast bulk is gathered every year. Surely famine and starvation cannot come to a country thus supplied.

SALISIFY.

The name "salisify" is applied to three distinct vegetables; the common white salisify, known also on account of its flavor asyster plant, or vegetable oyster, black salisify, the Schwarzwurzel of the German, and the so-called Spanish salisify. Since the salisifies are not injured by mild frosts, they may be left in the ground until late winter or early spring.

Mosquitoes Don't Like Yellow

People who wish to avoid the bite of the mosquito should wear yellow. Of all colors the mosquito is most partial to red, especially deep blood red, although the fact has nothing to do with its fondness for blood. For yellow it shows the deepest aversion and shuns it on all occasions. It is said that the seeing power of the mosquito is so keen that it is susceptible to color even in the ordinary darkness of night; hence night dresses or bed coverings of a yellow color will aid in keeping mosquitoes at a respectful distance.

INSECTS HAVE DONE GREAT DAMAGE.

In some sections of the country the currant and gooseberry have almost entirely disappeared. Borers, worms and midew, allowed to have their way unchecked, were too much for the bushes to withstand, and these old-time favorites were allowed to die. If you care enough for these fruits, it will only require a little work and a very small expense for white hellebore, to take care of the currant and gooseberry worms that eat the foliage, and bordeaux mixture will stop the midew on gooseberries.

FARM HOME CONVENIENCES.

The problems relating to the installation of water plumbing, sewage plumbing, lighting, heating, ventilating, etc., of the modern farm house should be more closely investigated by the farmer who intends to build a new house, or who intends to add these modern improvements to a residence already built. He should make a personal study of the whole subject before he contracts with the village hardware man or the town plumber. He will thus be able to decide upon a satisfactory general plan. After having done this, he should not fail to select an intelligent mechanic to do the work, because there is much blundering done by some of the would-be plumbers.

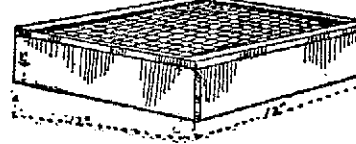

CLEAN POULTRY HOUSES.

The quarters of adult birds should be thoroughly cleaned, sprayed and renovated twice annually. Many poultrymen find it advantageous to spray their houses bi-monthly, thus insuring greater cleanliness. Any of the coal tar products make excellent disinfectants. They can be purchased at hardware stores in convenient packages. Give the birds clean, comfortable quarters and good results will follow.

Much food is ruined by being stored where flies or other insects or rats and mice can get at it. Much cereal food is ruined because it is not protected against weevils or other insects.

Striped Cucumber Beetle and the Squash Bug

The first of these, a biting insect, and the second, a sucking insect, attack melons, cucumbers and squashes; and they are often confounded, both being called "squash-bugs." This is unfortunate, because they call for radically different treatment. We would suggest planting an excess of seed; for the first named insect, dusting plants with one pound of Paris green mixed with fifty pounds of lime or cheap flour. The beetle can be to a certain extent driven away by air-slacked lime alone, dusting it liberally on and about the plants in each hill. In the true squash-bug we would recommend hand-picking of bugs in the early morning, also hand-picking of the large yellow eggs. Destroy all vines after harvesting crop.

Easily made cover which will protect cucumbers and squashes from the destructive beetle which attacks them.

To prevent injury various coverings may be used over the plants. A cheap frame may be made and covered with gauze or similar material and held in place with earth packed about the edge to keep the plants covered. This cover or frame may be used year after year.—F. L. Washburn.

A GREAT HIGHWAY.

Good road advocates should turn their eyes upon the Pacific coast states, where their hobby is reaching a development nowhere else approximated in the United States. The dream of the Pacific coast is for a macadamized, asphalt surfaced highway from Alaska south to the Panama canal. The realization of the project so far is the actual voting by the state of California of a bond issue of $15,000,000 and by the public interest aroused in Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, which promises early legislation for the continuation of the California highway.

WASTE.

Approximately 20 per cent of each potato pared by ordinary household methods is lost in the process. The loss includes much and sometimes all of the portion of the tuber containing important soluble salts. Potatoes that are boiled and baked in their skins lose practically none of their food value.

Plants die from the lack of sunshine.

How Many Horses Have You?

Too many farmers are horse poor. They have not only too many horses, but horses which are not good. In farming a quarter section of land there is no need for more than four horses. Three of these should be able to handle the heaviest work, and an animal heavy enough to do considerable work, yet light enough to do the family driving. Of these heavy horses, at least one should be a good brood mare. While practicing economy in other respects, it is well to study the economical use of horse flesh.

WHITE PINE BLISTER RUST.

The American Forestry association says that unless the ravages of the white pine blister rust are soon stopped all white pines will be lost. This means a great loss to the country, since the New England district has pine worth $75,000,000; the Lakes states, $36,000,000; the western states, $60,000,000; and the national forests, $30,000,000; making a total of $261,000,000. There seems to be no cure for the disease and it spreads rapidly. The only remedy is to remove and burn the infected trees promptly. Currants and gooseberry bushes may harbor one stage of the disease.—LeRoy Cady.

HAVE A SHED FOR THE FARM TOOLS.

Every farmer should have a shed for his tools and the tools should be cleaned and placed in the shed as soon as one is through using them. Often this saves time and delay when the tool is wanted later on.

The paint brush should be used freely on the woodwork and other parts that become worn to the life of the tool. The tool house need not be a costly building. A good roof with a cheap siding will do and any man should be able to put it up at odd times.

DRAINAGE.

Fruit farm drainage is even more important than draining for farm crops, as fruit plants, shrubs, vines and trees will not thrive in wet soil. The outlets of tile drains need looking after several times each year to see that they do not get clogged. Sometimes the outlet tile being exposed to winter frosts, crumbles causing a stoppage of the outlet.

BUCKWHEAT.

Buckwheat is about the easiest crop to succeed with. One item in its favor is that it can be sown at almost any time during the growing season for a cover crop, and can be sown throughout a long season for the grain it produces. Fruit growers should keep on hand a supply of seed buckwheat.

The Future Farmer

The future farmer will be the best educated man in America. He will be a chemist, with knowledge to enable him to handle his soils, his fertilizers and his foodstuffs as to make them yield the maximum of profit. He will be a botanist with knowledge to enable him to take advantage of the laws of heredity to breed disease-resistant and frost-resisting plants. He will keep pace with every movement of the scientific world which can be turned to his advantage. He will be able greatly to increase the quantity and quality of his wheat and corn, vegetables and fruit, cotton and wool, without having to add a single acre to his field.

PASTURING ALFALFA.

Alfalfa should never be pastured the first season, and in most cases it will be best to use it for hay-making during the second season. In order that it may become thoroughly established before animals are allowed to tramp over it, it should never be pastured closely, as this injures the crowns of the plants. Horses and sheep are more likely to do damage to alfalfa than cattle or hogs. With cattle and sheep, care must be exercised to avoid bloating. At first the animals should be turned in for only a short time each day, and when the alfalfa is wet with dew or rain there is still greater need of care to avoid bloating. It is wise to be a little more careful than with clover.

SILLO MATERIAL.

Almost all kinds of building materials are used for silo construction. It frequently happens that one particular type of material becomes practically universal in a particular locality, leading to the belief that no other material will successfully preserve silage. Wood stave silos were among the first to be built above ground. For a number of years they have been advertised and sold in all parts of the country. In some localities farmers will not risk other construction material.

Tests made by the Pennsylvania experiment station to determine the relative value of wood-stave and concrete block silos do not prove one type superior to the other.

GRAFTING PAYS.

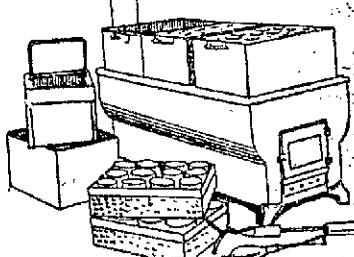

Did you do any grafting? If not, you are the loser. If you have grafted you will find it out and herein lies the danger—your money, labor, interest on the site and trees all go and you are the older and wiser an opportunity. If you are setting a large apple or pear orchard of course buy your trees of some reliable agent or direct from nursery.

Timely Hints for Amateur Canners

In selecting vegetables for canning, use great care to get those as nearly perfect as possible.

Be sure that the vegetables used are fresh.

Grade carefully and avoid waste. Do not scald or blanch longer than necessary. Over-scalding tends to make delicate vegetables, like asparagus, soft.

Small Inexpensive Home Canning Outfit.

Fit all the covers to the jars before filling with vegetables. Be certain that the rubbers to be used are new and elastic, and will stand long boiling.

Do not let vegetables remain in cold dip. Dip and pack at once. Scald and dip only as much as can be packed immediately.

Add salt and boiling water as soon as the can is packed.

Place the rubber and adjust cover loosely and set the jar in the water at once.

Be certain that the false bottom of the canner is at least 1 1/2 inches high. When the water in the canner is boiling, keep the fire even, that the boiling may be continuous but not too violent.

Count the time for cooking from point at which water begins to boil. Seal at once when taken from the canner.

Hold can upside down to see whether it is perfectly sealed.—Miss Mary L. Bull, University Farm, St. Paul.

GET RID OF FLIES.

Flies breed largely in stables and in manure piles. Consequently, stables must be kept free from accumulation of manure. Breeding places, particularly the manure pile, should be treated to kill the fly larvae. One pound of commercial borax will treat 10 bushels of fresh horse manure. Community effort is necessary for efficient control, but farmers especially can do effective work by individual effort.

There is more profit in working the garden than in fishing, and fully as much pleasure for the man who is in love with gardening.

would make it possible to obtain information on the movements of all ships during the night.

While government officials declined to go into details regarding the arrest it was said to be the direct result of the investigation to learn how Germany obtained advance information regarding the sailing and route of the ships which left for Europe with American troops and also the secret destination of the destroyer flotillas which are now taking part in the offensive against German submarines.

Mystery of Chemists Not Cleared. The mystery surrounding the arrest here yesterday of three German chemists had not been cleared today. The men were still confined in a police station, where it was said they were held on orders from the department of justice. Two of the men under arrest are Dr. John P. Kern and Robert Stern. The police refused to make the identity of a third man who was arrested by a secret agent. A large quantity of chemicals is said to have been found in the apartment where the unidentified man was taken into custody.

den sent a telegram to Francis H. Peabody, chairman of the national committee of the National Council of Defense, declaring he might be obliged to take possession of the coal mines in the state in order to enforce the contract he made with the operators. Mr. Peabody in his reply asked the governor to delay, asserting federal action would, no doubt be forthcoming shortly.

Assurance From President. In a telegram to Samuel Insull, chairman of the State Council of Defense, President Wilson also gave assurance that the Illinois coal problem is receiving the most careful attention and everything that can be done will be done.

Many of the 20,000 coal miners who have been on strike in certain districts of Illinois have already returned to work and labor leaders predicted today that others would resume work next Monday.

over the supply and its distribution.

COAL REPORT COMING.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The federal commission, which has finished its investigation of coal production costs, probably will submit its findings to President Wilson in a few days.

The president will take some action in the coal situation early next week. He carried back to the white house from the trade commission a mass of statistics on coal production costs and will go over them tomorrow. His decision probably will be announced Monday.

The president's intention, it was learned today, is to reduce the present prices not only at the mines but of jobbers and retailers. The trade commission's report indicates that operators can sell their bituminous coal at a price far below the maximum of three dollars fixed at a recent conference between mine managers and government officials and still make a handsome profit.

The report will serve to acquaint the president comprehensively with the national fuel situation in relation to the consumer. Government control of the industry in accordance with the provisions of the food control law, now appears imminent.

The situation was gone over at a conference yesterday between the president, Francis S. Peabody, chairman of the coal production committee, of the council of national defense, and John P. Kern, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The president authorized the president to set coal prices from the mine to the consumer and requisition the fuel for sale to the public. Operators and miners, who oppose government price fixing, fear that sale prices will be pushed down to a level where their interests will be jeopardized.

The trade commission's report will say, it is learned, that at present prices operators, jobbers and retailers are reaping exorbitant profits and inequitable distribution is adding to the cost in many sections.

KERN BURIAL IN VIRGINIA

Up to the time of his retirement from the senate in March last, Mr. Kern was majority floor leader and chairman of the democratic conference committee.

He was a native of Indiana, having been born in Alto, Howard county, December 20, 1849.

SKETCH OF SENATOR KERN.

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 18.—Senator John W. Kern was born at Alto, near here, December 20, 1849. While he was still a young man his parents moved to Warren county, Iowa, where they lived on a farm. He started to attend school in Iowa and lived there until he was fourteen years of age, when the Kern family moved back to Alto. When he was fifteen years of age he began teaching school in his home town.

His reputation grew until he was known as one of the ablest and most popular of Indiana. At one time he was city attorney of Kokomo and ran for several other local offices on the democratic ticket.

In 1882 he was elected reporter of the supreme court of Indiana and served four years. He was city attorney of Indianapolis during the administration of Thomas Taggart as mayor. He ran for governor of Indiana on the democratic ticket in 1900 and 1904, being defeated each time. He was running mate of William Jennings Bryan for vice president of the United States in 1908, being defeated again. Opposing the late Senator Benjamin F. Shively, he was a candidate for United States senator before the Indiana legislature in 1909. In 1910 the democratic state convention, over his protest, made him its choice for United States senator, and the legislature of 1911, which was democratic, elected him to that position. He ran for reelection in the first popular election last fall and was defeated by Senator Harry S. New.

On entering the senate, Mr. Kern sprang into the limelight because of his friendship with William Jennings Bryan, and after the democratic gained control of the senate he was majority leader. He was very close to the Wilson administration.

Senator Kern was married twice. His widow is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

RALSTON'S TRIBUTE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Former Governor Ralston was shocked by the news of the death at Asheville, N. C., of John Worth Kern, former United States senator.

"I am saddened by the news of the death of my dear friend, Senator Kern. His death will be the cause of sorrow throughout the country, for he had friends everywhere. My deepest sympathy goes out to his widow and children. Senator Kern was one of the most lovable characters I ever knew. As a public servant few men ranked higher than he did. I know of the high admiration held for him by President Wilson."

aged and two German submarine attacks were without result. No British ships were damaged.

Another bombing raid was carried out Thursday night by British naval airplanes on the railway junction at Thourout, in West Flanders, eleven miles from Bruges. Fires were caused and the British admiralty announced an ammunition dump is believed to have been hit. The British aviators dropped many tons of bombs on their objectives, returning safely.

the result of strenuous hand to hand fighting which cost the attackers a considerable number of dead and a few prisoners.

BRITISH OFFICIAL REPORT.

London, Aug. 18.—The German troops repulsed by the British after sharp fighting, according to the British official statement issued early this morning. The statement follows: "The enemy early today delivered another counter attack against our recently captured positions immediately northwest of Lens. His troops were again completely repulsed after sharp fighting in which we secured a few prisoners. There was considerable hostile artillery activity during the night in this neighborhood and also northwest of Ypres."

ANOTHER BOMBING RAID.

London, Aug. 18.—The admiralty announced that another bombing raid was carried out about midnight Thursday by the naval air service on the railway station and junction at Thourout, a town in west Flanders, 11 miles southwest of Bruges. Fires were caused and it is thought that an ammunition dump was hit and the railway damaged. Many tons of bombs were dropped on the objectives. All machines returned safely.

FRENCH IN NEW GAINS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The French last night made further progress in Belgium north of the road between Bixschotte and Langemarck. It is an important strategic point, east of the Steenbeek river. German attacks on the Aisne front were repulsed.

AIR RAID ALARM IN PARIS.

Paris, Aug. 18.—An air raid alarm was sounded at 2 o'clock this morning. The sky was clear and within a quarter of an hour the hum of defense airplanes could be heard as they circled over the city. At 4:05 bugles were sounded indicating the danger was over.

AMERICAN SAILOR LOST.

Base of the American fleet in British waters, Aug. 18.—The body of James H. Bush, 28 years of age, of Brockton, Mass., a seaman on an American destroyer, has been washed ashore clearing up the mystery of his disappearance ten days ago while on watch. Accidental death by drowning was the verdict at an inquest. It is the first death since the arrival of the flotilla.

NAVAL GUNNER LOST.

An Atlantic port, Aug. 18.—J. L. Squibb, a navy runner detailed to an American steamship that arrived here today from Genoa, was reported by ship officers to have fallen or jumped overboard on August 14. He was last seen by members of the crew at 2 p. m. on that date. Squibb's home was in Joplin, Mo.

FRAUDULENT HEROES.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The Lafayette flying corps, composed of Americans, has become so well known in France and abroad that many pretenders to membership have sprung up, not only here but in the United States. The commander of the corps has received word from New York that various persons are attempting to deceive the public.

HAS IN HAND MAKINGS OF WHITE SLAVE CASE

Captain Henry Stoll, of the Pennsylvania police department, has in hand what looks like the making of a rather substantial white slave case. In the custody of the Pennsylvania police are two youths, Frank McClellan, 19, and Robert Barber, 20, both of Lafayette, Ind., who, with Cora Rice, 18, of the same city, were taken from a Pennsylvania freight train Saturday forenoon by Captain Stoll's men.

The quartet came to Fort Wayne from Lima, Ohio, where they had remained for a day or two after a sojourn since August 2 at Bucyrus, Pa., variously sweating the numbers of the hobo party Captain Stoll made out to learn that the boys bought tickets for themselves and the two girls from Lafayette to Fort Wayne on August 7, by way of the Wabash, and from there to Bucyrus.

They have been at light housekeeping there until a day or two ago, when they returned to Fort Wayne. To Capt. Stoll they said they were going home. The possibility of prosecution under the Mann white slave act lies in the young men having taken the girls from one state to another for immoral purposes. None of them had any money when arrested. One of the girls has been quite ill at Capt. Stoll's office since their arrest here.

Capt. Stoll will report the case to federal authorities and in the meantime the quartet will be turned over to the Fort Wayne city police.

Cora Rice says she was married at the age of fourteen and is the mother of a child now three years of age. Her husband was killed some time ago. Her name before marriage she said was Cora Beaver and she further told Captain Stoll that her father and mother were separated. Her mother now resides in Lafayette and her father in Danville, Ill.

PRESIDENT STUDIES THE I. W. W. SITUATION

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Wilson is making a personal study of the labor situation in the northwest, especially in Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho, where a general strike of the I. W. W. is threatened next Monday.

The president is keeping in touch with the situation through Chief Justice Cuyler, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, his personal investigator, now in the west.

Department of labor conciliators on the ground reported over night that the situation seemed to have changed slightly for the better, although it was still grave. Offers of mediation have been made in some instances, and probably will be made in others today. Department of justice officials, scanning over night reports, saw little change in the situation. A recommendation said to have been reached at a conference between Governor Lister, of Washington, the state attorney general and representatives of the department of justice had not been received here today. The recommendation was to the effect that all strike leaders should be summarily arrested when the strike becomes effective.

In the absence of official confirmation of the report department officials declined to comment on the situation.

At least the Pan-German papers insist that peace on the proposed basis is utterly impossible. The Berlin Tages-Zeitung, in its comment, says the evacuation of Belgium and all occupied regions of France is impossible just because independent Belgium henceforth would be an irreconcilable enemy of Germany, and it must be subordinated to the security of Germany's frontiers. Even the plan of the former German chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, for a Polish protectorate, is rejected because the Poles have shown themselves ungrateful for favors granted them.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The reply of the United States to the pope's peace note will be sent independently and not in connection with any answer from the other belligerents. At least this is the plan at this time, as indicated by Secretary Lansing. A reply may not be expected until the proposal has been carefully considered. It is generally taken to be the fact that the president will consider the opinions of the other allies in making reply and that the diplomatic representatives in Washington are exchanging views of their governments with the state department.

THE MARKETS

Receipt of New Grain Ex- pected to Cause Lower Prices.

Featuring the activities in the local markets Saturday morning was the unsteadiness noted in the oats market. The receipts of the new grain seems to be causing a fluctuation in the quotations. Seven loads were weighed at the city scales Saturday morning, the prices ranging all the way from 60 to 70 cents per bushel. City Weighmaster Skelton states that he looks for lowered quotations next week, as there is little likelihood of the price holding up in the face of the large crop being harvested.

Corn remained steady, one load selling on the city scales for $1.75 per bushel. Both the new and old hay markets remained firm, two loads of the old being weighed at $15 per ton and eight loads of the new at $12 per ton.

INJURED MAN WILL RECOVER FROM WOUNDS
Alfred Foreman Seriously Hurt When Team Runs Away.

Alfred Foreman, the man who was injured Friday afternoon when a team attached to the mowing machine on which he was riding, ran away, will undoubtedly recover, unless infection sets in from the steel blades of the machine.
The accident happened on the Gable farm, south of the city, on the Decatur road. Foreman, who is employed on the farm, was driving the horse-drawn mowing machine. The reins caught in a wheel. Foreman stopped to untangle them and was on the ground when the horses started to run. The injured man attempted to crawl toward the house and was found unconscious by Jacob Gable. He was brought to this city and given medical attention. Foreman is a native of Switzerland.

Winning Life Battle
